CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions or statements of our correspondents.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in Saturday's edition of your paper a notice in reference to all liquors taken as samples, the ganger, Mr.
James Lawson, being required to hand over to Mr. Curtis, Chief Landing Waiter and Searcher, and self-styled Surveyor, the samples after ten days to be destroyed.

In behalf of the Scott Act and temperance generally, I ask if it would not be for the good of the community that the matter of destroying these samples be put into the hands of some known and tried temperance man?
I could constantly encounter grave doubts about the proper destruction of said samples, when left in the charge of any one who had strong appetite for the soul destroying fluid.
Viewing this matter strictly from the temperance side of the question, I would ask why was the duty of destroying samples taken from the ganger, who is known to be a total abstainer himself and a man of principle, who, for conscience sake, would gladly not only destroy the samples, but all the liquor in existence? I think this is a matter that should be taken hold of by temperance organizations all through the Dominion. Let them remember that the Government officials are only their servants, and let them dare to assert their rights. And if their servants will not faithfully carry out their instructions, viz.—to put those officials out and put better men in their places.

It would be a great improvement to have any honest man of third or fourth rate ability, to be in the places of these over-bearing, audacious nobodies, who seem to think they are something more than common, whom to criticize would be an outrage for which the offender should receive some terrible punishment. I call on temperance men to see that this abuse of power is brought to an end at once. Let whoever it may concern make a cets of this—that when a majority of the people, by their votes, make a law to promote temperance, they will be heard.

Yours truly,
SCOTT ACT.

The Czar's Coronation.

In the Council of Ministers held on Saturday it was finally decided that the coronation of the Czar should be put off until next year. This grave decision was arrived at in consequence of numerous revolutionary indications discovered by the Moscow police as the preparation progressed. The Empress wished the ceremony to take place on the 17th of September, the Russian 29th, the anniversary of her arrival in Russia. The Council of Ministers had decided to adopt this date provided that General Dolgorouki, Governor General of Moscow, was favorable. It was the information furnished by the latter on his arrival which determined the postponement. This decision disconcerts every one, as it will furnish aliment to the party of the Grand Duke Constantine, which bases its hopes on the theory that a Russian sovereign is not really an Emperor until he is crowned, and that the people should depose the prince who refuses to submit to the ceremony. It was resolved in the same Council that to mitigate the evil effect of this decision that their Majesties would soon pay a private visit to Moscow.

Uses of a Willow.

The willow is seldom looked upon as good for anything else but fuel, yet it possesses wood of much value for other purposes. In England, where it is often sixty or seventy feet high in twenty years, there is no wood in greater demand than good willow. It is light, very tough, soft, and takes a good finish, and will bear more pounding and knocks than any other wood grown there, and hence its use for cricket bats, for floats to paddle-wheels to steamers, and brake blocks to cars. It is used extensively for turning, planking coasting vessels, furniture, ox-yokes, wooden legs, shoe lasts, etc. Fuller says:—"It grows thickly fast—it being a by-word that the profit by willows will buy the owner a horse before that by others will pay for the saddle." The basket willow, well cultivated, will yield a net income of $150 a year to the acre. On the whole, therefore, it would seem that the various kinds of willow, the economic value of which has been hitherto entirely over-looked in our country, are eminently deserving of attention and will amply reward those who cultivate them.

Personal.

LONDON Academy arranges English poets of the present age in the following order:—Tenny-son, Browning, Rossetti, Morris, Arnold, and Swinburne.
DOM PEDRO, the present Emperor of Brazil, has been on the throne longer than any other living monarch, and his reign exceeds by six years that of Queen Victoria. His father abdicated in his favor on the 7th of April, 1831, more than fifty-one years ago, but he was governed by regents for some time until he attained his majority.

HERBERT SPENCER dictates every word of his books to an amanuensis, and works only three hours a day. For years he has not worked longer than that. Then, when the allotted three hours are spent, anything for

GENERAL NEWS.

The latest English fashion is the painting of blue veins on ladies' temples, wrists and arms.

Blue serge will be worn, trimmed with red, white or black braid, and having wide box plaits or small kiltings.

A Boston court has decided that ice-cream is not to be classified among the necessaries of life, and has fined a confec-tioner ten dollars and costs for selling it on Sunday.

The September report of the Ontario Bureau of Industries shows that throughout Western Ontario the harvest season was an unusually long and tedious one.
The east fared somewhat better. The crops throughout are not so good as those of preceding years.

There are thirty-three "railway schools" in Russia for the instruction of employes, established because not very long ago it was impossible to get Russians with education enough to be intrusted with the higher places, and even at this one-half of all the locomotive engineers in Russia are Germans.

Nihilism is still the terror of the Russian Government, if we may judge from the resolution of the Council of Ministers to postpone the coronation of the Emperor at Moscow until next year. The date of this event has been more than once fixed, but fear of the plotters against the Czar has led to its postponement from time to time.

A fund is being raised for the erection of a church at Spire, to perpetuate the memory of the famous protest laid before the Diet held in that city by six princes and fourteen imperial towns, on the 19th of April, 1529, which gave to the partizans of Luther the name of Protestants. The estimated cost of the building is about £45,000.

Even the Russians appear to have been struck with the good work done by the English and Indian cavalry during the Egyptian campaign, especially with their expertise in dismounting and fighting as infantry. The authorities have quickly learned the lesson, and an order will be issued transforming the whole of the cavalry, except specimen regiments of the Guards and Cossacks, into Dragoons, who shall fight both on horseback and on foot.

A news association understands that in the event of an early close of the Egyptian campaign, Sir Charles Dilke, Under Foreign Secretary, is likely to be promoted to a position in the Cabinet. A new appointment will be made to fill the office which he at present holds. Fresh appointments will also probably be made to the presidency of the Council and the Chancellorship of the Duchy of Lancaster before the next session of Parliament, and Mr. Childers, War Secretary, will become Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The question was repeatedly asked, both during and after the debate on the vote of credit in the House of Commons, what guarantee the Government had that the war would last only three months. Mr.
Childers must have had some kind of assurance that it would not continue much beyond that term, for he gave as a reason why Sir Garnet Wolseley and his colleagues of high rank had been allowed to retain their civil offices at home as well as their military appointments abroad, that the war was expected to be of short duration.

The Arabic paper, El Taif, fairly eclipsed all other journals in its description of the bombardment of Alexandria. Here is a portion of its account:—"War News.—On Tuesday, 25 Sharn, 1299, at 12 o'clock in the morning (July 11, 7 a. m.), the English opened fire on the forts of Alexandria, and we returned the fire. At 3 o'clock (10 a. m.) an ironclad riddled off Fort Adia.
At 5 o'clock (noon) two vessels were sunk between Fort Pharos and Fort Adjem.
At half-past six (1.30 p. m.) a wooden man-of-war of eight guns was sunk. And there is much more of the same sort."

Francis Edward MacDonald is the name of the happy man who married the daughter of H. H. Cook, M. P., for East Simcoe, at Toronto, the other day. The bride wore a rich, ivory-satin robe, with real Brussels point lace bonnet, the collar Elizabethan style, the front elaborately brodered with pearls, garniture of French orange blossoms, myrtle, jessamine, handsome wreath of flowers, and real Brussels point lace veil. The bridesmaids were attired in rich white watered silk, trimmed with nerverelle lace, wreaths of shaded roses, long tulle veils, and baskets of shaded roses and ferns. The bridal presents were numerous and valuable, the bride's father giving the furnished house and grounds on Wellington place, Toronto, known as "Canaan," and $50,000 in addition.

A correspondent of the Providence Journal writes from the Narragansett Pier, that every one seems to be picturesque in the bathing costume. The young women never look so handsome as when they step lightly and with unfettered limbs down to the embraces of the sea, and emerge dripping from the rolling wall of water. Their red caps on the bluewater make spots of color to delight the painter's eye, and the unconstrained grace of their attitudes is something never seen in the cramping confinement of fashionable dress. They have a life of energy of movement in keeping with their unfettered freedom; and here is one running with no unequal pace in a race with a young man, whereas in a trailing dress she would have been helpless in the contest. The young men are almost equally improved by the revelation of their figures, and some of them look like athl-tes ready for the olympic games. Here are a couple whose superabundant muscle is stimulated by the bath and the vigorous air to the necessity of a run, and, with elbows pressed to the sides, they start out for a mile race along the sand.
