Maritime Federation Of Agriculture

The annual meeting of the Maritime Federation held in Charlottetown last Tuesday brought together representatives of farm organizations to jointly consider problems affecting Maritime agriculture.

At the Directors meeting following, Louis O'Connor, past president of the P. E. I. Federation was elected president of the Maritime organization. Mr. O'Connor's appointment is a well deserved recognition of the quality of leadership displayed as head of the P. E. I. organization.

While the Maritime Federation is not so closely linked with the individual farmer as is the case in P. E. I. yet, nevertheless, its officers keep in very close touch with any developments that may affect agriculture in the Maritimes.

The resolution considered at this meeting will be discussed at the Eastern conference in Montreal and will serve as a basis for developing the policy of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Among the resolutions considered and passed at Moncton were the following:
A request for the continuation of the freight assistance policy on feed grains as a permanent feature of our economy.

The Maritime Federation was also asked to secure an accurate breakdown on the cost involved in marketing Western grain.

In considering the marketing wanted a reduction of tariffs on goods from the Sterling Areas, more barter agreement with foreign countries and an increasing use of food and agriculture organizations of the United Nations to make supplies of food available in deficiency areas.

The meeting felt that the manufacturing industry has been pushing up prices in anticipation of price control and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture was asked to watch carefully such increases particularly on fertilizers and basic farm supply materials.

A demand was also made that the Federal Government be asked to investigate recent increases in fertilizer prices.

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture was asked to investigate a more equitable basis for establishing freight rates as an alternative to the percentage increases now causing such a marked handicap to the extremities of the country.

Resolution endorsing quota marketing of potatoes and the control of the Cape Tormentine-Borden Ferry by a commission or the Department of Transport rather than the C. N. R. were passed.

1951 Census
In June this year the Dominion census taken every ten years will attempt not only to accurately determine our population but also make an inventory of what the nation has in the way of resources.

Before the enumerator calls the farmer will be provided with a form containing some 360 questions, answers to which are expected to be filled in.

Machinery Investment
An Ontario expert on farm economics has offered the following suggestion as to what percentage of farms' capital should be invested in land, buildings, livestock, machinery, feed and supplies.

This gentleman suggests that the proper proportion is 50% in land and buildings; 30% in livestock; and 12% in machinery, 8% in feed and supplies. A practical example to show how this would work if we consider the case of a farmer whose total investment is $20,000. The farm and buildings should be worth $10,000, his livestock $6,000, and the machinery $2,400. On P. E. I. it would appear that our investment in machinery is on the average much greater than the 12% suggested. As for farm success the following was suggested: "Keep as much livestock as your farm will economically carry; use just as little machinery as you can make do with, and your farm will very likely pay."

Our Annual Meeting

The annual meeting held last Thursday was well attended and discussions indicated a good understanding of Federation activities and agricultural problems.

Addresses by the Hon. Mr. Baker, W. R. Shaw, and Mrs. Malcolm MacLeod were listened to with close attention. The Hon. Mr. Baker's statement that it was the intention of the Department to provide adequate veterinary services was an encouraging one. The Minister intimated also that consideration would be given the problem of providing better sites for the use of cattle breeders in this Province.

Mrs. MacLeod, and W. R. Shaw demonstrated their ability to make good use of their experience and observations in Europe.

The resolutions passed at the meeting commended the Potato Marketing Board for its work and also suggested that the Board consider carefully the quota marketing of potatoes and the registration of growers.

Grassland improvement was dealt with in resolution calling for action by the Provincial Department of Agriculture and the Charlottetown Experimental Station in providing information and guidance designed to create interest in this important phase of agriculture.

The Public Utilities Commission was asked to make a survey of the actual condition and improvement required on one rural telephone company. This survey would serve to provide information for all the others. The committee was also asked to take steps to advise the rural telephone company of the necessity of improvement in their facilities.

The committee also favored the control of the car ferry service by a Commission rather than by the C. N. R.

A resolution supporting the demand for the County Potato Dealers for improvement in wharf and shed facilities at Summerside was also passed.

At the meeting of Provincial Directors - Charles Yeo, Sherbrooke, was elected president, with Louis McGuire, Morell, and Earl Ings, Mount Herbert, as vice-presidents. The executive of the Provincial Federation now consists of Charles Yeo, Louis O'Connor, Louis McGuire, Earl Ings, Mrs. Russell Roper, Frank Jardine, Ernest Underhay, R. A. Profit and E. D. Reid.

The members of the policy committee had a difficult task to perform, their report contained among other suggestions the following: "Education is the basis of success in any undertaking and we must realize that there is a great need of Federation field men whose job it would be to keep in close touch with individual districts by being available for meetings and explaining Federation policies and the problems dealt with by the Directors."

Winter Parking
A practice which a good many farmers are forced into by circumstances is the parking of autos on the highway in winter. This practice is contrary to traffic regulations and leaves the owner liable not only to the payment of fines but also to the risk of having his vehicle damaged and possibly also liable to action by others colliding with his machine.

It would appear to be a wise precaution if it were possible to keep cars and trucks off the roadside particularly at night.

Concept Of Unity In Education Emphasized

The following excerpts from the Presidential address of Dr. L. W. Shaw, Deputy Minister and Director of Education for this Province, are from the recently issued post-convention number of "Canadian Education", containing the official report of the 27th annual convention of the Canadian Education Association at Vancouver, B.C., last autumn, at which Dr. Shaw presided.

"The Canadian Education Association never attempts to lay down a blueprint which would add, as a whole or for any Province or group of Provinces. Without infringing upon the rights of any, however, I believe that this Association can, and indeed should, study the pattern of Canadian education; for there is such a pattern despite the fact that we have eleven different systems. Without presuming to indicate to any Province what it should or should not do, the C.E.A., as I think of it, can make at least one valuable contribution which I should like to mention.

"Many of you, no doubt, are familiar with a recent book by Jesse Stuart, the Kentucky mountain school teacher, in which he tells of his experience as a teacher and to which he gives the title 'The Thread That Runs So True'. Stuart tells us that he got the title on the first day he taught school, as he listened to the mountain children playing a game accompanied by a jingle which began: 'The needle's eye that does supply the thread that runs so true, cannot send his mind to school and keep his body, his interests and his aptitudes at home. We must send the whole person to school, and the education experiences through which we lead him, whether inside the school or out, must take into consideration the whole being.

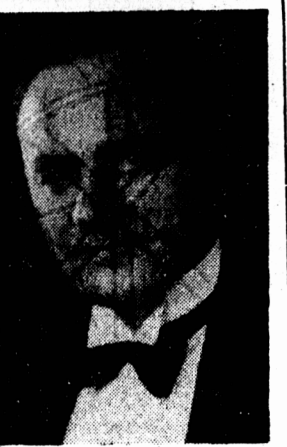

"Is the school, then, the only educational agency? Certainly not. The home, the church, the community with all its agencies good or bad, are all co-partners with the school in the great work of education. The Home and School Association is founded upon that very assumption. Within the framework of the school we find convenient divisions - elementary, secondary, university, vocational, professional, cultural, physical, mathematical, scientific, classical - all convenient but terribly dangerous if we who educate, whether inside the school or out, are not working in close partnership with all others interested in education.

"It is gratifying to note, however, that although there is that tendency to think of education in terms of a public meeting, all are welcome.

CHILDREN'S ART CENTRE - The new session of children's art classes opened this week at the Art Centre. Children from six to thirteen years of age are registered. This week all the classes have had some practice working with modelling clay, and next week will work on a project which will extend over a period of nearly two months. Activities for the 6, 7, and 8 year old class will centre around their idea of a home, while the 9 and 10 year old children will illustrate the essential services in a small community - making models and paintings of the streets, buildings, etc. Children registered in the 11, 12, and 13 year class will learn something of color and design as it is applied to every day objects.

ROAD REPORT - Driving conditions on Prince Edward Island highways have, improved in the past 24 hours. Centre sections on paved roads are becoming bare, affording better traction. Sanding crews have covered all hills and curves on main highways, as icy areas still exist in sections. Buses are running on schedule on all main highways. Route 1, Summerside to Tignish, icy areas still exist on this highway, but wheeling is very good. Route 2, Charlottetown to Summerside and Borden, good travelling on this highway with some icy sections. Route 2A, Charlottetown to Borden via Bonshaw, good wheeling right through to Borden. Route 3, Charlottetown to Montague, continuing onto terms of these divisions which have been cited, there is on the other side a steadily increasing effort on the part of individuals, organizations, and institutions to take the more comprehensive view based upon the concept of unity.

"We see it, for example, in the field of secondary education in the composite school program, rather than in the so-called academic schools on the one hand and the so-called vocational schools on the other. How refreshing it is to be able to report the interest and co-operation of industry and labour on the one hand, and the Universities Conference on the other to the end that this unity might be strengthened.

"Is the university, for example, concerned with secondary school or elementary school education? Most certainly it is - not only because it draws its student body from these schools, but as well because the school is just a part of all the experiences and activities and discipline which are being provided for an ever-increasing number of young people whether or not they are proceeding to the university.

"I think that this viewpoint with reference to the 'oneness' of the educational process is well developed in an article by Hesse entitled 'Education and Economic Life' and appearing in the Year Book of Education for 1948. This refers to a conflict between vocational education but it illustrates well the point we are considering: 'We have seen that, even as in England and Russia where the contrast between 'liberal' and 'vocational' education was marked in a particularly strong way, recent developments move in a direction of overcoming the traditional antinomy. English educationists, just as their American colleagues, recognize now that 'general' and 'vocational' education can and ought to be blended. They even seek for an organic 'synthesis' of both.

"Again, says Hesse in further discussing this wasteful conflict among those who educate. 'If a subject (whether as theoretical as Greek grammar or as eminently practical as cooking) is taught with regard to the inner development of the pupil's personality the teaching belongs to general or liberal education. If, on the contrary, the same material is taught first and foremost for the sake of an outward aim as a mere utility - the teaching is not liberal but vocational.'

"Assuming that the individual learner is a unit or entity and should be developed as such, assuming that individuals differ in interests, aptitudes, and types of ability, and assuming further the 'oneness' of education, then it would seem that education today has at least two major concerns - one the kind of teaching that shall be done, and the other the maintaining of that trend of unity throughout the entire program."

Route 5 to Cardigan, Dundas, Anandale and Rollo Bay, good wheeling all the way. Route 4, Charlottetown to Wood Islands, Murray Harbour, Murray River and to Montague, this highway is very good. Eldon, gravelled highway from Eldon will be icy in sections. Route 6, Hunter River to Rustico, hills have been sanded, remaining portion is icy, drive with care.

Christmas At The Protestant Orphanage

The children of the P. E. I. Protestant Orphanage are again indebted to their many friends for a very happy Christmas season.

The festivities began on December 17th when ten children were guests of the Garrison N.C.O.'s Mess in Charlottetown, where they had supper and all received presents. The same day, the children who remained at home were treated to a Band Concert by members of the Recce Band, Mary Osborne, the Chamberlain sisters, the Weatherlie family, and the program concluded with a visit from Santa Claus, who delighted them with toys, apples, candy and chocolate dips.

A generous donation of fruit and candy presented by the Business and Professional Women's Club, who also were present at this time, was greatly enjoyed the following day and for the week.

Six of the children attended and much enjoyed the Candlelight Service at St. James Church, while another group of six equally enjoyed the Candlelight Service at Trinity United Church.

Six boys were entertained at luncheon at the Charlottetown Hotel as guests of the Kinsmen and greatly appreciated both the excellent meal and the sociability of their hosts.

All the school age children were entertained by the Girl Guides of Trinity Church, under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Cudmore; very enjoyable eats were provided and Santa Claus arrived just in time to distribute gifts to all.

School closed Friday when all were pleased to have an Album of Records of well known Christmas Carols, the gift of Miss E. L. Beers, former Matron, and were treated to a lunch.

The children's closing concert was postponed till the Friday following Christmas in order to extend the Christmas activities over a longer period.

Rev. H. E. D. Ashford, most thankfully, visited the Orphanage Sunday the 24th and conducted a pre-Christmas service of worship, which received the appreciative attention of all the children.

Due to the generous donations of money listed elsewhere, it was possible for the children to have a beautiful Christmas dinner.

Christmas morning while excitement was still high after stockings had been opened, representatives of the Gyro Club and Royal Arch Masons, made their annual pilgrimage to the Orphanage, the Gyros bringing gifts which were distributed by Santa Claus. The men spent some time visiting with the children, many of whom were wearing leather bedroom slippers, 33 pairs of which were provided through the generosity of the Masons, who also provided a treat of apples, oranges, nuts and candy.

During the week, seven boys attended a camp reunion meeting at the Y. M. C. A. where they enjoyed meeting with friends they had made last summer.

The holiday activities were concluded Friday evening when the children presented their School Concert to friends from Charlottetown and Mt. Herbert whom it had been possible to contact.
