The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♦	Pass	2♦
Pass	3♠	Pass	6♦

Bridge may be a scientific game, as played by experts, but you'd never be able to prove it by this hand played in the match between Italy and the United States in 1962.

At the first table, Belladonna, playing the Roman Club system, opened the bidding with one diamond (forcing). Averell made the natural response of two diamonds, whereupon Belladonna revealed his true colors by jumping to three spades.

Recognizing that Belladonna had a big hand on the bidding, Avarelli jumped to six diamonds, which became the final contract. It was not a particularly good contract, but whether the system was at fault, or the players, I have no way of knowing.

Whatever the reason, the hand turned out to be a lucky one for the Italians. The American West decided to lead the ace of hearts, and this disastrous lead handed Belladonna the contract. The spades turned out to be well divided, and Belladonna racked up twelve tricks and 1,370 points as a result. With any lead but a heart the contract would have gone down one.

This was the bidding at the second table, with an American pair now holding the North-South cards:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1♠	Pass	1NT
Pass	3NT

This was certainly not the best possible contract either — with North as declarer. Played by South, three notrump could be made against any lead, but played by North, the defense could have snatched off six tricks with a heart lead.

However, the Italian West had such a nice attractive lead against three notrump that he opened the queen of clubs—out of turn!

The American declarer decided to accept the lead, which was his privilege, and wound up making five notrump for 660 points. So the United States team lost 710 points on the deal, but it could have been worse.

Bar Association In Quebec Suggests End To Inquests

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec Bar Association said here coroners' juries should be abolished because they do not appear to be justified in the social organization of Quebec province.

In a brief presented to Rene Hamel, Quebec attorney - general, the association also called for a news blackout of coroners' inquests.

"Too many reputations have been unnecessarily compromised," the brief said, "and it is necessary to avoid a procedure by which a person who has not even become an accused is placed in the public gaze."

Mr. Hamel said the association's recommendations will be considered by the government. He said the government has been studying possible amendments to the Coroner's Act but added he did not yet know if these will be presented to the legislature for approval during the present session.

The recommendations in the brief were worked out in three months of meetings by a special committee of the provincial bar.

PLANS NO CURE

Saying its recommendation is not intended as a restriction on the liberty of the press, the brief said "society is not directly interested except at the moment a person has been caught up by justice.

"And even there, it is deplorable that a preliminary inquiry itself provokes undue publicity which often renders extremely difficult the search for objectivity and impartiality required by a body of jurors," the report added.

The bar said the immediate appearance of each witness required at a coroner's inquiry should permit the coroner himself, and not police officers, to decide if the witness should be kept for a shorter or longer time.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
