The Transvaal War

A NURSE'S EXPERIENCE.

A woman nurse writes from Pietermaritzburg: "If Ladysmith and Kimberley, and far distant Mafeking, were not on the other side, we would bear it more bravely. It, too, all of the agonies of personal suffering were not so insistently present.

"Imagine, if you can, the suffering that can be condensed into five long trainloads of wounded! Imagine what it must be to travel 60 long miles on this beautiful little twist-about-turn-about, veritable-little-corkscrew railway of Natal, after such a fierce battle, for instance, as that of Colenso! All that is possible is done, one is told—yes, one has not the slightest doubt. But the question is What is the possible? "Meet one of those ambulance trains and see at once what has to be coped with; see, too, the wonderful pluck and endurance—the patient, silent suffering—and a new world is opened to one. One begins to feel one knows a little of what our soldiers are made of. Seven poor fellows, wounded to the death, slept out their last sleep on that journey down. Yet in all those train loads, except in one instance, never a sound, never a murmur.

"One man wounded so that he could neither lie nor sit, was hanging in torture, clinging to the straps of the berth, and he alone of all that crowd groaned aloud in his agony, and begged and prayed, for the love of heaven, for mercy's sake, that they would take him out at Maritzburg, instead of forcing him to endure the further torture of another 70 miles to Durban. But alas, where red tape bars the way, what mercy can creep in? He was sent on, and, need I say, died before he reached the port.

"To visit the hospitals, too, is a revelation. The gratitude and the pleasure expressed for the smallest kindnesses and gifts makes one feel more than ever a desire to make the stay in hospital as pleasant, or should we not rather say, as little painful as possible. The very fact of chatting to a cultured woman seems in itself to give pleasure and relief, and the soldiers' simple way of telling one all about how they were wounded and all that happened is very pathetic. One young officer of the Dublin Fusiliers, who was in the Colenso affair, was wounded quite early in the engagement of that terrible Friday.

"A shot through the thigh" as he put it, "smashed up the bone." He lay for an hour close by the river where the hottest fight was raging, exposed to the full blaze of the enemy's fire. One shot went through his boot, another through the fleshy part of the leg. Then a comrade lifted him into a trench filled with dead and dying, and there he lay for six hours in that blazon, without cover and without a drop of water.

"But," said he, "that was not by any means the worst part of my sufferings—that was yet to come.

"After a time the stretcher-bearers came his way, and lifting him gently into a dhoolie, carried him off. As long as they walked life seemed tinged with hope. But suddenly they got within the Boer line of fire. His own bearers were not shot, but two belonging to a neighboring stretcher were shot dead. This very naturally startled his own, and they set off at a run. The poor fellow—he was quite young, only about two or three and twenty—paled again, and shuddered at the thought of it, as he said, with a set face, "Then, by Jove, I knew what torture meant!"

"However, he added a minute after with a bright smile, "I am going to be even with it, you see, for wounded as I was on Friday, my thigh was not set until Sunday afternoon, when I got into hospital here in Maritzburg. And yet I am alive to tell the tale! Seventy miles by rail with a shattered thigh does make one sit up. 'And yet,' he added, 'what am I among so many in a far worse plight than I was? And then, really everyone is so very kind.'"

UNFID TO THE CLIMATE

A Frenchman Finds Canadian Weather Had a Bad Effect on His Health

ST. EUSTACHE, Que., Feb. 12.—Auguste Dubois landed here from France, a perfect stranger to the weather conditions prevailing in this country. The food also differed from that to which he had been accustomed, and his heart being weak, the change had a serious effect upon it. He went to a medical man who did him no good. He went to others with a similar result in each case.

"I had to go to Montreal," he says, "to work for the Grand Trunk in that city and met a man who was suffering the same as myself, but had started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. He told me they were doing him good. He was kind enough to give me a few of them. I took them. I felt much better. I procured a box, and in fifteen days felt like a different man."

Are You Bilious?

A sluggish liver fails to filter the bile from the blood, and when the poisonous matter goes through the body in the circulation, the whole system is tainted and deranged. This is called biliousness and can be completely cured by Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which act directly on the liver making it healthy and active. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. The cheapest medicine in the world.

If people would surprise themselves let them apply themselves intently to some particular object.

Don't Tear Down—Build Up.

The old-fashioned theory of tearing down disease was entirely changed by the advent of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, which cures by creating new rich blood and nerve tissue. Through the medium of the circulation and the nervous system they strengthen and invigorate every organ in the human body.

An Interesting Case.

Mr. W. G. Phyll, proprietor Bodega Hotel, 36 Wellington Street East, Toronto, says:—"While living in Chicago I was in a terrible state with itching and bleeding piles, I tried several of the best physicians and was burnt and tortured in various ways by their treatment to no avail, besides spending a mint of money to no purpose. Since coming to Toronto I learned of Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used but one box and have not been troubled with piles in any shape or form since."
