Tough To Eliminate

The RCAF Eagles proved to everyone's satisfaction Friday night that they will be tough to eliminate from the semi-final series against the Combines. It must have been a shattering experience to see their victory go pffft with only 129 seconds remaining in the game, but this is hockey. It could have easily been an Eagle victory, and that to happen in the Combines' own bailiwick would have been something bordering on disaster for the Cutcliffe-coached crew. Irv Walsh never showed to better advantage, and he kept the RCAF boys in the game with a lot of sensational saves. Mann made some key saves too, but not nearly so many as Walsh.

We were sorry to hear that Bob McCallum had suffered a cut above his eye requiring seven stitches, and did not return to the game Sunday afternoon. Bob is what is commonly called a pint- sized athlete, but he takes on all comers with a nonchalant courage which commands admiration from even those who like to see the Combines win. As far as McCallum is concerned, the bigger they are, the harder they fall.

Accomplished A First

Last week, for the first time in our short and not exactly meteoric career, we curled away from home. There are some boys who will tell you that we haven't curled home yet, but this is just professional jealousy. It was the 50 years and older tournament held in Charlottetown, and our team took a trouncing 10-4. We were pitted against skip Dr. Wen MacDonald, and we felt that if someone is going to best us, it is better that a member of the clan should do it. (We think the doctor should still be in there battling with the British Consols big-wigs).

Well, the score was against us, and so there was only one way we could escape defeat. Of course, that was by protest. Some of the boys competing looked a bit forty- ninish to us, but their birthday certificates were all in order, so that was that. We watched carefully to see if anyone's foot would go over the hog.- line, but no luck there either. We're now looking into the possibility that they handed us brooms of inferior design and insufficient straws. You know sometimes it's the last straw—in sports as well as in political conventions—that breaks the camel's back. Seriously, the friendliness of our opponents and others took all the sting from our defeat, and it was quite an enjoyable experience.

Last Week's Bouquet

We'll have to break last week's bouquet into some smaller sprigs,
No hero stood alone, but there were lots of Mr. Bigs.
Two brothers acts stood out well in advance,
Alger and Gord, and also
Garth and Vance,
And Ron MCA who with the siren set to go still digs.

Last Week's Brickbat

We have our Civic Stadium; we think it very nice.
Three cheers for kin who gave us outdoor rinks not once but twice.
But in the streets the sandman
is not calling,
And there is constant fear of
"shadows" falling,
The former "rinkless" town is now one endless sheet of ice.

Racing Fans Set For Annual Show

A top piéce of amateur photography will be seen tonight and Tuesday night at PWC auditorium when the Gold Cup and Saucer Committee presents Film Night for harness racing enthusiasts.

Miss Helen Cudmore, Oyster Bed Bridge, filmed the entire Gold Cup and Saucer parade last August and won the Taylor's Jewellers' award as the top effort. Her film, with CFCY's Loman MacAulay doing the speaking parts, will surely score a decided hit with the hundreds of folks who will view the shows tonight and Tuesday.

Other features will be the showings of the 1962 Hambletonian and Little Brown Jug and the presentation to the Maritime's top driver of last season, Clark Smith, Hunter River, Prince Edward Island.

In addition there'll be film clips from early Prince Edward Island races and scenes from last year's Old Home Week show.

Patrons will be asked to vote for their choice of horse as the most outstanding on Prince Edward Island throughout the 1962 racing season. There'll be music by Lovat Scots pipe band and valuable door prizes will be given away.

It's all free. You may help out the Gold Cup and Saucer committee by contributing to the silver collection at the door. All proceeds from these collections will go toward prizes for bands and floats for next Gold cup and Saucer parade.

There should be loads of entertainment tonight and Tuesday at Prince of Wales College auditorium.

FULLMER BECOMES AIRBORNE

Title Bout Ends In Draw; Dick Tiger Still Champion

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria retained his world middleweight title Saturday night, but the best he could get was a draw after 15 rough, bloody rounds with Gene Fullmer, the man he dethroned last fall.

The split decision brought a roar of surprise and disappointment from the 7,777 fans in the Las Vegas convention centre. They were strongly partisan toward Fullmer, underdog ex-champion from West Jordan, Utah.

The draw left practically nobody happy except the promoters, who would like to book a third fight between the pair.

Fullmer, 41, said:

"I thought I won, I guess he thought he won.

"I said I'd retire if I lost, but I didn't lose. I hope Tiger will give me another shot at it."

The match was a repeat, but even better, than their first encounter in San Francisco last Oct. 23 when Tiger won a unanimous decision.

Referee Vern Bybee, from San Francisco, called the bout even, 69 to 69 under the five-point-must system of scoring.

Judge Pat Diskin had the champion in front, 71 to 67, while judge John Romero called it 70 to 68 for Fullmer.

Both men weighed in at 160 pounds before the bout.

TIGER FAVORED

The 33-year-old Tiger, the 3-to-1 betting favorite, had to come from behind to get the draw. He turned thoughts of a return match over to his American representative, Jersey Jones of New York.

The battle ran true to form—a bruising and often wild engagement that had the fans in a constant uproar and standing on their feet in the final frenzied 15th round.

There were no knockdowns but both fighters were cut up—Fullmer over the left eye in the third, a bad scalp gash just above the hairline in the sixth, which apparently was from an accidental butt, and a steady nose bleed from the 10th round on.

Fullmer, who switched from his usual bully-boy tactics for an evening of jabbing, circling and dancing away, slashed open a gash over the champion's left eye in the 11th round.

ENCOURAGED BY BLOOD

Seemingly taking heart by the sight of his bloodied opponent, whom he had not been able to scratch in the San Francisco bout, Fullmer went all out in the final rounds.

In a blazing final round both men, obviously aware the outcome would be close, slugged and mauled away from one part of the ring to the other.

It was Fullmer's third draw in a title fight, a boxing rarity. There have been only 40 title draws in ring history, only six in the last 20 years.

Fullmer retained the middleweight title in his first two draws, against Sugar Ray Robinson and Joey Giardello, both in 1960.

Matchmaker George Parnassus of Los Angeles promptly put in a bid for a rematch for a total purse of $150,000.

The promoters announced gate receipts were $112, 315. Each boxer was guaranteed 30 per cent of the gate and $30,000 apiece from the $100,200' television revenue.

"I'd hate to quit on a draw," said a disappointed Fullmer after the 15 bruising rounds.

"I want to give it one more whirl," added Fullmer, whose face bore four cuts.

Gene was obviously disappointed. "I should have won. If I thought I was losing I would have put on more fight in the last two rounds."

The brawling former champion said he was better conditioned for this rematch. "I was much stronger this time," he said.

"I thought I won the fight," Tiger declared after retaining his crown.

"Still, at the same time I'm sorry about the draw. I'm glad he didn't take the title away from me."

"I thought he was going to fight harder, like he did in San Francisco. There he was fighting from the first round. Here he was backing away. I felt I was the champion and he should be coming to me."

Eagles Nip Combines 5-4 To Square Playoff Series

SUMMERSIDE — The RCAF Eagles tied up their semi- final series at one- game apiece at the RCAF Station rink yesterday afternoon, edging the Prince County team by the score of 5-4

Bob McCallum and Steve Phillips were both injured during the game, McCallum requiring seven stitches for a cut above his eye, and Phillips hitting his head on the ice, was released from the station hospital soon after arrival.

Don Whelan, referee-in-chief, handed out eleven penalties during the rather rough game, eight, including one major, going to the Combines.

The Eagles led 2-1 at the end of the first period, and 5-3 when the middle session was over. The Combines scored one tally in the final frame but couldn't get the equalizer.

Steve Phillips opened the scoring at 15.52 of the first period, getting a close-in relay from Leith Ellis. Vance Harris evened it up over two minutes later on a beautiful combination play with Ron MacArthur. Tucker made it 2-1, faking a shot before he let go the drive which beat Mann with less than two minutes to go in the period.

Ron MacArthur scored a spectacular goal on an end- to-end solo rush at 4.48 to tie the score 2- all. Ron Hughes put his team ahead again, two minutes later on a combination effort with Doug Tucker and Kenny MacDonald.

The Combines made it 3- all five minutes later, Gord Cutcliffe sifting through the defence to beat Walsh from close in.

Bob Sleigh got two quick ones, firing a high shot which tucked in below the cross bar at 13-28 and propelling the puck into an empty cage less than a minute later when he was sprawled on the ice in front of the net.

The Combines fought hard to overcome the RCAF lead in the final period, outshooting the Eagles by a wide margin, but could manage only one goal. Ron MacArthur's second tally fired from just outside the crease.

Irv Walsh, RCAF goaler, made some fine saves to keep the Combines from forcing the game into overtime. Leroy Burnett and Joe Coyle were linesmen.

Hawks Edge Bruins 4-3; Mikita Grabs Scoring Lead

CHICAGO (CP)—Little Stan Mikita scored three goals and assisted on the other Chicago tally Sunday night as the Black Hawks defeated Boston Bruins 4-3 further strengthen their hold on first place in the National Hockey League.

The goals, which ran the veteran centre's total to 28, and the assist gave Mikita 65 points. This was one more than Detroit's Gordie Howe, who picked up three assists Sunday night in the Wings victory over New York.

Mikita and Howe had been in a four-way tie with Chicago's Bobby Hull and Johnny Bucyk of the Bruins at 61 points. Both Hull and Bucyk were blanked Sunday.

WIDENS LEAD

The triumph, which saw the first two periods and then hung on grimly through the final 20 minutes boosted the Hawks' league lead to eight points over the Montreal Canadiens, who were idle.

Ken Wharram and Mikita provided the Hawks with a 2-0 lead in the first period but Boston's Charlie Burns scored the first of his two goals midway in the second to make it 2-1. Mikita scored his second a moment later when he stole the puck near the Bruins' blue line and went in alone on Boston goalie Ed Johnston.

Then in the final two minutes, Mikita grabbed a loose puck from a scramble in front of the Boston cage and sent a five - footer over Johnston's shoulder.

Burns tipped in Leo Boivin's long shot for the Bruins' second goal and Dean Prentice scored from a flurry near the Chicago cage in the last minute to make the game close.

NEW YORK (AP) — Two third-period goals by Parker McDonald, lifting his National Hockey League total for the season to 29, carried Detroit Red Wings to a comeback 3-2 victory over New York Rangers Sunday.

Gordie Howe, bidding for his sixth scoring title, picked up assists on all three Detroit goals. The veteran right winger now has 64 points on 30 goals and 34 assists.

Andy Bathgate scored both Ranger goals for a career total of 249. Bathgate put the Rangers ahead early in the first period.

After Norm Ullman tipped in Howe's point-blank shot at 16:05 of the second period, Bathgate scored 51 seconds later.

DEFLATES CROWD

In the third period, MacDonald, a native of Sydney, N.S. deflated the Madison Square Garden crowd of 12,815 with his tying and winning goals. The first came on a pass from Doug Barkley. Later MacDonald deflected a 40-foot shot by Howe.

Imlach Is Wild About Setback

By DAVE BETTS

TORONTO (CP)—"This game may have cost a lot of people a lot of money," said an irate Punch Imlach Saturday night.

"The difference between first and third place is $1,150, and that's what we may have lost tonight. The odds are mounting. . . ."

The Toronto Maple Leaf coach and general manager was slumped in a corner of the dressing room after his charges lost 4-2 to last-place Boston Bruins.

Across the hall, Boston coach Milt Schmidt was holding forth in a more jocular atmosphere.

"From now on, we're going to knock off some of those top guys," Milt promised. "I think we've regained our touch."

Forbes Kennedy, Bruin left-winger who scored the third and winning goal, said: "We played a real good game. When we were up 3-0 in the first period I thought it was going to be a runaway.

"But you can't have a runaway against those guys," said the Charlottetown native.

OUTLINES PLANS

While a sheepish-looking Toronto crew dressed quickly and slunk out of the room. Imlach outlined some rash plans for the future particularly for Leafs' next game here Wednesday night against league-leading Chicago Black Hawks.

Among his post-game threats: "I may keep (defenceman Carl) Brewer on the forward line, and I may play all of them anywhere. I'm going to experiment. I may even put a few of them back in the net and see how they enjoy it back there with no one in front of them."

"I may not play (Frank) Mahovlich Wednesday night even if he's ready. I'm not kidding. I just may not play him."

Mahovlich, the club's leading goal-getter with 30, missed Saturday's game because of a charleyhorse suffered here last Wednesday when Leafs beat Montreal Canadiens 2-1.

Imlach said he was pleased with the performance of 19-year-old Andre Champagne, called up from Neil McNeil Maroons of the Metro Toronto Junior A League to take a few turns on left wing with Bob Pulford and Bob Nevin.

"He played as well as any man on the ice. The way he played tonight I may have a find."
