FOR THE WOMEN

A Simple Spring Hat.

If my muse is propitious I'm going to sing Of a very remarkable sort of a thing: 'Tis the structure the women this year call a "hat": It might be most anything, so why not that?

And if any woman who's got half a will in her Would like to know how she can be her own milliner, And thus possess one of those wondrous confections, She has but to follow those simple directions:

First, take for the ground work what's known as a frame (The shape doesn't matter, no two are the same).

Then take lots of ribbon and make in-to bows, Wide, narrow, red, yellow, mauve, everything goes.

Next scatter these ribbon bows over the crown, In front and behind, wrong side out, upside down; If you put them on blindfold, you'll get an effect That the leaders of fashion will cry is "correct"

Then gather gay garlands of marvelous hue, Green roses, pink lilacs, and poppies of blue, And place them in bunches wherever there's room, Till you've built up a bower of fanciful bloom.

The hat, if you've carefully followed my words, Is now ready for adding occasional birds, Two wings a few feathers, a pompon, some lace, And three jewelled hatpins to keep it in place.

You now have a head-gear that no one would know Was not a creation of Madame Vivot: And if you've good taste you will hide it away, And buy a neat "sailor" to wear every day.

Diet in Health.

In health as a rule, to live generously is to live wisely. A dish which includes a variety of fairly digestible articles of food supplies a reserve fund which enables the system to meet emergencies, and to avoid the possibility of "physiological bankruptcy." Hippocrates observes that "a very slender and restricted diet is dangerous to persons in health, because they bear transgressions of it with more difficulty." A sound digestion seems to possess, within certain limits, a capacity for adapting itself to circumstances—at any rate, for the time being. When taxed beyond endurance, like "the whirligig of time," it "works its revenges"

Another fallacy is that we should eat what we do not like; or as many unhappy children are taught, "we must eat what is good for us, whether we like it or not." In other words we must disobey the instinct whereby nature protects our idiosyncrasies. Even Poor Richard, who is generally so sensible—and who is by no means an ascetic—enjoins his reader: "Wouldst thou enjoy a long life, a healthy body, and a vigorous mind, and be acquainted also with the wonderful works of God, labor in the first place to bring thy appetite to reason" (as if the physical laws of life are to be ignored), and bids him "eat for necessity, not pleasure."

A healthy appetite craves and digests the food material which the system requires. If we know that in infancy milk is essential to the human organism, because before the age of six months or thereabouts, the "physiological machinery" is not prepared for the digestion of starchy foods; that in childhood sugar and starch and fat are required to supply the elements especially needed for growth; that in youth bread and meat in abundance are necessary to meet the increasing demands which development imposes on the constitution; that in mature life when the brain is most exercised, digestible phosphatic salts are needed to repair wasted tissue; that in old age less food is required, and bread, as the nonagenarian Sir Isaac Holden asserted, renders the arteries "like furred boilers—if we find, in brief that every period and condition of life has certain exigencies in which reason must take instinct for her guide—we should listen to the voice of instinct, realizing that the appetite is subject to a "law of its own." This law does not involve the fallacy that instinct is not to be trained or disciplined; it only requires that the function instinct be given due recognition. In the words of Shakespeare we should let "good digestion wait on appetite, and health on both."—Harper's Bazar.

Hot Cross Buns.

An exchange gives the following receipt for hot cross buns. Rub quarter pound of butter into two pounds flour, and add a pinch of salt. Into a cup of fresh yeast stir a pint of warm milk and gradually stir this into the flour till it forms a light batter. Cover over and allow it to rise, then work into it with a wooden spoon half pound of sugar, half nutmeg (grated), half pound currants, one egg, and half teaspoon allspice. Knead well, cover again, and allow it to stand until perfectly spongy; then knead into buns, cut a cross on top, let rise until light, cover with clarified sugar, and bake twenty minutes.

Weak and Run Down, With Heart and Kidneys in Bad Condition—Restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I was very much run down, having been sick for several months. I had been trying different remedies which did me no good. I would have severe spells of coughing that would leave me prostrate. I was told that my lungs were affected, and my heart and kidneys were in a bad condition. In fact, it seemed as though every organ was out of order. I felt that something must be done and my brother advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I procured a bottle and began taking it. Before it was half gone I felt that it was helping me. I continued its use and it has made me a new man. I cannot praise it too highly." MRS. SUMMERVILLE, 217 Ossington Avenue, Toronto, Ontario. Get only Hood's, because

GIVEN UP TO DIE

Was Mr. E. N. Stowell, but Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Him.

Brockville, March 27.—When an eminent physician notified a sick man that his case is hopeless and that he must die, he is it may be taken for granted, in a very bad way.

That was the position of Mr. Ed. N. Stowell, of this city, not long ago. He had suffered all the agonies of Bright's Disease for several years. The ablest physicians had pronounced his case hopeless, and he began to "set his house in order," when a friend urged him to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. One box put new life in him, seven boxes cured him. Now his friends hardly know him for the same man.

Score one more for Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Chronic Eczema Cured.

One of the most chronic cases of Eczema ever cured is the case of Miss Gracie Ella Allen, of Hartland, N. B. On a sworn statement Mr. Allen says: I hereby certify that my daughter Gracie Ella was cured of Eczema of long standing by using four boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. William Thistle, druggist, of Hartland also certifies that he sold four boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment which cured Gracie Ella.

According to a Toronto dispatch Premier Laurier has notified Mr. Spence of the Dominion Alliance that the vote in favor of prohibition did not represent such a proportion of the electorate as would justify the introduction by the government of a prohibitory law. The government decision is, it is unnecessary to say, unsatisfactory and displeasing to the friends of prohibition.

Tailor-Made vs. Factory-Made!

Take up the printed announcements of makers and importers of ready-made clothing, and when they strive to give emphasis to the alleged merits of their clothing they invariably tell how nearly they approach to tailor-made. Here are some quotations—

"Elegantly tailored"

Cut and finished equal to ordered work," equal in quality, fit, and finish to suits made to order, or similar statements.

Then tailor-made clothes are different to imported factory-made, otherwise there would be no need to make comparisons. If tailor-made were not the better clothes they would not be held up as the ideal to which the ready-made strive to reach.

The fact is there is a great deal of difference between a factory-made imported suit and a tailor-made in style and durability.

The man that is indifferent as to the appearance of his clothes when he buys them and when worn a month, may be satisfied with a factory-made, but if he has regard to looks and economy, he will buy tailor-made garments.

For those who are not disposed to give the prices usually paid for clothes made to special order, and are not satisfied with the imported ready-made clothing, we have made, and are daily adding, Suits and Overcoats of superior workmanship that we are selling as low in price as imported makes of inferior quality.
