Doctors now agree that consumption is curable.

Three things, if taken together, will cure nearly every case in the first stages; the majority of cases more advanced; and a few of those far advanced.

The first is, fresh air; the second, proper food; the third, Scott's Emulsion of cod-liver oil with hypophosphites.

To be cured, you must not lose in weight, and, if thin, you must gain. Nothing equals Scott's Emulsion to keep you in good flesh.

Making the Most of Life.

The Bible sometimes gives account of lives centuries long, yet about all it finds to say of some of the men who were so long on earth is that they were born and that they died; their many years yielded no history worth the telling. But there are people who find something interesting in every experience, who extract real delight from commonplace things, who, if they have few events that are fitted to give zest to life, make the most of those few.

A young friend of mine is one of the people who are making life worth living, says a writer. If she has any pleasure in view, she gets great happiness in looking forward to it; when it comes, she enters into it with all her heart; when it is over, she passes it in review and repeats its experience to others, having the faculty of making tame events vivid and interesting, droll and laughing in the telling.

In this way she triples her life's value and sees no dull days. Trouble and sorrow she is obliged to meet; but I have noticed that she bears them bravely, and, unlike joyful experiences that come to her she neither anticipates them nor relieves them. She is always trying to put the cheer she finds in living into the hearts of those who dwell in shadows. She is very successful; gloom cannot remain where sunshine is. She is making home happy; she has hosts of friends; and they are all better for knowing her. She has the power of quicksilver that is mixed with washings from the mine; she gathers out all the gold.

As I write, she is off to put hope and courage into the heart of one whom the world tramples on. Why should not all young people thus make the most of life?

An Example of True Courage.

"Don't speak to that fellow; he's a coward."

"Two young soldiers of company F" of the Seventh, were crossing the parade ground on their way to company quarters, and had saluted and spoken to a comrade passing by.

"Why, the boys in his company all seem to like him. What's the trouble?"

"There was a drunken fellow in front of a saloon on Market street, last night, when this fellow from Company E came marching up. The drunken brute called him all sorts of names and dared him to fight, and he never even answered, but turned the corner and came right over to Mack and me.

"I asked him why he didn't lick the fellow and he said he didn't believe in fighting.

"'I guess you're afraid to fight that drunken bully,' said Mack. And he just simply said, 'I guess I am."

"Well," said his hearer, "he don't look like a coward,"

Of course this story soon spread through the garrison, and the young man was made the mark for the scoffs and jeers of a certain class among his fellows.

In a little while, however, the regiment was called to the front, and his detractors were astonished to find their so-called "coward" was one of the bravest of the brave, and by his gallant conduct he proved that it wos not cowardice, but true Christian manliness, that made him afraid to fight a helpless drunken man.—Exchange.

What Religion Is.

It is well to go to church, but religion does not consist of going to church. You go to church because you hope that you may be helped into a deeper conviction of the nearness of God to you in all departments of your life. The going to church is not the end of religion, and there is no phrase which is more hopeless or more likely to destroy religious advancement than, "I am very attentive to my religious duties." Your religious opportunities are in church. Your religious opportunities lie in prayer, your religious opportunities lie not in your Bible, but your religious duties are to your fellowmen. Your religious opportunities, religious privileges, are those things which help the soul into the realization of how near God is to them. These things you may find in the Church of God, these things you may find in united prayer, these you may find in a patient study of the Word, but the real meaning of it is, that you can go beyond these things and express in consecrated life, is a life of absolute unselfishness, by a life which is Christ-like, the force of what religion is.—Right Rev. Dr. Boyd Carpenter.

The Day of Rest.

We are not poorer, but richer, because we have through many ages rested one day in seven. That day is not lost. While industry is suspended, while the plough lies in the furrow, while the exchange is silent, while no smoke ascends from the factory, a process is going on as important to the wealth of the nation as any process which is performed on more busy days. Man, the machine of machines, is repairing and winding up, so that he returns to his labors on Monday with clearer intellect, with livelier spirits, with renewed corporal vigor.—Lord Macaulay,

SALT RHEUM TORTURES

Die away before the magical effect of

Dr. Chase's Ointment

The tortures of Salt Rheum are almost beyond human endurance, and as the flesh becomes raw, and the itching and burning increase, the suffering is so intense as to almost drive one crazy.

In desperation salves and ointments are applied, only to give rise to further disappointment and despair.

But there is hope. There is assurance that you can be cured just as scores and hundreds of others have been by using Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. John Siron, of Aultsville, Ont., writes: "For seven years I was a sufferer from Salt Rheum, and my hands were so bad I had to wear greased gloves. Nothing seemed to help me, but I was induced to try Dr Chase's Ointment, and one box cured me completely. There is not a trace of the Salt Rheum left."

Dr. Chase's Ointment has effected most miraculous cures in all parts of this great Dominion. Could you have better assurance that it will cure you? For sale by all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

PRISONER RELEASED.

Victim of Kidney Disease Escapes From its Clutches by Means of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Sharbot Lake, Nov. 6.—Twenty years ago this month, John Nicholas Babcock first noticed the symptoms of Gravel and other Kidney troubles. Since that day he has never been free from pain until immediately previous to the report of his complete cure which appeared recently. He has been like a prisoner sentenced for life but his sentence has been up to-day.

He says: "After twenty years of pain caused by Gravel and other kidney trouble, I am pleased to make it known that I have been completely cured by one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills. During these years I have spent hundreds of dollars without receiving any lasting relief."
