Causeway Study To Be Scheduled

CAPITAL BUREAU
OTTAWA—Scheduling of the studies on the Prince Edward Island causeway will be established by the Department of Public Works, the House of Commons was told Monday by Robert J. McCleave, parliamentary secretary to Works Minister Davis Fulton.

Mr. McCleave was replying to a series of questions about the project from John B. Stewart, Nova Scotia Liberal MP.

He said the studies had been established by the department prior to the Northumberland canal.

He began any engineering studies at the site, and has indicated when they expected to conclude their work as the scheduling of the studies will be done by the federal department.

Mr. McCleave said three other reports, made by Canadian British Engineering, the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, and the National Research Council, have already been received and studied by the department prior to engaging the Northumberland canal.

HAD BEEN ESTABLISHED
The feasibility had been announced by Prime Minister Diefenbaker in the Commons on April 17 this year. In June, it had been announced that the firm of Langens, Letendre and Mont, Canadian-British engineering, and H.G. Acres had been retained to assist the department with the planning and construction of the modern economic type of crossing.

These three firms have formed an affiliate group, informally, and are now seeking a charter so they can operate as Northumberland Consultants Limited. Mr. McCleave said by November 15, this year, it is expected the department will finally establish its agreement to engage Northumberland Consultants.

STUDIES NOT STARTED
The consultants have not yet begun any engineering studies at the site, and has indicated when they expected to conclude their work as the scheduling of the studies will be done by the federal department.

The ships have offensive value, and the U.S. has a right to know what they are doing. AWAIT REACTION
Meanwhile officials around the world waited anxiously to see how the United States would react to the move. The answer apparently would come when U.S. ships challenge the U.S. position in the Caribbean.

The approval has been indicated by the U.S. State Department in Washington of the council of the Organization of American States.

Total cost of the projects was $1,236,000. During the program 804 persons were hired.

FROM FARMERS IN THE AREA. Their two-way radio equipped car kept one another in contact with the hospital.

Dr. Reihl said they "do everything here from trimming the feet of a budgie bird to a major operation on a cow or horse." Dr. Reihl said they have 10 kennels in the hospital to keep small animals brought in for treatment.

"Mostly dogs and cats are brought here from the office here," said Dr. Reihl. "Since the large cases are usually right on the farm."

A similar operation of a veterinary clinic was established in Charlottetown two or three years ago and met with great success. Hospitals of this nature are of great benefit to farmers who are inexperienced in administering medical treatment to sick or injured animals.
