THE DAILY EXAMINER.

AUGUST 4, 1881.

Sir Leonard's Visit.

THE HON. SIR LEONARD TILLEY, Finance Minister of Canada, will arrive in Charlottetown on the evening of Wednesday, the 17th inst., on a visit to this Province. We understand that Sir Leonard will be accompanied by several other gentlemen of note.

We trust that no time will be lost in convening a large meeting of delegates from all the counties in the Island to complete the necessary arrangements for a series of public meetings, and to give Sir Leonard, and his friends, a most enthusiastic reception.

There should be no delay. The case on one side has been presented by Mr. Blake, and his Grit friends, Messrs. Anglin and Huntington. Let us now hear the other side as it will be presented by Sir Leonard and his friends.

The Disposition of the Surplus.

THE surplus (which Mr. Blake bemoans as so great an evil, preferring we presume, Mr. Cartwright's annual deficits, and the consequent increase of the public debt) will enable the Finance Minister at the next meeting of Parliament to propose the abolition of duty on tea and coffee, and on shipbuilding materials. This will restore these articles to the position on the free list which they occupied under the former Liberal-Conservative government, the Grits being the first to tax these articles. The removal of these duties cannot fail to commend the Government to the people of the Maritime Provinces, and particularly to the people of this Province, where the consumption of tea is more than double the quantity per head than in any other Province. The benefit of this will be felt by every householder; while the abolition of the duty on shipping material will aid an industry which is laboring under great disadvantages from the enormous increase in steam tonnage.

Financial Success in the States.

In 1880, and the first half of the present year, the States took upward of £33,500,000 in gold from Europe, instead of, as in former years sending thither large amounts, the produce of their mines. As a consequence of this large import of specie, and of the retention of their own metal, the currency has within two years increased about £65,000,000.

The Americans point with pride to the fact that, with this great increase their exports continue to exceed their imports. They can scarcely expect to be so fortunate for the next few years. Excellent accounts of crops come from Russia, Austria, France and Hungary; and on the whole, England anticipates a good harvest. Consequently the States will have to face great competition, and will find prices considerably lowered.

The unprecedented increase of specie, in America, during the last eighteen months will form one of the most interesting points in the history of that Republic.

The Number Present.

THERE must have been a very large beam in the eye of the editor of the Patriot when he glanced at THE EXAMINER's report of the meeting in the Rink. In violent language the Patriot charges us with attempting to deceive the people with respect to the number present; and it says that our "estimate of a thousand was ridiculously low."

Now, our statement was as follows:—

"There were, at first, of all classes, creeds and parties, about a thousand Electors present."

The ladies and the boys we put out of the count. Our statement was clear; and, we think, reasonable. But the Patriot grossly misrepresents it; and then calls it ridiculous.

A thousand men, we beg to inform our contemporary, make up a big crowd; and when we said that in addition to some four or five hundred ladies and two or three hundred boys, there were present about a thousand electors, we did not, we think, misrepresent the size of the fine, large, orderly, intelligent audience who "hung upon the lips of Mr. Blake." Perhaps our estimate was a little below the mark. Certainly it was not intentionally so. We have no interest in disparaging the meeting; for the more electors were there, the more will be prepared to intelligently apprehend the triumphant defence which Sir Leonard Tilley will, in the course of a few weeks, make.

The Grit Meeting at Georgetown.

WE have been given to understand by a person who was there, and counted the number, that there were present, at the Grit meeting at Georgetown, yesterday, just one hundred and twenty-seven persons all told. There was one side line of persons (mostly Conservatives) seated on the sills close to the walls of the Drill Shed, and twelve persons in the centre. Great enthusiasm!!

A French newspaper relates that a millionaire lost his entire fortune except about one hundred thousand francs, and died of grief within twenty-four hours. His brothers, who was his sole heir, had long struggled in poverty, and now, on the sudden receipt of what he considered as a large fortune, has just died of joy.

Notes by a Friend.

"Oh wad some power the giftie gie us
To see ourselves as others see us!
It wad frae mony a blunder free us,
And foolish notion."

AFTER a union such as that which took place in these Provinces in 1867, and 1873, it is natural that a feeling of provincialism should generally exist. With this thought in one's mind, it is a pleasure to note that as the years go on narrow views and low standards are gradually, if slowly, giving way before what is better and loftier. Throughout the length and breadth of our land we find a growing conviction that we are one people, that Nova Scotia is one with Manitoba, that Prince Edward Island is one with Ontario, and that our interests do not clash. Where we see this, we see also national hope, honest pride, enthusiasm, vigor, and enterprise. But we also find a feeling of petty provincial pride, a sort of degenerate development of the Anti-Confederation spirit, which leads men to believe that their sympathies are bounded by geographical lines, which breeds internal bickerings and external distrust, and deadens the public mind to nearly all that is elevated, charitable, and honorable.

This Provincial spirit, though dying out, is yet common in the Dominion; but, I think I do not exaggerate in saying that in no place is it so common as in this Island, and nowhere has it produced so disastrous an effect upon private life. Our insular position accounts to some extent for this. We are cut off in a measure from many of the influences of the outside world. In old times when there was more family connexion with England, I am sure there were less contracted notions prevalent. That, in time, ceased, and we made no effort to establish a new connexion between others and ourselves. When such an effort was at last made we repelled all advances with suspicion, till with bad grace we yielded to our own want of funds. We became separated, then self-centred, then provincial, then local, and now we are becoming—if we have not already become—ignorant.

Islanders of all kinds are notorious for thinking highly of themselves; and it is difficult to make them believe that they are less exalted than their own self-esteem; but one of the first impressions received by a stranger in Charlottetown is that of a general inferiority and narrow-mindedness. Our sympathies cannot cross the Straits. Self-content is perhaps the most dangerous of all qualities, and we are self-contented. We have set up our own standard without reference to the rest of the world, and we are satisfied with it. The fact stares us in the face at every turn. Our ways are like our public buildings, which must be the ugliest in the world, though we are unconscious of defect or bad taste. We follow a path which becomes narrower as we tread, and we love to have it so. I cannot now enter into particulars, but I hope for permission to do so at another time.

JOSEPH POOLE.

The Protection Agitation.

The question of free trade versus protection comes more and more to the front, and is being very earnestly discussed in the English manufacturing towns. Even the leading liberal papers write against free trade. Among them is the Newcastle Chronicle, Mr. Joseph Cowen's paper, which, without condemning the principle of free trade, would protect English industries. The Edinburgh Courant says:—"There cannot be the slightest doubt that the battle of free trade has now to be fought over again, and though the so-called fixed principles of abstract theorists on trade and commerce will have to submit to considerable modification in the course of the ordeal, it is not a question for party discussion. It is a matter of pressing and vital importance, involving the weal, if not the very existence, of the nation." The opponents of free trade have hit upon a good rallying cry and watchword in the phrase, "Fair Trade." Under this heading the Morning Post is publishing some striking letters.

The World's Y. M. C. Convention.

The ninth triennial conference of Young Men's Christians Associations of all lands met in Exeter hall, on the 30th. A meeting of the world's committee, consisting of one delegate from each country represented in the alliance, was held. At half-past five there was a welcome meeting, George Williams, founder of the association, presiding. Responses to addresses of welcome were made by John Wanamaker, President of the Philadelphia Association; Rev. T. Cuyler, Brooklyn; Carry Thomas, Baltimore, and Rev. Cook, of Paris. The closing prayer was by Dr. Newman of New York. The meeting was followed by a dinner and devotional meeting. On Monday the regular business of the convention was taken up. About 500 delegates were in attendance, some sixty being from the United States and the Dominion of Canada, and the remainder from Great Britain, France, Switzerland, Germany and other countries.

An Ecclesiastical Row.

An ecclesiastical quarrel has occurred at Glasgow, growing out of a long-standing quarrel between the orthodox and liberal wings of the Free Church. A revision of the standard of the Church, the confession of faith, and the Westminster catechism are the subjects of dispute. The liberals wish them remodelled so as to do away with the doctrines of infant damnation, election, predestination, and verbal inspiration of the Bible, while the orthodox factions hold that these doctrines should be preserved. At the Synod of Ministers of the Free Church, the discussion rose to such a pitch that Rev. L. MacAskeill seized McArthur by the throat and almost strangled him. The combatants were separated with great difficulty.

That Monk.

HE TURNS OUT TO BE A CELEBRATED SWINDLER WITH A SCORE OF ALIASES — HIS RECORD FOR THIRTY YEARS — ESCAPED FROM MISSOURI PENITENTIARY.

The man who was arrested in St. John on the night of the 23rd of July, by Sergeant Weatherhead for robbery in Halifax turns out to be a most accomplished scoundrel. On Mondry, says the Halifax Chronicle:—

The City Marshal received from a priest who is in town from Tracadie, N. S., en route for Europe, an excellent photograph of "Mr. Alexander Van der Heynerf" the smooth-tongued individual now in jail awaiting examination for robbing Mrs. Mooney of $300. He is, in the photo, dressed in priestly raiment, with his hands clasped over a Bible, and is one of the sweetest pictures of sanctity that an artist could portray. One would imagine it was the portrait of some martyred saint, but printed on the other side is his record as far as known for the past thirty years. Under his various aliases he has at different times been exposed in the press, but has simply changed his name, and not a soul ever supposed so mild, gentle and pious a man could be an accomplished swindler. It is said he was in Halifax when Archbishop Hannan was consecrated, and participated in the ceremony. The printed record reads as follows:

This sacrilegious swindler, who said mass, preached, heard confessions, and acted as parish priest, showing stolen or forged papers, being no priest at all, has been traced by the Rev. H. Van der Sander, Chancellor, St. Louis, Mo., under the following different names:—

1850—Adrian Gortu, born at Den Hatder, Holland.
1864—Frere Robert, at Tracadie, N. S., and Langevin, Canada.
1870—Frere Robert, at Kirkwood, Mo.
1874-1876—In prison at Abbertville, Savoy, France.
1876—Viscount Alphonsus de Gortere, New Orleans, La.
1877—Feb., Rev. F. de Gortiers, at Galveston, Tex.
1877—March, Rev. Fr. de Rouge, D. D., alias Baron d'Alonzo and as Chancellor of Galveston, Tex., at Old Monroe, O'Fallen, St. Peter's, and St. Louis, Mo., and Alton, Ills.
1877—March, same name at Kansas City, Mo., Leavenworth, etc., Kansas.
1877—Oct., Rt. Rev. Alfred de Rohan, coadjutor of Archbishop of San Francisco, at Ostend, Belgium.
1877—Nov., Rev. Norbet Sweeney; O. S. B., at Troy, N. Y.
1877—Dec., Baron de Lamoral, at Savanah, Ga.
1878—June, no name given. Rev. ——, Deacon at Quebec and Montreal, Canada.
1879—Feb., Rev. Father Stanislaus, at Omaha, Neb.
1879—Feb., Von Egmont, at Denver, Col.
1879—May, Rev. Father Augustus, Hempstead, Tex.
1879—May, George Grafton at hotel, and Rev. Father Robert at priest's house, at Austin City, Tex.
1879—May, Rev. Father Norbetus, at Little Rock, Arkansas.
1879—June 3, Rev. Alfred de Rohan, at Memphis, Tenn.
1879—June 6, Rev. Gaton de Rohan; alias Rev. Gaston van Hoegland; alias Rev. Dominique, at St. Louis Mo.

In 1879 he was sentenced to a term in Missouri Penitentiary as Rev. Gaston de Rohan. The term would not expire till 1884, but the Rev. Gaston softly slipped away without telling the prison official he was going, or what part of the world he was going to, so his biographer had to leave his history incomplete. He is one of the most daring of confidence men. It will be remembered he represented himself to the Mooneys as a monk who had been some time at Tracadie and been present at the death bed of Father Paul at that place. He subsequently tried at the Central Bookstore and other places to purchase a photograph of Father Paul, doubtless to exhibit in corroboration of his story. Before leaving this part of the country, after relieving Mrs. Mooney of her money, he paid a visit to Mount St. Vincent Academy and made a very favorable impression. He is to be again brought up for examination tomorrow morning.

DIED.

At Dundas, July 29th, Sarah, the beloved wife of Rev. J. T. Burhoe, of Chicago. The deceased had just completed a long journey from Chicago to her old home, whither she had come to recruit her health. But the hope was not to be fulfilled. She was suddenly taken with a severe fit of sickness, which, in two weeks, ended her earthly course. She lived strong in the faith of Christ, and gained the victory over death by the grace of her Redeemer. A host of friends in the United States and on P. E. I., mourn their loss in the departure of one who was a faithful wife, a warm friend, and an earnest christian.—(Other Island papers please copy.)

At St. Margaret's, Lot 43, on Saturday, July 23rd, Alexander McDonald, aged 74 years, deeply and deservedly regretted by a numerous circle of friends and relatives.
