MacAulay, the Bishops and the priests by the parishioners of St. Peter's Bay was presided over by Rt. Rev. J. A. Murphy. Congratulations were extended by Bishop Boyle, Bishop MacDonald, Governor Bernard and Dr. MacIntyre.

Eloquent tribute was paid to Monsignor MacAulay by Rt. Rev. G. J. MacLellan, P.A., who spoke in Gaelic. Rev. R. J. MacDonald, East Point spoke on behalf of the senior priests and Rev. Lawrence Landrigan of St. Dunstan's University on behalf of the junior priests.

The speakers also commended Rev. T. P. Butler, curate at St. Peter's Bay, on the splendid arrangements and orderly manner in which the celebration was carried out.

Archbishop's Sermon

Following is text of Archbishop O'Sullivan's sermon:

"The saintly Pontiff, Pope Pius XI, summarized for us the importance of the priesthood in the brief assertion that 'nothing is more acceptable to God, more honorable to the Church and more profitable to souls than the precious gift of a holy priest'."

"It would be a disservice to the American people to treat events in Korea with optimism." Tydings told reporters.

"We all should realize the difficulties that confront the nation and the free democratic world, not only in Korea but also in some five or six other areas."

Tydings declined to list these "other sensitive areas" except to say they were "outside Korea."

Speculation on possible danger points has centred chiefly on Iran, Turkey, Yugoslavia and Greece in the Middle East, and Indo-China, Malaya, Burma and India in the Far East.

Spending Holiday In Native Province

Back home in Prince Edward Island for two weeks' vacation is Mr. George Gardiner, a former Islander who works on the research and development of rockets and guided missiles at New Mexico State College and the White Sands Proving Grounds in New Mexico, U.S.A.

Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Gardiner motored to the Province last week. Mr. Gardiner was born in Charlottetown, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gardiner, Grafton Street, and has been in the United States since 1929.

Beyond saying that he was a member of a civilian organization that did work for the Army, Navy and Air Force, Mr. Gardiner could disclose little. Much of his work pertains to naval developments as he is connected with the firing of rockets at sea.

There are about 60 people working in the laboratory in which he is employed and there are other numerous labs at the State College.

This is Mr. and Mrs. Gardiner's second visit to the Province in two years as they vacationed here last summer. They will spend another week at Southport cabins.

extra years of study 'but a few years because of the greatness of his love.' He was 27 years old when the blessed day of ordination dawned for him.

Suddenly Stricken

"He had four busy years at the Cathedral when he was stricken with what appeared like a fatal collapse of health. He was persuaded to go to California where he was given charge of a little mission dedicated to the Archangel Raphael. Whether it was due to the miraculous intercession of this great archangel who once cured Tobias, or simply because of the long journey and rested the young invalid from the exhaustion of overwork and overstudy—which was likely his only trouble, Father MacAulay, within three days shook off the shackles of sickness and California itself, like David casting aside the cumbersome armour of Saul when it interfered with God's work. He returned home completely cured, to spend 9 busy years organizing Morell parish as its first pastor; another ten years at Hope River—and the past thirty-eight years here, in his native parish. He has worked unceasingly for the greater glory of God, for the honor and progress of the Church in this diocese and for the welfare of the flock committed to his pastoral care.

"Truly, by the achievements of his zeal, Monsignor MacAulay has been a precious gift from God—But works alone are not sufficient. First, conduct implies, above all else, supernatural goodness, personal holiness, sanctity of life. At the ordination of every priest the Church prays that he may be 'irreproachable in life and established in grace' so that all may be edified by his good example. People generally take the holiness of a priest for granted; it is only when he slips from holiness that publicity is given to it. Every priest, no matter how he strives to be good, knows how far he falls short of the high standard of holiness which his sacred office requires. The web of each man's life is mingled yarn, good and ill together.

"We dare not pry into the inner sanctuary of the soul where God alone sees the great battles for sanctity and perfection that are fought and won by each person, himself, cooperating with the external credentials of holiness found in Monsignor MacAulay's long priesthood; the daily Mass which he has offered for sixty years; the frequent administration of the sacraments; the eloquent preaching of the word of God, Sunday after Sunday, in few intermissions. All these have been contacts with Divinity itself, the source of all holiness. It was on the feast of Corpus Christi that he was ordained and his whole life, since, has been redolent with devotion to the Eucharistic Heart of Jesus.

An Enduring Monument

"This church stands as a monument to his love for the 'beauty of God's house and the place where the Divine Glory dwelleth'. From the Sacred Heart, too, he learned to practice those priestly virtues of humility, detachment from the lure of earthly things, simplicity in the way of living. No one cast of blame Monsignor MacAulay of accusing Monsignor MacAulay of serving God with a divided heart, or of striving up for himself treasures in this world.

"On the morning of his ordination, he solemnly pledged 'reverence and obedience' to Bishop McIntyre and his successors. From their heavenly thrones, Bishops McIntyre and MacDonald and the two Bishops O'Leary, long since dead, join with Bishop Boyle and myself in proclaiming how faithfully Monsignor MacAulay has kept that bond of loyalty, obedience and love. He has seen many changes in this diocese under these bishops and has taken a leading part in everything that has been accomplished for its welfare.

"While he is a link with their past, he has ever become their dreamy praiser to the disparagement of the present. In his green old age he is just as interested as ever in all that is new in this favored portion of God's kingdom. There is something of perpetual youth about him and it must rejoice his apostolic heart to see the marvellous developments and improvements achieved in the past six years under Bishop Boyle's glorious and progressive administration.

Creamery Butter Production Down; More Margarine

(By The Canadian Press)

OTTAWA, July 11—Creamery butter production was three per cent lower in June and the first six months of this year than in the corresponding periods of 1949, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today.

The month's output declined to 40,063,000 pounds from 41,138,000 in June last year, and in the half year to 118,874,000 pounds from 123,001,000.

Cheeddar cheese production was 12 per cent lower in June, amounting to 18,241,000 pounds, compared with 20,615,000 a year earlier.

Output of concentrated milk products stood at 56,388,000 pounds, compared with 49,873,000 in June last year.

Stocks of creamery butter were higher on July 1, amounting to 49,800,000 pounds compared with 32,127,000 at June 1 and 43,827,000 on the corresponding date last year.

Cheese stocks totalled 86,730,000 pounds, compared with 37,238,000 and 32,424,000.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today production of margarine in Canada during June decreased to 6,116,000 pounds from 8,019,000 in May and 6,972,000 in the corresponding month last year.

Despite the decline in the month, cumulative total for the first six months of this year rose to 49,038,000 pounds from 33,331,000 in the similar period of 1949.

and straw shipped during the month in comparison with none in the same month a year ago.

Fruit imports were below those of a year ago as nine carloads were imported in June against 19 carloads in June of 1949. Fertilizer and lime imports were also well below those of 1949 with 29 carloads of fertilizer being imported in June of this year against 51 in June of one year ago.

Lime imports were 129 carloads in June 1950 and 149 for the same month in 1949.

Railway coal imports showed the biggest drop, with only one carload being imported in June 1950 against 166 carloads in the same period 1949.

Total carloads shipped from Cape Tormentine to Borden during the month was 228 below those of June 1949, as 1557 cars were ferried in the past month against 1783 in 1949.

There were 629 carloads ferried from Borden to Tormentine against 479 in the same month a year ago, an increase of 150 carloads.

The following are the shipments from Cape Tormentine to Borden for the month, with the figures for 1949 in brackets:

Autos (commercial), 76 (44); barrels, empty, 1 (2); coal, 109 (87); flour and feed, 163 (172); gas and oils, 187 (160); H.H. goods, 0 (2); hardware, 5 (0); lumber, 85 (73); livestock, 8 (7); less carloads, 321 (273); meats, 5 (5); machinery, 20 (14); sugar, 22 (18); salt, 35 (39); drinks, including liquors, 22 (13); miscellaneous, 208 (212); trucks, 5 (1); railway material, 60 (16); cement, 36 (35); canned goods, 30 (17); sand and gravel, 14 (243).

From Borden to Tormentine

Butter and cheese, 2 (0); barrels, empty, 1 (2); eggs, 3 (3); fish, 10 (11); H.H. goods, 2 (1); hides, 2 (2); less carloads, 78 (88); starch, 5 (3); miscellaneous, 49 (34); bottles, 7 (5); machinery, 3 (2); railway material, 17 (4); vegetables, 3 (1); sand and gravel, 0 (1); lumber, 0 (1). Total—629 (479).

Thank Him for this precious gift of a holy priest; but to be an outpouring of heavenly peace and joy into the hearts of his dear old vestry in God's service. Many a time as he read his daily office, he must have lingered in wonderment over those verses of the 72nd psalm which seem almost an epitome of his own life: "Thou hast held me by my right hand and by Thy will Thou hast conducted me, and with Thy glory Thou hast received me: for what have I done, O God, that I should be praised? These what do I desire upon earth: Thou art the God of my heart and the God that is my portion forever."

"No doubt he had his own share of sorrows which are common to all mankind but he lost no time over them in idle lamentations. As years passed with their harvest of deaths, when he consoled his own dear parishioners in their trials and afflictions or bade a last farewell to cherished friends, or offered the Requiem for younger brothers in the priesthood, he only paused the longer at that other invocation of the psalmist: "Thou hast taught me, O God, from my youth and till now I will declare Thy wonderful works: Cast me not off in the time of mine old age; when my strength shall fail, forsake me not, O Lord."

"That prayer has not gone unanswered. Time has dealt gently with him, as if he feared to mar any of his fine mental faculties for their heavenly homegoing. What matters it if his eyes have become a little dim for earthly vision; they now see more clearly those imperishable joys of heaven. What matters it if his ears are not so keen to earthly sounds as long as they are attuned to the music of celestial choirs where Mary and the Saints, where his own dear parents and loved ones of yore join with us today in praising and thanking God for sparing to us for sixty years, and many more we hope, this precious gift of a holy priest—this grand old beloved pastor, this worthy prelate of the Church, Monsignor MacAulay: God love him and bless him always, tourist trade was the subject of another resolution.

Other resolutions dealt with the publishing of the "Island Hymn" by L. M. Montgomery; more space for the handicraft displays at the Provincial Exhibition, and children's allowances for orphanages.

The resolution in regard to the dumping of rubbish along highways again came up for discussion, and it was thought that it was not so much the fault of the rural people, as of the people from the towns and villages. A resolution was worded to the effect that men and women living together out of wedlock have a right to attend on children in the home. It was thought that these cases should be investigated by the Children's Aid Society.

A resolution asking that all apparently intoxicated persons be given a medical examination before being lodged in the jail was carried.

Rural Girls' Scholarship

The immediate establishing of a scholarship for rural girls studying Home Economics was the subject of another resolution, and it was resolved that in order to build the fund up to the necessary $10,000, each Institute be asked to contribute twenty-five cents per member, annually.

It was also resolved that thanks be tendered to Mrs. E. E. Morton, other guest speakers, and all those who had contributed in any way to make the Convention such an outstanding success.

Music Festival Report

In reporting for the Musical Festival, Mrs. E. Cook explained the purpose of festivals of this type, and answered many questions asked at the workings. "The Festival is a time when all participants have an opportunity of learning what progress they are making," she said.

Confidence in singing or playing is gained by singing before the audiences, and in addition to the learning, the school groups are learning in the school to the musical knowledge gained the ability to work together as a group or team. Quite often these school groups are able to achieve something quite lovely which they could never hope to do as individuals.

"A musical education," Mrs. Cook said, "As well as any other form of education, is only valuable to the degree to which it is used."

The fact that the Winsloe Station School had won the Institute Shield in the recent festival, Mrs. Cook then called upon Mr. Royston F. Mugford to give a practical demonstration with some of the Parkdale children of the progress they were making in their musical education.

The first number presented was a delightful solo "Little White Boat" by Ferne Herman, followed by the "Hush Song", exceptionally well sung by Barbara MacKinnon. 12 pupils of grade 5 then took the stage to give a performance of a rhythm band. They were directed by Beverley Good, who directed not only the band but the accompanist as well.

As Mr. Mugford stated afterwards, if the director of the band should get off beat, the accompanist will go wrong at the same time. He stressed very strongly the benefits derived from rhythm bands in the school and suggested that Institutes should foster their organization whenever possible. With the instruments costing as little as seven dollars, and no special musical knowledge necessary to teach the children to use them, he thought that it would be a definite step towards teaching the young to play music.

Replies to the questionnaires on Education and Social Welfare, indicate that these topics are of vital interest to rural women," said Mrs. W. E. MacKinnon as she read her Social Welfare report. She stressed the need for a good sound elementary education, and stated that this is not being provided at the present time. To prove her point, Mrs. MacKinnon declared that fifty per cent of the rural students fail to pass the entrance examinations of Prince of Wales College.

Ten Institutes are studying Home and School Association literature with a view to sponsoring their organization in their districts. Mrs. MacKinnon strongly urged more Institute groups to undertake the starting of these organizations in their communities, in order that parents might join and discuss freely what is best for their children.

Mrs. MacKinnon, referred to an article by Agnes MacKinnon in the 17th issue of the Guardian and quoted, "Women Institute members display an uncommon persistency, a very desirable feminine trait." "Do you suppose," she said, "that he could have had in mind our persistent effort to arouse in our Government a sense of the need for a dormitory for rural students attending Prince of Wales College and the need for a Home and School for retarded children in this Province?"

Addressing the members present, Hon. A. W. Matheson, K.C., Minister of Health and Welfare, told them that although they did not take an active part politically, they still exercised a great influence upon the political picture, perhaps far more than they realized.

Welfare Emphasized

Speaking on the work of the Department of Health and Welfare, Mr. Matheson said that although "Health" has had lots of publicity, "Welfare" receives very little. He referred to the grant of $40,000 for extra-mural treatment of tuberculosis, and also to the investigators appointed to look into cases requesting aid, or receiving it through the Mother's Allowance. "Maximum in these cases is $50.00," he stated, "and the minimum is at the discretion of the investigators."

Mr. Matheson declared that people should be able to work out their own destinies without dependence upon the Government for financial support.

"There are now forty million members in the Junior Red Cross," said Dr. Muriel Uppichard, M.A., Ph.D., National Director of the Junior Red Cross. Started in 1920's, the organization has grown until there are 900,000 members in Canada alone.

Dr. Richard referred to the need of special attention to health in the children of today, and the need of making the schools as healthful, clean, and bright as possible. "The school lunch problem is a vital one," she said, "and should receive immediate attention."

Mrs. M. J. Doyle spoke on the question of Home and School clubs, and advised that parents talk over their children's problems with the teacher, in private, whenever possible.

In the Publicity report by Mrs. F. Gates, it was announced that a scrap-book, containing Island scenes, handicrafts, items of Institute work, articles of geographical and historical interest, and general letters written in the Dutch language by new Canadians had been prepared, and would be taken by Mrs. MacLeod to be presented to the Netherlands delegates in Copenhagen next month.

Appreciation was expressed to the newspapers and the radio station for their help.

Morning Session

Mrs. Harold Laird, Kelvin Grove, Provincial Vice President, presided at the morning session which opened with the citizenship report as read by Mrs. R. L. Burge, Fortune Road.

"The home is and should be the foundation for good citizenship," Mrs. Burge said. "Good citizenship must be taught and developed." She continued by saying that second to the home in influence, is the school, and that each and every member of the Institute should take an active interest in any activity which is for the good of their community. Mr. Gerald Foster, Charlottetown, also spoke for a few minutes on this subject.

Speaking on the Drama Festival, Mrs. Jack Foley reported for Mrs. Ray MacLeod who was unable to attend. Mrs. Foley told of the organization of the Drama Festival in 1948 with six institutes plays competing, and how it has grown until in the recent festival three evening performances of finalists had to be held, with junior, senior and urban groups competing. It was announced that a trophy has been offered for the best presentation from King's County next year.

Mrs. Jack Foley, designer of the Provincial Life Membership pin, then urged all members who were artistically inclined to forward samples of their work for exhibition in the forthcoming display at the Provincial Exhibition. Mrs. Foley drew attention to the craft pin, which consisted of mainly pairings and needlecraft.

Evening Session

Mr. W. R. Bird, Pictou, author of the recent book "This is Nova Scotia," entertained the evening session with a most humorous address, speaking on "The Real Canada." Mr. Bird took the ladies on a tour which he had made across Canada, highlighting it with stories which brought many laughs from the large audience. He stated that every centre he had visited had claimed that they had the best part of Canada, which he said was exactly the same feeling found in Prince Edward Island, or any other Maritime Province.

Although the lights had failed just previous to Mr. Bird's speech, he had agreed with the Executive that the session should go on, and was prepared to begin in the dark. As he rose to his feet and gave the audience the chance to watch as well as hear this well known speaker.

A presentation of two Island scenes was made to Mrs. E. E. Morton at the dinner held at the Charlottetown Hotel, and short speeches commenting on the work of the Institute, and especially of the supervisors, were made by the Hon. J. Walter Jones, Premier, Hon. C. C. Baker, Minister of Agriculture, and Mr. Lloyd Shaw, Director of Education.

During the evening session vocal duets were heard from Miss Bethany MacDonald and Miss Hilda

Average Wages By Provinces

OTTAWA, July 11—(CP)—The steady rise in average employee wages in major non-farm industries continued through April, hitting another new peak at May 1.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today the average weekly earnings in the major non-agricultural industries at May 1 was $44.99, compared with $44.88 at April 1 and $43.19 at May 1 of last year.

Individual earnings increased in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Ontario and British Columbia but were lower in the other Provinces.

Here are the figures by Provinces:

Indian Doctor To Study Health, Welfare In Canada

OTTAWA, July 11—(CP)—A woman doctor has come from far away India to study health and welfare in Canada.

Attractive Dr. Harbans Kaur Indarjit Singh, in Canada for six months on a United Nations fellowship, spoke with interest during an interview today of Government and voluntary health and welfare organizations in Canada.

In India and in the Province of East Punjab, where she is inspector of health centres, all health and welfare is government-controlled.

She said India eventually hopes to develop voluntary health and welfare organizations throughout the country. But, at the moment, providing its millions of population with food and housing is among its first objectives.

Dr. Singh said that in her country the population runs to 300 persons to an acre. And literacy is five per cent.

For two weeks Dr. Singh has been visiting health and welfare centres in the Capital and talking to Health Department officials.

Before returning home she hopes to tour the country as far west as British Columbia.

Pickard, Charlottetown. Mrs. L. Kipfer, Summerside, was heard in the lovely solo "A Brown Bird Sings" and the plantation selection "My Curly Headed Baby."

The afternoon and evening sessions were both presided over by Mrs. Malcolm MacLeod, whose term as President lasts for another year.
