

Naval Display And Band Prove Popular

Citizens throughout Navy Recruiting Week have been attracted by the Naval display in Hollis window. This interesting display includes miniatures of a life-boat and warships of various types as well as a wide variety of knots which every "tar" is obliged to learn as a part of his naval training.

The Band from the H.M.C.S. Cornwallis with its fine concerts and ceremonial parades has been warmly acclaimed in the Island centres where it has made an appearance.

Tonight at seven o'clock, the entire personnel of H.M.C.S. Queen Charlotte will move off headed by the famous Band and accompanying guard, to the Market Square where citizens will have the opportunity of witnessing the much talked of Sunset Ceremonial Parade. (Mayor J. D. Stewart will take the salute at this time. This will be followed by another concert by the Band of Cornwallis.

Navy Week in Charlottetown is for the purpose of creating interest among young men who are thinking of making the Navy a career. Every effort will be made to acquaint citizens with the Navy in all its phases during this recruiting drive.

Enjoyable Concert At Salvation Army Hall

A large audience was on hand last night at the Salvation Army Hall to hear a splendid variety concert which featured the singing of the children of the Prince Edward Island Orphanage who were heard in several numbers including singing, quartets, duets, etc. Songs by Mrs. N. D. MacLean and Miss Fern Herman were very much enjoyed and two readings by Mr. Dick Turpin brought hearty rounds of applause. An illuminated club swinging act by Mr. Wallace Scanlebury was a much appreciated number and Mr. Neil Beaton was a popular man when he favored the audience with two bagpipe selections. Major Stanley acted as chairman. Accompanists for the evening were Mr. William Murchison and Senior Major Henderson. A sale of candy was held during the intermission.

RCN Mobile Unit To Visit P. E. I.

Word has been received that the Royal Canadian Navy mobile recruiting team will visit Prince Edward Island in October. The following is the itinerary:
Oct. 4—Alberton.
Oct. 5—Tignish.
Oct. 5—O'Leary.
Oct. 7-13—Summerside.
Oct. 8—Kensington.
Oct. 11—Borden.
Oct. 15-18—Souris.
Oct. 16—St. Peters.
Oct. 20-23—Montague.
Oct. 20—Cardigan.
Oct. 21—Georgetown.
It will be noted that Charlottetown is not on the itinerary, but that is because a permanent R. C. N. recruiting office is located in H.M.C.S. "Queen Charlotte." Recruiting throughout the year has been very good in Queen Charlotte.

Personnel of the mobile unit will be Lieut. Cdr. R. G. Cannell, Lieut. (E) L. W. Smith, C. P. O. S. Short, Leading Seaman B. K. Walker and L.S.M.A. Macdonald. The unit is primarily interested in recruiting men for the regular force. The rate of recruiting in the navy is much greater than the rate of releases, so that the R.C.N. is just approaching its goal of 21,000 officers and men. This is the number required to enable Canada to meet her NATO commitments and to provide for the defence of our own coasts. There are still openings, however, for good types of young men in a number of branches. The branches that are open include: seamen, communicators, engineering, mechanics and artificers, electrical personnel, medical assistants, bandsmen, armorers, writers, storemen, cooks and stewards - all call for technical training, because in today's navy everyone must be a technical expert in his own field.

The Mobile Recruiting Unit is also interested in recruiting young women for the Wrens. The Wrens play an important part in Navy life, and have proven themselves to be highly efficient as office workers, communicators, medical assistants. They are also used extensively for seaward defence duties, and in several other branches.

The Recruiting Unit will also take application for the Reserve in those parts of the Province which are close to Charlottetown. They are also anxious to interview fishermen and professional seamen who may wish to enroll in the Emergency List.

implied he will not be stamped into an agreement he could not sell to the reluctant French deputies. The German plan, submitted at a memorandum, spelled out what Bonn is willing to do. The key condition is full membership in NATO. While Bonn would furnish 500,000 men organized into 12 divisions, sea and air formations, the memorandum emphasized that the NATO council should be able to change those limits.

NO NUCLEAR WEAPONS
Bonn would agree along with other "strategically exposed" countries to forgo the rights to produce nuclear and other mass-destruction weapons.
West Germany would transfer her armed forces into "an integrated European organization" when one is set up, thereby dissolving a German general staff into an international high command.

Local Man On New Y Group

Earl Taylor, president of the Charlottetown Y. M. C. A. was named a vice-president of a newly-formed Maritime Area Y. M. C. A. committee in an action taken at the Maritimes Laymen's Conference recently concluded at Moncton. Purpose of the new grouping will be to serve as an area-wide advisory committee related to the National Council of Y. M. C. A.'s of Canada. The opening recently of new 'Y' buildings in Halifax, Moncton, and Saint John have added more than $3,000,000.00 to the investment in facilities for youth work in these communities, according to Les Vipond, National Council Personnel officer who was speaker at the closing luncheon. Active Y. M. C. A. program is going on in seven or eight different centers in the Maritimes delegates were told and these extension groups will become part of the concern of the new Area Committee. Plans call for an annual conference of key laymen from all Maritime Associations, the first to be held in June 1955.

The annual meeting of the Maritimes Association of secretaries, held in conjunction with the Laymen's gathering, Bill Kingston, Physical Director of the Charlottetown Association, was named Vice-President. Next year's session of the secretarial group will be held in conjunction with the parallel Maritime New Hampshire A. O. S. Chapter and will convene in Bangor, Maine, in September, 1955.

only by appointees to the council, was presided over by Lionel Forsyth, president of the Lionel Steel and Coal Company.

PLAN INCORPORATION
Delegates named a committee of four men under lawyer A. M. Robichaud of Bathurst, N. B., to arrange incorporation of the council as soon as possible. The committee was instructed to study the matter and investigate fees to be charged council members. The council's head office will be Bathurst until incorporation. Then it will be moved, possibly to Moncton.

SECRETARY SOUGHT
A committee of three will advertise for an able secretary to head up the council and do the actual administration. He will be selected by a council under C. J. Morrow of Lunenburg, N. S. When the secretary is chosen, Mr. Morrow will set a date for the next meeting. It will be held in Moncton, possibly late in November.

TO STUDY HANDICAPS
The council adopted for its scope two pages of recommendations made last October at the Maritime Provinces Board of Trade meeting. It will find which industries can best be started and expanded, what can be done to stimulate investment, whether small businesses could profit by technical and managerial services, and what handicaps affect business in the Atlantic provinces.

Housewife Sees Recession Better Than Inflation

OTTAWA (CP) - A Montreal housewife said Tuesday night that in the long run a recession may be better for consumers and manufacturers than another ride on the inflation rocket.
Mrs. H. E. Vautelet, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, said industry can build its own cushion for the dark days ahead by keeping consumers informed and regard them as partners in Canada's economy.
"In the long run, unrealistically high prices reduce demand," she said in an address at the association's seventh annual convention banquet.

"Making buying profitable for the buyers is the best way of making it profitable for the seller," she said.
"In pressing for informative labelling and standardized sizes, for consumer representation on marketing boards and for advertising that serves instead of merely selling to consumers, CAC is pressing for the best depression insurance trade and industry can provide for themselves today."

Her remarks were contained in the text of a speech issued in advance of delivery.
Mrs. Vautelet said a recession seems inevitable but it should not be feared. A recession would mean getting down to real, as against artificially created, consumer needs.

Mrs. Vautelet described tariffs as barriers across the path of a world striving to win brotherhood and peace. Barriers eventually led to either cold or hot wars, since the have-not countries must fight for their food if they cannot trade for it.

She also said: "Canada belongs to the small group of fat and well-fed nations of the world, and fat nations like fat people need to watch their calories."
"Should we as consumers close our eyes longer to the depletion of our natural resources? For 200 years the white man in North America has been spending this capital... like a drunken sailor on a spree."

"The day has come, I think, when we should face the fact that our boasted standard of living has been partly bought out of capital - not income - and that our spending spree should perhaps be curtailed."

Reports Drop In Use of Liquor

MONTREAL (CP) - Rev. Dr. J. R. Mutchmor of Toronto, speaking at the United Church of Canada's Montreal presbytery said Tuesday Canadian liquor consumption has shown a drop this year.
Dr. Mutchmor, secretary of the church's board of evangelism and social service, said consumption figures for the first five months of this year were 13.8 per cent lower than those for the corresponding period last year.

He said his was the first such decrease since the days of wartime shortages and the church was "gratified."
He referred to a pamphlet recently issued by the church at its national meeting at Sackville, N. B., and said it was "unfortunate that many people thought the book had been intended primarily as an attack on the Roman Catholic Church."
He said the book, entitled "What's the Difference?", is "a

Old Musical Instrument Revived

As a result of her visit to the Trapp Family Music Camp last summer in the State of Vermont, Mrs. Edwin C. Johnstone of this City became interested in and adept at playing that ancient instrument called the Recorder, and is now anxious to introduce this wind instrument which is not unlike a flute in appearance, to family and community groups in this city.

One particular advantage of the instrument is the ease with which beginners can learn to play it. Mrs. Johnstone makes the prediction that any group that began practicing now could in all likelihood be playing four part harmony in time for Christmas carolling.
Mrs. Johnstone, who has contributed greatly to the musical life in this city, feels that there is a definite possibility that the instrument can do much to promote musical culture among various groups, whether they be high school, church or the family in their own living room. Playing in large numbers, she says produces a sound so sweet and mellow that it could be compared to the soft strains of a pipe organ.

GAINING IN POPULARITY
Recorder associations have been formed in many American centres and an interesting event in the lives of these groups is when they combine with other groups to put on concerts periodically. The instrument becomes the immediate favourite of both young and old, thus making it tremendously popular in family groups.

Mrs. Johnstone's interest in the playing of the instrument is purely from the standpoint of musical culture. She became interested in it when the famous Trapp Family appeared in a Community Concert performance here ten years ago. "Since that time," she says, "I have always had a desire to try one." Her opportunity came last summer by attending the camp referred to above.

At present she possesses three or four of the instruments including a soprano with which she plays duets with her husband who prefers the alto. The instruments can be purchased in soprano, tenor, alto, or base.

Sees Need For Home Missions

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) - Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, MP for Hamilton West, told delegates to this week's W. A. conference in Hamilton she was surprised that although women were so flexible, they still wanted to run their churches and church work in the same way as they had 10, 20 or even 50 years ago.
Women of today accepted new ideas and went along with changing conditions but she said they continue doing church tasks over and over again in the same way.
Mrs. Fairclough said she also thought people today had exchanged a private conscience for a public conscience.

"We feel that when we have paid our taxes, we have done our duty to the community in the community, and the church doesn't know of these people sometimes, they don't ask for assistance, they don't attend church... and I wonder if a great deal of the fault for that doesn't rest with ourselves."

"We can't wipe our consciences clear by paying for those in India or Japan or China if we turn up our noses at those in our own city. I think missions start right here at home, in our communities and churches. They don't start in foreign fields, they merely overflow there."

Mental Patient Found In Woods After Two Weeks

HALIFAX (CP) - An escaped mental hospital patient was captured Tuesday when police dogs flushed him out of woods at nearby Seaford.

Hugh James Gillis, missing for two weeks, was found 20 miles from the Nova Scotia mental hospital at Dartmouth. The other patient in the same ward occupied by Gillis was found beaten to death, when the escape was discovered.

Gillis was captured on railway tracks after police were tipped off by three young children who spotted a ragged, bearded man on a nearby beach.
He fled into the heavy woods but the dogs kept to his track until police caught up.

Gillis, unarmed, threw rocks at the dogs as they closed in but put up no other resistance.
Police said he appeared in fairly good condition after living in the bush for two weeks, including the drenching rains and heavy winds of hurricane Edna.

Gillis was taken to the hospital for positive identification and then turned over to the superintendent.
The name of the patient found dead at the hospital has never been released.
Police closed in on the area Monday after farmer Charles Bisada's flushed a man from an abandoned shack with a shotgun blast.

RCMP constables and 100 naval personnel from nearby bases were called into the search, along with three dogs and a helicopter.
Women stayed behind locked doors and children skipped school classes as the manhunt intensified for Gillis, described earlier by police as believed dangerous.

Employment In Canada Is On Increase
TORONTO, (CP) - Labor Minister Gregg said Tuesday Canadian employment is looking up.
"Over the past couple of months," he said at the Canadian Congress of Labor convention, "there is growing evidence that employment and production is stabilizing in Canada."
"Unemployment did not increase between July and August, which is normal for that time of the year, and the number of people with jobs increased slightly."
However, Mr. Gregg conceded that the number at work in August was under the figure for the same time last year.
The minister, making his annual speech to the convention representing 400,000 workers, said there is increasing confidence in the United States that the business outlook is improving.
"Private investment has continued at a level that is surprisingly high in view of the economic downturn from which that country now is emerging."
"In Canada, the level of investment is running close to last year's high mark. The long-run outlook for the development of our country's resources has seldom been brighter."

First Meeting Of Zion Young People
The first regular meeting of Zion Y. P. S. was held last evening with a goodly number of members present. The Devotional Service was conducted by Kay Garnham and John Whiteway. Roddie Hickox presided over the business meeting, and urged the Young People to attend the Maritime P. Y. P. S. Conference being held at Stellarton, N.S. over Thanksgiving week-end.
The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Honorary President - Rev. Harold Brown; President - Roddie Hickox; Vice President - Kay Garnham; Secretary - Florence Douglas; Treasurer - Freddie Hickox; convener of Worship Committee - Isabel Farquharson; Convener of Social Committee - John Whiteway; Convener of Games Committee - Bob Younker; Convener of Frograms Committee - Gordon Brown; and Convener of Membership Committee - Margaret Matheson.
After several lively games led by Roddie Hickox, the meeting closed with "Blest Be Thee That Binds."

Would Train Student Priests In Agriculture

LONDON, Ont. (CP) - Young men training for the Roman Catholic priesthood should spend a year at an agricultural college, if they are destined for rural parishes, the association director of the famed extension department of St. Francis Xavier University, said here Tuesday.
Before 250 delegates attending the Catholic Social Life Conference in the Catholic culture centre, Alexander Laidlaw of Antigonish, N. S., said the rural pastor must give leadership in farming communities.
Outlining the church's role in immigration and land settlement, Mr. Laidlaw said if the church neglects the rural areas, Christianity will suffer and will be delayed thereby, in fulfilling its destiny.
He refuted the "too common belief" that most immigrants should be settled on the land. "If we settled all our newcomers on the land, we are only investing in grief and discontent."
"We need artisans and tradesmen, doctors and professional men, industrial experts, especially for smaller industries," he said. "We need all these before we need more on the land."

One in every four newcomers goes on the land at present, he said. This is too great a proportion; one in five would be better.

Efforts by the United States embassy to have the police order rescinded brought no results, the report said.

Report Jews Banned From Madrid Meeting
NEW YORK (CP) - The New York Times said Tuesday in a dispatch from Madrid that scores of non-Spanish Jews were unable to attend New Year's services there Monday because the Spanish police had barred a meeting of Madrid Jewish leaders in the private hall of a hotel.
The police decision was unexpected since a similar request was granted last year, the Times said. "According to Jewish circles the authorities gave no explanation beyond saying that the recent government instructions had urged strict enforcement of existing law applying to non-Catholic faiths."
The Times added that the police ban was said to be a direct result of an order tightening restrictions.

CUTTING IF FINE
LONDON (CP) - Mrs. M. Jones' ink-benched complained in a letter to the newspapers that a shopkeeper filling an order cut a raisin in two, to avoid giving over weight.

UNITED SERVICES OFFICERS CLUB

Members are reminded of the funeral of the late Mr. Allan B. Cosh which will be held at 10.00 today from St. Peter's Cathedral.
