Rumours come and go. Some are based on facts others the products of vivid imaginations. But whatever the source of those dealing with the new harbor recently constructed at Savage Harbour they are disquieting to say the least.

There are those who say the new harbour can never be made a reality, that the engineers blundered in the selection of the site. Others claim that even if the harbour were dredged and made temporary satisfactory, the first bad storm would wipe out the entire structure.

In the passing of Mr. Pigott, Savage Harbour has lost one of its most outstanding citizens. A man whose word was his bond and who established all his dealings on the firm foundation of fairness and honesty.

Mr. Harry Bruce, Red Point, is most thankful Jan. 20 that he did not lose his barn. While pumping water for the cattle the engine caught fire in some manner but due to the quick action of Mr. James McVane and Mr. Bruce, had the fire under control before any serious damage took place.

However, if the weather conditions improve, and highways are opened, it is expected that the Premier may be able to make the trip to make the official opening.

Georgetown Seaman Tells Of Communist Scare In Venezuela

Mr. Clair Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Crawford, returned to his home in Georgetown several days ago from Venezuela, South America.

Early in December, Clair as one of the nine man crew of the Yarmouth, N.S. owned 212 ton M.V. Walter G. Sweeney, sailed from Victoria, P.E.I. with a cargo of potatoes for La Guayra, Venezuela.

The ship spent a week in that port and while there he made several visits to nearby Caracas, the capital of Venezuela. On the return journey the ship called at Trinidad and the Bahamas, where a cargo of salt and rum was taken on board and was discharged at Halifax, N.S. The return voyage took 16 days.

Mr. Crawford reports that the Communist scare is quite in evidence in the part of South America that he visited and that soldiers are on duty everywhere. During all the time his ship was in port, two soldiers were stationed aboard on guard duty.

It really stirred up other men and women who never skated and were lacking the courage. But since Mr. Rose started again there will soon be others of the same age wanting to compete with him. Since the rink was completed there were several men and women who have never seen a hockey game before attending.
