LIBERALS PCs

27 of the 56 polls before Mr. Mullally finally eased ahead by a slim two-vote margin. The PC candidate edged ahead on the 28th poll heard from, but he caught up with her on the next poll an was never headed the rest of the way.

Apparently the stronger PC polls results came in first, for the latter portion of the returns favored the 31-year old Liberal candidate fairly consistently, and he had built up an unofficial margin of 368 with five polls still to hear from out of the total of 56.

PRINCE COUNTY

The race in the Prince riding was almost a deadlock for approximately one-third of the returns, when MacNaught began to pull gradually ahead. Then the veteran of 12 years in the House of Commons, 1945-57, with nine of them as parliamentary assistant to the minister of fisheries, began to pull ahead steadily and he was looking with appreciation at a margin of 301 votes, when the returning officer closed down for the night with only two polls to hear from out of a total of 95.

A vote of 167 for Mr. MacNaught to 52 for PC opponent G. Lorne Monkley in Slemon Park, the Summerside RCAF centre, helped to give the Liberals a boost on his way to victory.

More than one-half of Mr. Mullally's margin was polled in the four polls nearest his Souris home— Souris, Souris East and Souris River A and B which gave him 196 more than his PC opponent.

Angus MacLean's election was his sixth straight victory which added to the alltime record for the riding he set in 1962, when he became the only man in history to take the riding on five straight occasions.

SMOOTH EFFORT

The news gathering effort worked smoothly and effectively despite the storm which developed suddenly into one of the worst of the season. Returning Officer Frank Bryan set up his office to receive returns from Prince in the Guardian- Patriot office at Summerside and Returning Officer Daniel MacLean, Degree Marsh set up his office in the Guardian- patriot office at Montague to gather the polling results for Kings County.

A. Walthen Gaudet, returning officer for Queens, set up his receiving office in City Hall.

The results in all cases were satisfactory although there were several polls in each riding from which results could not be learned last evening, as a glance at the tabulated summary for each riding will reveal.

It was apparent that the late afternoon storm which developed intensity as it progressed, must have cut down on the voting, particularly in the rural areas where direct roads were already difficult before the storm struck,

PC Caucus Slated Today

Premier Walter R. Shaw said yesterday a cabinet meeting and Conservative House member caucus are scheduled for this morning.

The Legislature sits this afternoon at 2.30 and it is expected that the new Election Act will go into the committee stage for second reading.

Premier Shaw said there is a possibility that the government's 1963-64 budget will be brought down this week.

Kings Teacher For Retarded In Training

O'LEARY — Miss Carolyn Sullivan, Montague, who is in training as a teacher of mentally-retarded children, is at present associated with Miss Beverley MacGregor, teacher of the West Prince day training classes for retarded children in O'Leary, Alberton and Tignish.

For the last seven months Miss Sullivan has trained at the Sherwood Hospital and later will attend the Nova Scotia training school, Truro, for seven weeks and then will complete her training at the University of Toronto.

On returning to the Island, she will take up teaching duties at the Montague and Souris day- training schools.

Tignish Group Attends Play

TIGNISH — A large turn out of students and teachers from the Tignish area attended the Shakespearean play "The Merchant of Venice" that was staged by the St. Dunstan's Drama Society at O'Leary Regional High School, Saturday.

Fine comments were heard from all who had attended. Rev. David MacDonald, Alberton, who assisted in bringing the play to O'Leary was on hand to transport some of the elementary students from the village.

HOWLING

also unhurt. Residents of Murray River drove the students to their homes in their private automobiles.

Jack Boomhower, plant superintendent for the Maritime Electric Company late last night reported that all maintenance crews were kept busy throughout last evening trying to keep power service to all sections of the city.

He said that from shortly after the supper hour they were getting reports of blackouts in scattered sections of the city, and as fast as line crews were able to restore power to one area, a report would be received of another line out.

Shortly before midnight, power was off along the east end of Longworth Avenue and out the Mt. Edward Road, also a large section of Elm Avenue.

RURAL AREAS

In the rural districts, due to telephone communications being out to several localities, Mr. Boomhower said it was not possible to indicate what the situation was.

At 11 o'clock last night it was known that all the Keppoch area was blacked out, and also the same situation existed from Hunter River to Rustico.

Due to the clogged condition of all highways, line crews will be unable to get out of the city to repair the downed lines, until government plows open the roads, Mr. Boomhower said.

The government plow dispatcher said that all roads were blocked on the Island last night and plows would only operate in case of emergency. The plows were to start clearing roads as soon as the visibility improves.

The Charlottetown detachment of the RCMP stopped patroling the highway at 9.00 last night and were only on stand by for emergency calls.

The Borden Ferry was slowed by poor visibility at 7.00 p.m. last evening and made her final crossing then. The CNR dispatcher also reported that yard crews in Borden and Tormentine had stopped work and the mainland train was 55 minutes late arriving in town due to the boat being late.

PHONE LINES DOWN

Walter Auld, manager of Island Telephone said that telephone communication with the eastern end of the Island was poor and there were lines down in Montague, Murray River, Vernon River, and Eldon. Communications in and around Charlottetown were cut off at 11.30 last night, but communication with Prince county was still maintained up to press time, Mr. Auld said that crews would start repairing lines in the morning.

Souris reported that all roads were blocked in that area and there were six power failures. There was also trouble with telephone communications and it is quite probably that schools in that district would be closed today.

Summerside reported at 12.00 last night that all roads were blocked in Prince County and that traffic on the highway was at a stand-still.

Streets in Charlottetown were heavy, with many on the outskirts blocked.

Tignish Air Cadet Squadron Will Host Drill Competition

TIGNISH — The annual drill competition for the three Island air cadet squadrons will be held in Tignish, April 27. This was announced by Flt.-Lt. Roy MacLeod of Air Cadet Squadron 641 at the Tignish Canadian Legion meeting.

The competition will be held on the grounds of the Church of St. Simon and St. Jude, and a large number of spectators is expected.

Following the competition there will be a banquet for the officers, cadets and members of the sponsoring committee. Plans for this have been made by Flt.-Lt. MacLeod and Adjutant Edward Tremblay.

The legion branch decided to have its hall redecorated as part of the spring cleaning program.

The members decided to hold their annual carnival Aug. 7. The meeting was presided over by Reginald Eldershaw, president.

LACK OF

The Liberal forces made further gains in Ontario and Quebec—mostly from the Conservatives.

SOCREDS LOSE GROUND

But some of their gains were at the expense of Social Credit in Quebec—the surprise party of last year's election. Its strength in the province dwindled to 20 from 26. Firebrand Real Caouette, the party's deputy leader, was returned by a wide majority in Villeneuve, but many of the winning Social Crediters had their vote margins whittled down.

In Quebec the Liberals gained 13 seats — seven from Social Credit and six from Conservatives. But Social Credit gained two others from the Liberals.

In Ontario the Liberals gained seven Conservative - held seats and one from the NDP, but the Conservatives captured two Liberal seats to cut the net Liberal gain in the province to six.

In British Columbia, where 22 seats were at stake, the first 15 seats decided showed only one change—the Liberal capture of Conservative-held Victoria.

Among the prominent Liberals elected—many of them considered likely cabinet timber—were former health minister Paul Martin in Essex East, former immigration minister J. W. Pickersgill in Bonavista-Twillingate, financial spokesman Walter Gordon in Toronto Davenport, former transport minister Lionel Chevrier in Montreal Laurier, former associate defence minister Paul Hellyer in Toronto Trinity, and two men who were deputy ministers under former Liberal governments —Charles M. Drury in Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount and Mitchell Sharp in Toronto Eglinton.

Six ministers suffered personal defeat Monday: External Affairs Minister Howard Green, Postmaster-General Ellen Fairclough, Defence Production Minister Raymond O'Hurley, Immigration Minister Richard A. Bell, Forestry Minister Martial Asselin and Minister Without Portfolio Frank McGee.

The only cabinet seat undecided Monday was that of Finance Minister George Nowlan in the Nova Scotia riding of Digby - Annapolis - Kings. Mr. Green was second only to Mr. Diefenbaker in cabinet seniority and Mrs. Fairclough was the first woman ever to become a federal cabinet minister.

A majority of the Conservative cabinet were personally re-elected, including Fisheries Minister J. Angus MacLean, Revenue Minister Hugh John Flemming, Mines Minister Paul Martineau, Minister Without Portfolio Theogene Ricard, Transport Minister Leon Balcer, Labor Minister Michael Starr, Health Minister J. Waldo Monteith, Defence Minister Gordon Churchill, Northern Affairs Minister Walter Dinsdale, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton and Veterans Minister Marcel Lambert.

WEATHER

HALIFAX (CP) — The weather office says gale force winds will continue in Prince Edward Island and Eastern Nova Scotia overnight. Snow will change to showers or snowflurries. The snow in the northern regions will become intermittent today. However, a further accumulation of four to eight inches may occur in Prince Edward Island and Eastern New Brunswick.

Regional forecasts:

Prince Edward Island: Snow changing during the morning to scattered snowflurries or showers. Little change in temperature; northeast gales 45 with gusts to 70 diminishing during the morning to southeast winds 30 with gusts to 50 in the afternoon to west 20 with gusts to 40. Low-high at Charlottetown 27 and 35.

High tide today at Charlottetown at 11:22 a.m. and 11:48 p.m. At Rustico at 6:33 a.m. and 7:29 p.m. Summerside tide eighteen minutes later than Charlottetown. Sun rises today at 5:33 and sets at 6:31.
