

An Historical Pile.

The Tower is the oldest of the three great monuments of London, and assuredly it stands at the head of all buildings of its order in the world. It is the most perfect extant example of a feudal castle of the first class, continuously used as a fortress by the same dynasty, and as a seat of the same Government, since the times of the Crusades. It is in fact the civic building in the world which can show the longest and most splendid history. The Pantheon at Rome, a few of the great Basilicas, the Byzantine Church of the Holy Wisdom, and a few religious buildings on the Continent can show a longer life; but there is no building, being neither a ruin nor a restored ruin, but a great seat of government, which can show so vast a record. The tower of London has entered upon the ninth century of its continuous life in the service of the English Crown. When the White Tower first rose beside the Thames, as the buttress and symbol of the Conquest the nations we call France Germany, and Spain did not exist. It had already seen centuries of great and memorable things before the oldest of the halls and palaces of Europe had their foundations laid. Men talk of the traditions of the Kremlin, the Vatican, and the Escorial, but the first half of the wild history of the Tower was over before a stone was laid of the vast piles. The races who raised the fantastic domes of Moscow or the minarets of Constantinople were wandering herdsman and robber tribes in Asia, when the Tower was the home of the most powerful kings in Europe. The old palaces of the State of Venice, Florence, Ghent, and Bruges have traditions of great antiquity, and are memorable sources of art, romance, and poetry; but their real life has closed for ages; they are little now but monuments of musements. The Tower which began so long before them, has outlived them all in permanent vitality. The descendant of the Conqueror is still mistress of the White Tower, which for 800 years has guarded the symbols of our national powers. It is true that in point of picturesque beauty the Tower must yield to some of its younger rivals. It has not the mountain-like grandeur of the Palace of the Popes at Avignon, nor the fairy beauty of the Doge's Palace at Florence, or of the Castle at Prague; much less has it weird impressiveness of that skeleton of castles, the upper city of Carcassonne, or the piles of Loches, Chinon, and Angers. The glory of the Tower of London lies in its matchless historical record.—London Times.

Shocking Inhumanity.

On Friday afternoon last, at a farmhouse near Oxford, Cumberland Co., a physician was called to see a man who was seriously ill. He reported the case to be diphtheria and gave as his opinion that the lad could not live till morning. After the doctor went away, the farmer, in whose employ the young man was, harnessed his wagon and drove him, sick as he was, to Oxford Station, where he left him to shift for himself as best as he could. Growing rapidly worse and becoming delirious the poor fellow wandered out of the Station, and next morning was found dead on a manure heap not far from the Station. On Saturday afternoon the corpse was lying uncoffined and uncreased for in an out building and not even a Corner's Inquest had been held—whatever may have been done since. The young man we are informed, belonged to Pictou County, and the sad intelligence of his death has been sent to his friends. The shocking inhumanity of the man who could treat a sick and dying boy in so heartless and cruel a manner is something so appalling that we do not care to comment upon it—language is unequal to the task of filthy characterizing so fiendish an atrocity. Perhaps there are extenuating circumstances to be pleaded on that farmer's behalf, if so, we should like to hear what they are.—True Guardian.

The Great French Remedy, Dr. LeDuc's Periodical Pills.

For the cure of Leucorrhoea or White's Excessive or painful Menstruation, Green Sickness, Falling of the Womb, Catarrh of the Uterus or Vagina, Hysteria, pain in the Back, or Piles, or for the purpose of invigorating and giving tone to the Generative Organs, two pills should be taken twice daily, or in very enfeebled conditions, one pill three times a day. To effect cures in chronic cases it will be necessary to continue the use of the remedy for some months. A reasonable trial will create sufficient confidence in the remedy to insure its being taken until a permanent cure is effected.

MONTREAL, May 14, 1883.
Dr. Bennet, Halifax.

DEAR DOCTOR,—Just a few lines as promised by me. I am more than pleased with the "Liver Pad" I got from you when in Charlottetown, and can conscientiously say that it is the best thing I ever saw or heard of. It has done for me what all kinds of medicine and different physicians could not do for me; removed a very nasty body eruption, which had given me a great deal of annoyance for more than two years; and, more than that, I have not been troubled with a single headache since I have used it. Before wearing the Pad I was troubled with severe headaches continually; and that very objectionable feeling of sluggishness and dullness was entirely left me.—In fact I am a new man, to what I was before wearing it. I am truly thankful to you for what you have done for me, and I hope that you may be long spared to the benefit of the public.

Believe me,
Yours sincerely,
FRANK ELLIOTT.
