

THE DAILY EXAMINER. JUNE 22, 1883.

The Recent Appeal Cases.

The public are indebted to "A Barrister" for the information he affords respecting the two appeal cases in which the judgments of our Provincial Court were lately reversed by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The information which "A Barrister" affords will, no doubt, to some extent, satisfy public opinion respecting the two cases referred to; and as for the ability displayed by Judge Peters in the liquidation of the Bank of P. E. Island, no one, whether debtor, creditor or shareholder, will be sure, call it in question for a moment.

The Howell Murder Case.

The trial has resulted in a verdict of "manslaughter"; and popular sympathy endorses the verdict. The crank old man has 'scaped the gallows, and will probably end his days in the penitentiary.

Perhaps we are not in these days sufficiently scrupulous about the punishment of crime. The law says that the penalty for murder is death. But we don't like to put a fellow creature to death; and so we strain a point, and call it manslaughter.

"What right," asks the Patriot, "has a petty paper, in this small city to scold the managers of a great Exhibition in a large sister Province?"

Instances, such as this, of the evils resulting, directly and indirectly, from a lax administration of the law, should be noted as warning for us.

THE ARMY WORM.—Caterpillars in great numbers have put in their appearance in various places about town, and are doing considerable damage to ornamental trees, more particularly to the maples.

THE MALPEQUE TRAGEDY.

Roderick Howell on Trial

For the Murder of William Wallace.

THURSDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

EVIDENCE OF WILLIAM HODGSON. WILLIAM HODGSON (SWORN)—Examined by the Attorney-General—I live at Malpeque. I remember the time the shooting took place. On hearing of the shooting, about ten o'clock on the night of the shooting, I went down to Wallace's.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hodgson—I know nothing about what Henry Wallace showed the witness McKay. The crest of the bank, where Howell stood was undisturbed. There were no signs of a scuffle.

DUNCAN MCGOUGAN'S TESTIMONY.

DUNCAN MCGOUGAN (SWORN)—Examined by the Attorney-General—I live at Malpeque. The deceased, Wallace, was not a quarrelsome, disagreeable man. I was present in Wallace's house when his wounds were dressed.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hodgson—The deceased was in a falling position with the right leg back and fore leg forward when he received the shot.

This witness finished the case for the prosecution. Mr. Hodgson opened the case for the prisoner.

(Evidence for the defence.)

EDWARD LARKINS examined by Mr. Hodgson—I am acquainted with Mrs. Wallace for fifteen or sixteen years. I was at her house the day of the funeral. I asked Mrs. Wallace if she had given the poles to Howell.

Cross-examined by Mr. McLeod—I understood from Mrs. Wallace that Howell claims more longers than she admitted and she left the matter to her husband.

DAVID GALLANT TESTIFIES. DAVID GALLANT—examined by Mr. Hodgson—I owned the gun once which Howell used. I fired one shot out of her. After I fired this shot I loaded her a second time and laid her on the ground.

Cross-examined by Mr. McLeod—(Tried the gun.) She won't go off at half cock now. I am an old gunner. It is two years since I owned the gun.

ALEXANDER THOMPSON'S EVIDENCE.

ALEXANDER THOMPSON (SWORN)—Examined by Mr. Hodgson—I am acquainted with Howell. I had a conversation with Wallace about the poles about a fortnight before the shooting. I told him to watch my poles. He said he could not watch his own. He did not blame Wallace for stealing the poles.

Cross-examined by Mr. McLeod—The prisoner was not pleased about them stealing longers. He said he would pepper them if they did not stop.

After Recess.

FREDERICK PETERS EXAMINED.

FREDERICK PETERS, (SWORN)—Examined by Mr. Hodgson. I saw this gun about three days ago. I now cannot be moved. Three days ago, there was a place on it that is not here now, that would send the gun off by simply touching the trigger.

Dr. Schlemann says the Greek of to-day does not differ from the ancient nearly as much as does the English of to-day from that of Chaucer; and moreover, Greek scholars, especially in the University at Athens, are constantly endeavoring to bring the language nearer to the ancient standards.
