AGRICULTURE.

THE FARMER'S LIFE.

The farmer stands very near to Nature, and she is his immediate teacher. Nature herself gives him the broad hints of his art. The sun warms the earth, the winds sift it and dry it; roots loosen it; the dew and showers moisten it; the dead leaves and birds manure it. But this is only a vague suggestion. So the wind draws imperfect sounds from the strings of a harp. But presently man, the master, comes, and, sweeping the strings with knowledge, he pours out a melody which becomes the hymn of nations. And so the farmer, following the hint of Nature, is the master musician who touches the landscape with skilful art, and plays a tune of peace and plenty all over the globe.

Behold, then, the splendid scenes of his labors, his sublime society. Sunrise and morning, the moon after the sun as the echo follows music; granite hills, enchanted by distance into rosy clouds, drifting along the horizon,—groves, pastures, rivers, blooming rivers; the song of a thousand birds, the hue of innumerable flowers; the rustle of leaves, the hum of insects marking the changing months with varying sound; the breeze that whispers and the wind that roars, the unfailing procession of the seasons circling through the heavens,—all that is grandest and most graceful, tenderest and most terrible in nature are his familiar associations. He learns by experience what science constantly discloses that there is nothing useless or superfluous in nature. "The whole," as old George Herbert sang:

"The whole is either his cubbord of food,
Or cabinet of pleasure."

But while this is the magnificence of his work-shop, see also the direct moral influence of his toil. The earth in which he works is just and honest. If the farmer sow wheat the ground does not return him sugar-cane If he transplant carelessly, the tree, like a neglected child, will pine and die. If he plant potatoes and shirk hoeing, the weeds will shirk dying and the potatoes will shirk growing. If he be stingy of manure, his fields will be equally stingy of crops. Thus the eternal sincerity of nature, giving him peas for peas and beans for beans; fair crops for patient industry, and weeds for idleness, passes into his character and he does not send his apples to market with all the large fruit on top, nor sell a horse with blind staggers to a man who paid for a sound animal.

So the necessities and fatigues of a work that can be done only by daylight call the farmer with the sun in the summer and the morning star in winter, send him early to bed and teach him regularity. Then as by his ceaseless toil he counts out, in blows of his arm and drops of his sweat, every hundred cents in every dollar he earns,—every penny stands for so much time and muscle, and thus he learns economy. With economy come frugality and temperance, and so upon the arm grow the hardy virtues like tough trees upon the rough mountain side, and so the ideal farmer is the stong, robust, simple, sensible, truly conservative citizen, and as the spectator sees him standing crowned and content in the midst of his rural realm, he asks as the poor clergyman asked his richer brother, as they walked through the rich minister's magnificent estate: "What, Brother Dives, all this and Heaven too?"

But look once more and a still finer spiritual result of the conditions of the farmer's life than any of these. See what pains he wisely takes to secure a perfect fruit! How cautiously he imports and examines the stock: how sagaciously he grafts and buds; how he hides the tree from the frost and nurses it in the sun; how he ponders and studies the habits and diseases of that fruit; how he toils to surround himself with perfect trees, that he may walk in the garden of the Hesperides whenever he goes into his own orchard. At last he plucks the pear in triumph. It is the glory of the fair. The dimensions of that fruit fly round the world by telegraph, over the land and under the sea. It is photographed, engraved, and described in a hundred horticultural papers and magazines; the mouth of the public waters for that pear, and it bears the name of the happy grower for ever. Is that all? Is there nothing more? Look! Not yet has the farmer reaped all his harvest of success, nor tasted the finest flavor of his fruit But when walking under his trees in the cool of the day, God meets him in the thoughts of his mind—for when a man thinks a lofty thought it is as if God met him—and says to him, "You are a tree in my garden of the world, and if you sought the sweet fruit of character and a noble life, as carefully as you trim and water and bud to produce a pear, the world be again what it was when I walked in Eden," then the farmer has learned the last lesson of his calling as at all other human pursuits, for he perceives that as a tree produces a flower, not for the sake of the flower, but of the seed which the flower covers and which will reproduce the tree,—so it is not the wheat, though it grew a thousand bushels to the acre, nor the pears, although a single one would feast the country; but it is the manhood and moral development of the farmer himself, wrought out by perpetual contact with the beautiful processes of nature which is the crop of lasting value that grows upon his farm, a crop whose harvest is human happiness.—Geo. W. Curtis.

AGRICULTURAL ITEMS.

Corn-Meal for Milch Cows.—The statement is often made, through the agricultural press, that corn-meal is the best feed for cows as a milk-producer. Why this should be repeated when the experience of almost every farmer is to the contrary, we cannot tell, unless it be for the reason that corn-meal is the best grain feed for cows not giving milk There is no grain so good for keeping up animal heat and producing flesh and fat, and it is used in winter by most dairymen for this purpose; but as a milk-producer it is the poorest grain that can be given. Oat-meal and wheat bran are far superior. These statements are based upon actual experiment and experience of farmers.—Ohio Farmer.

Pigeons as Farm Stock.—In many portions of France it is said to be the practice of landholders to make a condition in their leases to tenants that they shall provide a pigeon house or dove-cote, and keep it well stocked with these birds. The reason for the condition is, that these birds do a great amount of good in eating up the seeds of noxious plants, such as chess, cockle, and the like. They do not live on well-grown grain when they can find that which is shrivelled, as well as the seeds of weeds and grasses. They are busy workers among the offal of the barn-yard, but do not, like the barn-yard fowls, scratch up gardens and play the mischief generally. It is in districts where the pigeon is the most abundant that wheat fields are cleanest and the crops the most prolific.—Agriculturist.

Yield of Crops.—The Albany Cultivator says: The best farmers usually obtain sixty or seventy bushels of shelled corn per acre, the average of large fields. Ninety or a hundred bushels are occasionally reached, and many well-attested premium crops have gone much higher. The average may be thirty-five or forty. Wheat averages fifteen to twenty. Twenty-five to thirty bushels are generally obtained by the best farmers; they frequently reach forty, and over sixty have been raised in rare instances. Twenty-five bushels is a good crop of rye; we do not know how high a quantity has been reached Oats, although a tolerably certain crop, vary considerably,—the average may not be more than thirty bushels, good farmers are not satisfied with less than fifty, and we have known a number of instances of more than a hundred. Different persons will give different estimates, according to the variation in the character of land in their respective districts, and so to the general character of the farming community where they live. Potatoes, like the crops just named, vary much with soil, management, and mode of culture, in addition to which the yield is largely influenced, say as one to four or five, by the variety planted. We have raised Goodrich's Cuzco at the rate of more than five hundred bushels to the acre in a good year; some other sorts, at the same time, would not yield a hundred. It is hard to say

INK! INK! INK!

CARTER'S

COMBIND WRITING & COPYING

INK!

THIS COMBINATION INK has been awarded the HIGHEST PREMIUMS over all others in the United States and pronounced by the most celebrated Chemists the best Ink ever offered to the public.

It is used by many of the largest Commercial Houses, Banks, Railroads, and other Corporations' and gives perfect satisfaction.

The Advantages of this over other Inks are:

First.—It flows freely from the pen, and does thicken by exposure to the air.

Second.—It will give a perfect and instantaneous copy.

Third.—It will not mould.

Fourth.—Being equally as good for Copying as for Book-keeping, it entirely does away with the use of two kinds of Ink.

Fifth.—It is more permanent than common Inks.

Sixth.—The color, when first written, is a beautiful dark green, but in a remarkably short time it changes to a brilliant jet flack—not a brownish black.

Seventh.—It is admirably adapted to the most delicate writing, and always "makes its mark"

This Ink is warranted to flow as freely as any other Writing Fluid now in use; to give as perfect a copy as any Copying Ink; and not to mould.

HAVE APPOINTED

W. R. Watson, Chemist & Druggist,

CHARLOTTETOWN,

Sole Agent for the Sale of their CELEBRATED PERFECTED

SPECTACLES,

Which have been extensively used in Great Britain and the United States, the past eight years and for which they claim the undermentioned advantages over those in ordinary use, the proof of which may be seen in their constantly increasing business during the past eight years.

1st. That from the perfect construction of the lenses, they assist and preserve the sight, rendering frequent changes unnecessary.

2nd. That they confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision, with an amount of ease and comfort not hitherto enjoyed by spectacle wearers.

3rd. That the material from which the Lenses are ground is manufactured specially for optic purposes, and is pure hard and brilliant, and not liable to become scratched.

4th. That the frames in which they are set, whether gold, silver or steel, are of the finest qualities and finish, and guaranteed perfect in every respect.

They are the only Spectacles that preserve as well as assist the sight. And are cheapest because the best, always lasting many years without change being necessary.

☞ One of the Firm will visit Charlottetown, at the Store of their Agent every six months, for the purpose of fitting those having difficult sights, when any spectacles sold by their agent during the interval will be exchanged free of charge if not properly fitted.

THE ROAD TO HEATH

AND LONG LIFE

SECURED BY

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

Impurities of the Blood.

In selecting the most appropriate medicine for a particular ailment, there may be some difficulty unless one can be found to purify, regulate, and improve the quality of the blood. These Pills possess and exert these three qualifications in an extraordinary degree. They enable the stomach to digest any ordinary food, increase the secretory powers of the liver, cleanse and purify the blood, expel all morbid matter, and throw into the circulation the purest elements for sustaining and repairing the frame.

Weakness and Debility.

How many persons suffer from debility without knowing the causes why they are feeble! In many cases the stomach is the aggressor. Holloway's Pills have long been famed for regulating a disordered stomach, and restoring its healthy digestive tone; they are, therefore, confidently recommended as a never failing remedy in all cases where the constitution, from any cause, has become impaired or weakened.

Disease of the Head and Heart

These formidable diseases are, unfortunately, frequent occurrence; for the most part they creep on gradually, but may be prevented by proper precautions. Holloway's Pills are the surest preservatives against all derangements of the brain, and are the speediest correctors of irregular circulation. If they be taken without delay, when tingling in the limbs, drowsiness, or giddiness comes on, the effect will be marvellous.

Females of all Ages & Classes

The fame of these Pills is partly based upon the beneficial effects they have upon the constitutions of females. From the domestic servant to the peeress universal favor is accorded to them for their invigorating and purifying properties, which render them so safe and invaluable in all disorders peculiar to the sex. Obstructions of every kind, either in young persons entering into womanhood or approaching the turn of life—the most critical period—may be radically removed by a recourse to these Pills.

All Disorders affecting the Liver, Stomach and Bowels

Whenever the stomach, liver, or bowels are disordered by high living, climate, over-indulgence, undue exertion or other causes, these fine regulating Pills will soon rectify the evil, and speedily bring back energy, strength and cheerfulness to the frame where previously all was lassitude, gloom and dejection.

Despondency, Low Spirits.

The misery occasioned by a disordered digestion is, unfortunately, felt by most. These famous Pills should be taken in appropriate doses to adjust the disturbed functions. They dispel headache, biliousness, nausea, lowness of spirits, and all similar ailments. A course of these invaluable purifying Pills never fails in removing the cause of such morbid affections, without subjecting the sufferer to any inconvenience.

Influenza, Diptheria, Bronchitis Coughs and Colds.

In our changeable climate few persons escape without colds, sore throats, influenza, diptheria, or bronchitis, for all of which these famous corrective Pills may be taken with the certainty of effecting a cure. While the Pills are expelling all impurities from the body generally, Holloway's Ointment should be well rubbed upon the chest and throat, it will penetrate the skin, reduce inflammation, and restore lasting soundness.

Holloway's Pills are the best Remedy known in the world for the following diseases:

Ague	Female Irregularities	Scrofula, or King's Evil
