Need to Lead Youth Responsibility

Discussing the potentials of the new Red Cross as a staff for teenagers with Mrs. W. W. Reid, director of Junior Red Cross for P.E.I. and Green Mountain, provincial Red Cross president, is Ralph Wendborn of Toronto, national director of Junior Red Cross who spent the past two days in Charlottetown conferring with officials of Red Cross and the completion of official Red Cross work.

Interviewed yesterday at the conclusion of a two-day visit to the Prince Edward Island Red Cross, Ralph Wendborn of Toronto, national director of Junior Red Cross explained that as Red Cross is "Man helping Man" Junior Red Cross is an educational program in the schools where "Man is learning how to help Man".

He spoke of the needs which exist in the world of today where two out of three people are hungry while one-third of the world's population consumes three-quarters of the food.

"The indication is clear that we must help," said Mr. Wendborn. "We must do more than offer emergency assistance. We must provide opportunity for service to others, help themselves to something better." Mr. Wendborn said that there are also needs in the world today which may be as obvious as these are the needs of young people who are right here at home, where abundance is taken for granted, and where competition for material things tends to overshadow the humanitarian aspects of life.

"To offset this we must purposefully and deliberately plan the teaching of civic and social responsibility to youth—such things as self-service, respect for others, helping neighbours—giving instead of always getting. These things are not learned by reading about them, or talking about them alone. They must be supported by meaningful activities, by programs that awaken young people to the needs of others—at home, in Canada and throughout the world."

As a concrete example of how Junior Red Cross develops programs that train youth in the above regard, Mr. Wendborn referred to the Sudan d r e n e

Co-op Housing Ass'n Formed In Prince Co.

"The families," he said, "have incorporated themselves into the local Co-op Housing Limited project, and three homes will be built in the Wellington area, and three in the St. Christopher's area."

He said: "Juniors across Canada are raising $125,000 which will provide the services of a nutritionist and a horticulturalist to teach children in the Sudan to eat vegetables and poultry—teach their parents to incorporate these foods into the daily diet so that they may build up some resistance to disease, and get some strength to develop a better chance for the future."

While in Charlottetown, Mr. Wendborn assumed the position of national director of Junior Red Cross just over a year ago, met with officials of the department of education and of the teacher training sections of St. Dunstan's University, a d the Prince of Wales College, and the Public Health Nursing Division of the department of health.

Workers in Halifax Are Hit By Another Blow

HALIFAX (CP) — Union leaders say that more than 1,000 waterfront workers have been laid off in Halifax. The ship line's decision to move wheat and flour from the plant to other than from Halifax.

The Newfoundland African Shipping Line, owned by the Kourmantz shipping interests in Africa, is hauling flour from Africa from Port William, Ont., and grain from Duluth, Minn., at the same time. The ship's operators are charging to move substantial cargoes from Halifax. The ship line's decision to move a similar interest in a recently built flour mill in Nigeria will only cut mill in West Africa.

As a result of the Kourmantz move, two lines that had been picking up flour at Halifax now will go to the Great Lakes to pick up flour. The move was confirmed Friday by Ray March, secretary of the Port of Halifax Convention who had returned to Montreal to confer with them after the Greek firm's move.

CONFERS WITH SHIPPERS

Mr. March went to New York for talks with the American-West African Freight Conference to discuss the new routes between North America and the African continent. He said he had no doubt about a great deal of hope" the move would be scaled down.

There is no doubt about it the great majority of our summer season flour trade is going to be taken away from us," he said. Our last slender hope was that the conference will reduce the routes between Halifax and West Africa.

The business agent for freight handlers here, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (C.B.R.T.G.W.), said Friday that although $200,000 had been bid in wages by quarter but his union and that some 250 men were out of work because
