

OBITUARY

KATHERINE MacDONALD

Inserted by the family.
The recent untimely death on Feb. 10, 1966, of Katherine Macdonald, Kilmuir, in her 53th year, in the midst of a useful and active life, left a sad and empty space in the lives of her family and friends.
Born at Kilmuir, daughter of John Neil and Effie (MacKinnon) Macdonald, she graduated from Prince of Wales College, and took her B.Sc. degree at Dalhousie University. She then entered Medical School at Dalhousie, but after one year of medical training decided to become a nurse.
She graduated with a Master's degree in Nursing from Yale University training school, New Haven, Conn., and began Public Health nursing in Baltimore, Maryland where she worked for four years, both for city and state.
Joining the U.S. Airforce as a flight nurse, she served in Maryland, California, Montana, Georgia, Texas and Alaska, making many transcontinental flights in transfer of disabled veterans.
While stationed in Texas, she was instructor for flight nurses at Randolph Flight School, San Antonio, Texas.
She was transferred to Korea, at the outbreak of the Korean War, one of the first flight nurses sent behind the lines for evacuation of the wounded. She made nearly 200 flights removing casualties to hospitals in Japan, and received the Silver Star, the Korean Service Medal, and Air Medal in recognition of her services. Remaining in the Airforce Reserve, she held the rank of Lieutenant Colonel at the time of her death.
After her return from Korea, she obtained a Master's degree in Public Health from Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, and was director of the Visiting Nurse Association, Newton, Mass., for five years.
She next held the position of assistant professor of Public Health at Vermont University for 10 years where she taught in the Department of Preventive Medicine.

Six years ago she became director of the VNA of Atlantic City, New Jersey, a post she held until last August, when she resigned because of illness.
She was a member of Valleyfield United Church and U.C.W., also of several religious, social, professional and business organizations, in the city in which she lived.
Although unusually talented and capable in her work, she was humble and unassuming in her dealings with people. She had many friends, and the esteem in which she was held by her co-workers is shown by the following citation, sent to her shortly before her death:
Dear Katherine,
Some of the many friends you made in Atlantic City in the past six years, met a few days ago in the surroundings so familiar to you.
You were the subject of our conversation. Has you been there, and we wish sincerely you had, you would have heard how much we love and admire you.
You, in your modesty, would have been embarrassed, for we, in our reticence, had never told you.
Now, because we are less self-conscious, addressing you from afar, we want you to know of our affection.
Also, we want you to know how grateful we are to you for your tireless devotion to our common cause, the healing of the sick.
Not only we, but more importantly countless patients give daily thanks to you, and to the nurses who served so happily with you, and were inspired by your example.
You accomplished so much... not the least the creation of an atmosphere of friendliness and relaxation in the office, notwithstanding the inevitable pressures, and the constant concern for those entrusted to you and the staff.
Katherine, we thank you for enriching our lives, and for giving us a renewed awareness of our responsibilities.
We are much the better for you having been in our midst. We promise you we will faithfully follow in your footsteps.
We ask the blessing of God upon you, dear friend.
 Lovingly,
The Board of Directors,
Pat Scanlon, President
The largely attended funeral service was conducted by Rev. Graeme Fraser, assisted by Rev. Donald Campbell. Scripture text was "In our sorrow we have always cause for joy" II Cor. 6:10 (N.E.B.). Hymns were "The Lord's My Shepherd" and "The Sweet Bye and Bye". Mrs. P.T. Pearson was organist. The Brooklyn Trio sang "Beyond the Sunset". Service at the rave-

First All-Canadian Project Is Started In Space Research

PORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—The first all-Canadian space research project in history started here when a 350-pound scientific instrument was launched on Black Brant rocket from the Churchill research range.
Designed to investigate the mysteries of the aurora borealis and upper atmosphere through six independent experiments, the rocket's payload was the first fired by an all-Canadian team since the National Research Council assumed control of the range from the United States Air Force this year.
There have been, however, 38 other launchings at the range since that time.
Delayed for two weeks because of adverse weather conditions, the Black Brant II rocket was fired at 1:07 a.m. CST and climbed more than 100 miles before reaching its zenith during the six-and-a-half-minute flight.

National Research Council officials termed the results of the shot successful, although telemetered data has not yet been assessed.
MORE TO COME.
The 2,600-pound Winnipeg-manufactured rocket travelled at 3,600 miles an hour—faster than a high velocity bullet. It was the first of three rocket shots in the current series conducted.
Herbert Wilson, 83-year-old father of Prime Minister Wilson, suffered a slightly cut hand when the car in which he was riding was slammed into a wall by the wind. The elder Wilson was on his way to hear his son make an election campaign speech, and did so after treatment.

The Burma Oil Exploration Company said it decided to evacuate the floating rig when the gales reached "impossible proportions" of 90 miles an hour in gusts, kicking up waves 50 feet high around the platform.
WAS SAFETY MEASURE
"We ordered this evacuation for safety of life," a Burma spokesman said. "Conditions are getting worse and we expect a violent storm with winds up to 120 miles an hour and 50-foot waves."
Thirteen oil riggers died Dec. 28 last when the oil-drilling platform Sea Gem collapsed in the north sea.
The Ocean Prince is anchored 28 miles off Flamborough Head in Yorkshire. The rig was being held by eight anchors and a company spokesman said: "We can only hope that the position does not get worse."

side was conducted by the Montague branch of the Royal Canadian Legion. Interment was in Valleyfield cemetery.

Water Supplies For Fish Plants To Be Improved

By DALL WARRINGTON
HALIFAX (CP)—The Atlantic Development Board announced Tuesday a $4,500,000 program to improve water supplies for fish processing plants at 12 Newfoundland communities. The board also has started studies of industrial water needs and supplies in four Nova Scotia areas where there are 35 to 40 fish plants.
Ian M. MacKeigan, board chairman, told a press conference that the Newfoundland water improvement projects will affect plants producing nearly half that province's total output of processed fish. Normal yearly production is about 350,000,000 pounds.
Work is expected to start this year at Fortune, Harbor Grace, Catalina-Port Union, Fermeuse, Burgeo and Gaultois. Other communities involved are Bay de Verde, Isle Aux Mors, Twillingate, St. Anthony, Englee and Trepassy.

Nova Scotia areas to be surveyed are Digby Neck, Cape Sable Island, Isle Madame-St. Peter's, and Alder Point near Sydney Mines.
"With the introduction of new federal regulations requiring a higher standard of purity for water used to process fish for export," Mr. MacKeigan said, "many plants in the Atlantic provinces were faced with an emergency situation due to the inadequacy of suitable water supplies."
"During the past couple of years the ADB has undertaken several water supply projects to assist plant operators where the requirement was most critical."
He said the Newfoundland government will contribute to some of the projects "in exceptional cases." Other similar projects were under consideration by the board and the province.
