

THE AUSTIN A-30 "SEVEN"

Now appearing in Austin showrooms across Canada is the new Austin A-30 4-door sedan, the 1933 edition of the most famous small car in automobile history, the pre-war Austin Seven. It provides comfortable transportation for four adults and its makers say it will deliver up to 50 miles per gallon of gas. Included in its delivered price of $1495, anywhere in Canada, are such features as: foam rubber cushioning on front and back seats, leather upholstery, powerful heater, 12 volt electrical system, constant speed electric windshield wipers and front wheel suspension.

FUNERAL SATURDAY—The funeral of the late Eugene M. Glover, who passed away at Ocean Falls, B.C., on February 16th, was held Saturday afternoon, Feb. 23rd, from the Murray Harbour United Church. The service was conducted by Rev. W. D. MacPherson. Hymns sung were "A Land That Is Fairer Than Day", and "Abide With Me". A duet, "The Old Rugged Cross", was beautifully sung by Mrs. Silas Hugh and Miss Vera Beck. Pall-bearers were Messrs. Silas Hugh, Robert Bell, Roy Nicolle, Harry White, Leonard Brennan and Harold Beck. Interment was in the Murray Harbour cemetery.

REBEKAH LODGE MEETING—There were twenty-three members present at the regular meeting of Acme Rebekah Lodge, Montague, Thursday evening, Feb. 22nd. The meeting opened in regular form with the noble grand, Mrs. Leroy White, presiding. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Miss Thelma Larter, and were approved as read. The correspondence was read and discussed. The convenor of the visiting committee, Miss Sue Hemphill, was asked to send cards to a sister and a brother who are in hospital, and to a sister who is confined to her home. Mrs. C. A. Shaw, Mrs. Spencer Llewellyn and Mrs. H. E. Nelson were appointed on a committee to supervise the arrangement of the stage for the Irish concert. At the close of the meeting the members enjoyed a social hour featuring an auction sale, and sing-song with Mrs. L. A. Johnston as piano accompanist. Lunch was served by Mrs. Willie, Mrs. J. L. MacLeod and Miss Mary Hemphill.

On December 28th, the community of St. Andrew's was saddened by the sudden death of Mr. D. Frank Egan. The late Mr. Egan was born on July 15, 1869, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Egan. He received his education at St. Andrew's school and Prince of Wales College. He became one of the foremost teachers on Prince Edward Island, a profession which he pursued for many years. In later years he took over his fathers farm and became an expert in the production of seed potatoes.

IN MEMORIAM

MR. D. FRANK EGAN On December 28th, the community of St. Andrew's was saddened by the sudden death of Mr. D. Frank Egan. The late Mr. Egan was born on July 15, 1869, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Egan. He received his education at St. Andrew's school and Prince of Wales College. He became one of the foremost teachers on Prince Edward Island, a profession which he pursued for many years. In later years he took over his fathers farm and became an expert in the production of seed potatoes. He was a devout Roman Catholic, a member of the Holy Name Society and C.M.B.A. In his last moments he was fortified by the last rites of the Church, administered by his pastor Rev. Geo. MacCormack, who also sung the funeral Mass and performed the services at the grave. Despite the inclemency of the weather at that time, friends from far and near came to pay their last tribute of respect to a conscientious teacher, a true friend and a kind neighbour. There are left to mourn his loss and cherish his memory, one sister Amelia, two sons John and Adrian, also two grand-children. His wife predeceased him some years ago. The pall-bearers were Neil Munn, Frank Rose, D. J. MacDonald, Francis Rose, Wilfred Doucette, Damien Feenan. Interment took place in the Church Cemetery. Requiescat in Pace.

Australian

The price is not the same incentive to the development of synthetics to replace wool, as was the boom price of two years ago. The record price of 1950-51, when Australian wool sold for $638,000,000, never seemed real to anyone in Australia. Wool income for 1946-47 was only $92,000,000. From July 1, 1952, to the end of January this year, Australian wool has brought just over $210,000,000 and the season's total looks as if it will be well over last season's $308,000,000. Those figures make it fairly clear there has been no slump—just a boom, then a levelling off with prices still at a relatively high level. About 100,000 men own Australia's 115,000,000 sheep. Ten thousand are big graziers who produce about half of Australia's wool on properties of 5,000 to more than 100,000 acres.

A LONELY MOTHER

A baby sweet and golden haired, God sent you here to me, Since then my loneliness has shared In my cottage by the sea. Thea came the call you must obey— To the battle field must go. From happy home you went away. To where or what you did not know. Your father too did cross the sea— To fight a bitter foe. Deep in the clay of Normandy His life-blood there did flow. Dear beloved son of mine, I close my eyes for fear The moon's soft light might shine Upon your empty chamber here. In this same cottage I'll await For news from o'er the sea— The news that will to me relate You are coming home to me. —Lena Vessey Portland 5, Maine. (Formerly of Montague.)

Commissioner Bennett On Visit To Charlottetown

Mr. W. J. Bennett, Chief Commissioner of St. John Ambulance in Canada, arrives tonight in Charlottetown to help revive the interest of Prince Edward Island people in the important work of first aid and home nursing. "I hope to be of some help in getting St. John Ambulance back into the place it should hold in this province," Mr. Bennett says of his trip. "St. John has a history in Prince Edward Island" that goes back as far as any other place in Canada and we would like to see it regain its former status. St. John training has not entirely died out in the Province. Some training is done in schools and the C.N.R. gives courses to its employees. However, the Chief Commissioner and some Island people hope that training among the general public can be revived for two reasons. One is that that home nursing and first aid training would be invaluable in the event of any enemy attack and the second is that even in everyday life the training is necessary—to help accident victims in the home, at school, on the farms, at swimming beaches, on the highways and in the fishing industry. Home nursing training—with Canada's present critical shortage of hospital beds—fills a definite need in any community.

Mr. W. J. Bennett

Can Happen Anywhere "An accident can happen anywhere," Mr. Bennett states, "and unless there is someone close at hand who knows first aid or has medical experience, the victim can become more seriously injured or even die." As an example of how first aid can save a life, Mr. Bennett mentions a recent case in New Brunswick where three school boys rescued another almost drowned boy and, because they had learned artificial respiration through St. John training in schools, were able to revive the boy. "Had it not been for the knowledge these three boys acquired through St. John training, the fourth boy would have undoubtedly drowned," Mr. Bennett stated. "That incident shows why we are interested in training as many people as possible." Mr. Bennett became the senior executive officer of St. John Ambulance in Canada in 1943, having been head of first aid training in the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada for 25 years previously and active in St. John work for 20 years.
