

An Opinion of

Basic Instinct

starring Michael Douglas and Sherren Stone

This movie is not only morally degrading, embarrassing, and sexually explicit, but it is also pornographic. Basic Instinct should be x-rated without a doubt in my mind, and it should not be shown in theatres, just like all other x-rated movies.

I am not an old fuddy-duddy who is not open to a little sex on the screen every now and then, even though sex on film is usually always degrading, but the numerous bedroom scenes that take over the plot of this movie are very explicit! Within the first five minutes of Basic Instinct, the audience is treated to breasts, bottoms, and both male and female genital areas during a very raunchy sex scene. After this initial shock, the audience is prone to sex every ten to fifteen minutes from the next hour.

Sherren Stone sports her vagina for six men + the audience, has a bi-sexual relationship, then proceeds to seduce Michael Douglas, bring him to bed, perform oral sex, then sex. Michael Douglas has violent sex with one woman, then turns around and sleeps with another woman, sucks her breasts, performs oral sex on her, then he has his orgasm during intercourse.

In my opinion, these actions are very degrading to watch. I can not imagine why anyone would perform such trash during a movie no matter how much money involved. I also feel that anyone who can sit through a movie such as this without feeling uncomfortable has very few morals. I have nothing against good sex, but it should not be performed in front of an audience.

This movie is pornographic material. When I go to the movies I expect to see a few breasts here and there because it seems that is a criteria for a good movie these days, but I do not expect to see every part of both the male and female body performing many different sexual acts. This is pornography, and it should not be allowed under any circumstances, to be rated anything less than x. There should also be warning to the people about the degree of sex that the movie involves. Is not the buyer warned when there is extreme violence or harsh language? I see no reason why there is no warning about sex.

Another point I wish to make about this movie is that by the sign advertising this movie at the theatre, a person had absolutely no idea what he or she is getting themselves into. It is supposed to be a suspense movie...well, what is the suspense? What new sexual act can come next?!

I left before this movie ended because I was so outraged and embarrassed to be sitting in a room with hundreds of people watching two people have sex on a big screen. This was too much for me. Also, by the time I left, I was embarrassed to have my husband sitting next to me watching this pornography as well.

To the writers and actors of this movie...get a new life! I had a lot of respect for both of these stars before they played their roles in this movie, now I surely do not feel respect for either of them, perhaps contempt, but not respect. What a waste of good money.

By the way, I think this movie may have had a good plot, even though I am sure it must have been very hard to write considering that without all the sex it would only be about half an hour or so!

 In addition to this article, I would like to add that I spoke to the manager of the movie theatre who told me I was the first complaint they have received with respects to this movie. She also added it had been a
