LETTUCE ROLLS

There is rather a new turn you give to the familiar salad of lettuce and cream cheese. The little rolls, with their bright bands of color, look quite appealing and attractive—and of course the cheese is them put real tissue building material into the dish, though without detracting at all from its light character.
1 cup cottage cheese
1/2 cup salad dressing
Salt
Lettuce
Cress
Combine cottage cheese and salad dressing and season with salt. Spread on waxed lettuce leaves of good size. Roll each leaf as you would a jelly roll. Secure in place with a stick of pimento. Serve rolls shredded lettuce.

ADJOURNED MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

An adjourned meeting of the Summerside Town Council was held last evening with His Worship Mayor Robinson in the chair and all Councilors present.
A motion moved by Coun. Grady and seconded by Coun. MacKay that the tender sent in by Mr. Fred MacLeod for the painting of the recently repaired basement of the Town Hall be accepted. Coun. MacKay stated that he had begun the work of putting the park and bandstand in repair in preparation for the new Summer side band who will make their initial public appearance on June 7th. The Council ratified this move and gave Coun. MacKay authority to see that the work be completed after hearing the estimates of the total expenditure necessary. Coun. MacKay congratulated the Street Committee on their fine work in connection with the arrangement of the High School grounds. He then made a motion that the deeds for the entire property be secured which was seconded by Coun. Nicholson and carried.
Coun. Carruthers gave notice of a bye law to regulate street traffic throughout the town. A motion to this effect will be put at the next meeting. Coun. McNeill made a motion that the slip owned by Emmanuel Gallant at Mitchell's Creek be purchased for $25, and put in repair. He pointed out that this would eliminate the original long haul in securing sand by way of the seaward road. The motion was seconded by Coun. MacKay and carried.

A brief review of the work done at the electric light and power plant and at the pumping station of putting the grounds in better condition was taken. This work has been under the supervision of Mr. Smith, a landscape artist who just recently came out from England. It was generally agreed that the work had been very satisfactorily and competently performed.
Considerable discussion then took place concerning the wages which had been paid truckmen on this job. Coun. Grady pointed out that a standard wage is set for truckmen and that this had been violated. His Worship and several other Councilors pointed out the benefits to the laborer of this work at a time when work is not plentiful, how it had been evenly distributed and how the limited sum of money available for work had been so well divided. Coun. McNeill stated that he had surveyed the situation personally and had spoken to the men on the job who seemed well satisfied. Coun. Carruthers stated he had received a request that the assessment be reviewed and raised if necessary. The request met with disapproval.
It was moved by Coun. Schurman and seconded by Coun. MacNeill that the meeting adjourn.

Released Last July
Ryan was released from the Kingston Penitentiary last July. Department of Justice officials stated today that his parole originated in routine manner. The prisoner's good conduct gained the notice of the parole board; the penitentiary officials gave him an excellent record; his former confessor, who was prepared to assume complete responsibility for him.
Thus started the campaign to restore liberty to the young lifer whose crimes were believed to have belonged definitely to the period of his youth, and for the repetition of which no fear whatever need be entertained. An obstacle was encountered, however, in the attitude of the Government. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, then minister of justice, was not disposed to be inconsiderate towards Ryan, but he was, above all, sensible of his responsibility to law-abiding citizens in the matter of releasing among them a man of the prisoner's dangerous type. Mr. Bennett was similarly minded.
The pressure for the parole, however, would not abate, but continued to roll up in the form of a monster tide of humanitarian sentiment. By this time the young lifer had attracted the active interest of Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., who raised his case on the floor of Parliament. Col. Harry Mullins, now Senator and then M.P. for Marquette, also began to be sympathetic.

FOREST FIRE CLAIMS FIVE LIVES IN N.Y.

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
NEW GRETTA, N. J., May 25—A forest fire which officials called one of the worst in New Jersey history smoldered in the southern part of Ocean County tonight, burning itself out after taking five lives and ravaging 15,000 acres of pine woodland.
The disastrous flames were brought under control shortly after noon but more than 750 fire fighters, wearying from 48 hours of fierce battle, continued to patrol the area to prevent a new outbreak.
No estimate of the property damage was available but besides the woodland a few unoccupied houses and scores of hunting shacks and outbuildings were destroyed. A dozen settlements and municipalities, threatened with destruction last night and again today, were saved.

Three of the five dead were Civilian Conservation Corps workers attached to the Bass River camp. They were identified as John T. Lassalle, 20, and Edward F. Sullivan, 20, both of New Brunswick, N. J., and Stanley Carr, 22, of Waretown, N. J.

The other victims were Kingsley White, 38, of Whitesville, a civilian volunteer, and Ira Morey of West Creek, a state fire ranger.
Eight other fighters, six of them CCC men, were confined at the camp Dix hospital for treatment of burns. Officials, who had first reported two fire wardens and more than a dozen CCC workers missing, announced this afternoon all were accounted for.
The state forest fire fighting service said the worst previous fire was in 1930, also in Ocean County. In that conflagration, 170,000 acres of forest were ravaged.
The men who were burned to death and injured in the present fire built a backfire to check the onrushing flames, officials said, and were trapped when the wind suddenly shifted from west to north-east.

Ryan's Downfall May Have Effect On Parole System

OTTAWA, May 26.—The story of Norman "Red" Ryan's fatal relapse into crime and gun violence has struck Parliament Hill like a thunder bolt and shook the entire system of penitentiary parole, built up over many years to its very foundation.
"Red" Ryan was regarded by that system as its prize exhibit. A model prisoner for years in Kingston, evidencing all the appearances of real religious conversion, he became an individual upon whom parole officials doted, declaring that he could be released with safety to law-abiding citizens—and fighting the Government until his release was finally obtained.
Lieut.-Col. W. B. Megloughlin, who was warden of the penitentiary while Ryan was serving his time, summed up the situation briefly tonight when he commented in discussing the case with the writer:
"I don't know any convict who ever left Kingston with better backing. He had any number of influential friends prepared to take an interest in him. He has certainly let everybody down with a thump."
As a result of his failure, it is certain that there will be a broad parliamentary discussion during the present session with a view to appraising, overhauling, perhaps even scrapping in its present form, the existing system under which penitentiary prisoners are paroled. It will be held probably in connection with the voting of the penitentiary estimates and will be wholly non-partisan.

Program Details
OTTAWA, May 26—No recommendations with respect to program details, networks or time on the air, were made by the Commons committee on radio whose report was tabled today. It was desired, Chairman Arthur Beaubien said, to encumber the proposed Radio Corporation with instructions on matters which would ultimately be for the governing body to decide.
During the committee hearings there were numerous submissions that the coast-to-coast network of the commission be extended to as much as 16 hours a day instead of the approximately six hour evening hook-up as at present.
There were also submissions recommending that the commission or whatever body replaced it, concentrate on high quality national programs with full coverage to all parts of Canada, and leave the field of commercial broadcasting entirely to private stations.
Pending the enactment of necessary legislation to effect whatever changes Parliament may decide upon as a result of today's report, Radio Commission programs will go on without interruption. It is assumed that the physical and personnel set-up of the existing administration will be absorbed by the new organization when it comes into being.

Expresses Satisfaction
OTTAWA, May 26—Alan B. Plaunt, honorary secretary and spokesman for the Canadian Radio League, tonight expressed satisfaction in the report of the special committee on broadcasting which was tabled in the House of Commons today.
Some of the principal changes proposed were suggested in a brief presented by Mr. Plaunt on behalf of the league, and that organization's recommendations figured largely in the 1932 investigation by parliamentary committee.
Herbert Wilton, Conservative member for Hamilton East, sought to make a statement on press reports of the proposal before regular business of the House started, but members on all sides shouted "order," and he took his seat.

Uninterested
OTTAWA, May 26—Canada's House of Commons today was not even interested in the recent proposal of United States representative Slovitch looking to union of Canada and the American republic.
Herbert Wilton, Conservative member for Hamilton East, sought to make a statement on press reports of the proposal before regular business of the House started, but members on all sides shouted "order," and he took his seat.

OTTAWA, May 26—The Canadian Radio Commission, slated to disappear if the recommendations of the Commons committee on broadcasting are adopted, was created in 1932, following the report of a parliamentary committee of that year.
It was appointed to carry out a gradual nationalization of radio facilities and was clothed with wide powers at once to acquire and control certain existing facilities and generally regulate all broadcasting.
Hector Charlesworth, then editor of Toronto "Saturday Night," was chosen as chairman, Thomas Maher, Quebec forestry engineer and business promoter as vice-chairman and Col. W. Arthur Steel, a technical officer of the Department of National Defence, as third member of the commission.
Mr. Charlesworth and Col. Steel have been with the commission since its inception but the vice-chairmanship has changed hands three times. Mr. Maher resigned in 1934 and his place was taken by Jacques Cartier of Montreal who resigned just before the general election campaign last fall. The vacancy was filled by the appointment of Col. Charles A. Chauveau, member of a Quebec city law firm.
Mr. Charlesworth and Col. Steel were witnesses before the committee on several occasions but Col. Chauveau was not called.
The commission acquired ownership or established six key stations in Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Windsor and Vancouver, and through co-operation with privately owned stations conducted daily coast-to-coast network programs. Its staff grew to nearly 140 persons scattered throughout Canada with headquarters in Ottawa.

SUMMERSIDE, P. E. I.

STORMY SESSION OF RAILWAYS COMMITTEE

Chairman and Trustees of C. N. R. To Be Given Opportunity To Explain System Handling.

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
OTTAWA, May 26—The chairman and trustees of the Canadian National Railways will be given an opportunity next Tuesday to explain their handling of the government-owned system since taking office.
After a stormy meeting of the House of Commons committee on railways and shipping today it was decided to hear statements by C. P. Fullerton, chairman of the board, F. K. Morrow and J. Edouard Labelle, trustees.
They will give separate statements which will first go to railways minister C. D. Howe and Sir Eugene Fiset, chairman of the committee. The minister and chairman will thus be seized of their contents and the former will be in a position to reply to them before the committee, if he desires to do so, at the same meeting they are presented.
Practically the entire sitting of the committee today was occupied in dealing with the question of whether Mr. Fullerton should be heard. Chairman Fiset ruled a discussion precipitated by Hon. H.

A. Stewart (Cons., Leeds) was out of order because it hinged upon remarks made in the House by Mr. Howe in moving second reading of the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific bill.
In his speech Mr. Howe stated: "It is common knowledge that the three directors to whom the direction of the railways was entrusted as a result of the 1933 act have made no real progress toward improvement of our railway situation." They had failed, he said, "to achieve any substantial co-operative economies to secure which was the principal object of their appointment."
As the legislation on which Mr. Howe was speaking when he made these statements was not before the committee, Chairman Fiset took the position they should not be discussed nor should the railway chairman be questioned thereon.
His views met with support from some members and opposition from others.
Chairman Fullerton assured the committee his statement would not refer to the minister of railways at all. "I don't want to get into a cat and dog fight with the minister," he said. "That would not be good for the railway. It would only hurt it. All this is only hurting the system." He would deal with management, financing and general running of the railway since taking office, he said.

AMUSING GUEST-TOWELS
You may see them in an Edinburgh shop window—quaint, amusing little guest towels. Against a background of azure blue or turkey red—yes, really—are pictured ships in full sail or jolly little Jack Tars.
They certainly introduce a new note of gaiety into bathroom or bedroom.

All-Out-of-Sorts! Nervous, Irritable, Peevish!

MILBURN'S HEALTH NERVE PILLS
This may be due to lack of proper rest, the worry over business, the too free use of tea, coffee or tobacco, the keeping of late hours, the never ending drudgery of housework, but whatever the cause you have been putting too heavy strain on the nervous system.
If you are tired, listless, irritable, distressed, you will find in Milburn's H. & N. Pills a remedy to make the weak nerves strong, the shaky nerves firm, a medicine that will help put you on your feet again.
