Orchard Cultivation Millet Clover Crop

Here is something new about crops for orchards, a problem which will soon confront orchard men who use a clean cultivation method, followed by a cover crop. A variety of millet, named Crown, developed by the Forage Crops Division of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, has been under test for a couple of years and has proven very satisfactory. It was used in the orchards at the Farm last year and will be sown again this year about the last of June. Another older type, Empire, has also been used and while it was good enough, it was not quite as satisfactory as the Crown type. The latter part of June is recommended as the best time for sowing the millet; possibly a little later would do in Western Ontario. It is sown at the rate of 25 pounds to the acre and may be broadcast with either the grain drill or hand seeder. One of the chief reasons the Crown variety has been so satisfactory as a cover crop is that it is quick to germinate—in a week or ten days it is usually above ground, and furthermore, it germinates well in fairly dry soil. And then it just settles down and grows. Last year Crown millet in the orchards was sown at the Ottawa Farm on August 17th and it stood four or five feet high, a rank, heavy growth which almost completely checked weeds. The millet may either be cut with the lawnmower or broken down by dragging a stone boat over it. An important point is either to cut it or to break it down before the seed matures and the crop is left on the ground. Mice find an abundance of food, until they tire of the seeds and attack the apple trees.

Not only does the rank growth of the millet check weeds but it feeds in competition with the roots of the trees, cutting down the available food supply so that new growth on the trees hardens off and is in better condition to stand the winter.

Experimental work is still being carried on with Crown millet, particularly to determine its value to the soil as fertilizer and in combination with fertilizers. But there is no doubt when Crown millet is ploughed or disced under the following spring, much organic matter is added to the soil, thus increasing the supply of humus.

Crown millet seed may be purchased from several reliable seed houses and its use is spreading in Ontario. For further information write to Forage Crops Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The latest available estimate places Canada's forest resources at 773,856 million cubic feet of standing timber made up of 425,250 million feet board measure of sawn lumber and 1,746,630 thousands cords of pulpwood, poles and other smaller materials.

Air mail carried over the Trans-Canada Air Lines in the first four months of 1939 amounted to 112,783 pounds.

The work at the Wood Island car ferry terminal is steadily progressing and at the time of writing about 40 men are engaged. It is understood that the contractors are now waiting for the final dimensions of the steamer to be used, this being necessary to know before placing the ferry road. It is hoped that the present intention of constructing a concrete pavement across the sand beach to the foot of the public highway will be carried out. Many visitors are there daily and the number will no doubt increase as the summer advances.—I.

Sea View And Vicinity

The recent storm of the past week has again broken up the gear of the lobster fishermen to such an extent that it is beyond repair. The fishermen have surely had hard luck all through the season owing to the frequent severe storms.

A few mackerel are being caught and the pedlars are able to supply their local customers.

The majority of the farmers have finished their planting, all except those who are putting in such a large acreage of potatoes.

The Sea View W. I. in the Institute Room for their June meeting President, presided, and the meeting opened with the ode and repeating creed. Roll call was answered with an exchange of reports among the members. The usual business discussion followed the reading of the minutes and the several committees gave satisfactory reports. The sick committee conveyed the thanks of several sick who had been remembered. A committee was appointed to see about getting the hall cleaned and it was decided that all the women in the district go on Tuesday the 27th to give the hall a housecleaning before painting. Some furnishings had been procured for the Institute room and it was decided to paint the floor of the Institute Room in the near future. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close after which ice cream and cake was served by Mrs. H. L. Donald, Miss Nettie Barlow and Mrs. W. C. Donald, the hostesses of the evening. Further plans were made for the District Convention which will be held in Sea View on July 4th.

The Hockey Club of Sea View sponsored an Ice Cream Social and dance in the hall on Tuesday evening. There was a good gathering of young people and the ice cream and cake was greatly enjoyed. Later in the evening all enjoyed the dance splendid music was furnished by Charlie Tuplin and Eddie Matthews and a neat sum was realized.

A very pretty wedding took place in the Keir Memorial Presbyterian Church on Wednesday noon, June 28th, when Carolyn, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Pickering, Sea View was united in marriage to Mr. Sydney Montgomery McCougan only son of the late Mr. Ferry McCougan and Mrs. Charlotte McCougan, Malpeque. The church was tastefully decorated with evergreens and spring flowers. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. Fisher Pickering, brother of the bride and Miss Dorothy Thompson, cousin of the groom. The bride prettily owned in blue and white entered the church to the strains of "Lohengrin Wedding March" played by Miss Ruth Montgomery, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Ver-wolfe of Summerside in the presence of a large number of friends. During the signing of the register Mrs. Ver-wolfe sang a pleasing solo. The bride carried a beautiful bouquet of carnations and maiden hair fern and the bridesmaid's bouquet was red Tullman roses. Tributes of congratulations were read from friends in Boston, Mass. At the close of the service the bride party motored to the home of the bride where a buffet luncheon was served to a number of guests. The young couple left immediately on a honeymoon trip to Anover, Maine, amid showers of confetti and good wishes. The bride's going away dress was blue and grey with a pretty little blue hat and white coat. They were accompanied as far as Borden by Mr. and Mrs. Anson Pickering, Miss Ruth Montgomery and Miss Marion Pickering and Miss Dorothy Thompson. When the young couple return from their honeymoon they will reside in Malpeque where the groom is a prosperous farmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter, Charlottetown, spent the weekend with friends in Sea View.

Mrs. George Vaughan has returned to her home in Charlottetown after spending a pleasant visit in Sea View the guest of her sister, Mrs. William Adams.

Many friends are indeed sorry to learn of the accident to Mrs. Charles O'Leary, Spring Valley, who slipped and fell coming down stairs injuring her arm badly. All trust for a speedy recovery.

Master Phillip Hunter, Charlottetown is spending his holidays the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. Atwood Blakeman.

Among the many visitors to the Capitol to see their Majesties were the pupils of Sea View School accompanied by their teachers and in spite of heavy rain they all enjoyed themselves and had a great day.

The Sea View Sunday School in connection with St. Stephen's Church, has reopened on June 4th for another season's activities with a good attendance of pupils and teachers. Mr. James R. Murphy is again acting as Superintendent in his efficient manner. An interesting feature of the studies is Bible Questions which is given weekly to the Bible Class to search for the correct answer. ## In Memoriam

MR. BERTRAM R. BROWN
By the death of Bertram R. Brown who passed away at his home in York June 16th, Prince Edward Island has lost one of her outstanding agriculturists.

He had been ill for about a year and was confined to his bed for the past eight or nine months. He was born in 1876 at York, the son of the late Abraham and Elizabeth (Vesey) Brown. His paternal grandfather, Malcolm Brown, was a native of Perthshire, Scotland and his maternal grandfather Robert Vesey a native of Yorkshire, England.

Malcolm Brown, who emigrated to Prince Edward Island was drowned at Black River, when his son was but an infant.

Abraham Brown was also a successful farmer and his son Bertram inherited from him the same love of the soil and for stock raising.

Bertram carried on general farming on his 150 acres but specialized in the breeding of pure bred Avshire cattle which won high awards not only at Prince Edward Island fairs but at big shows abroad including those in Toronto. He built up his herd mostly from Island stock but imported a male of superior quality, Massachusetts Quinan, from Scotland.

The late Mr. Brown made a valuable contribution to the livestock industry of Prince Edward Island.

For a number of years he was Secretary of the Provincial Avshire Breeders Association and had from time to time been a delegate to meetings of the Dominion Association.

Before his illness he took a deep interest in the work of the dairy association and was usually in attendance at the annual meetings.

He was an enterprising, energetic and progressive, actively supporting every measure pertaining to the welfare of the community.

He was a worthy descendant of his Scotch and English forebears, possessing their sturdy physique, independence of character and high integrity.

He was twice married, first to the late Clara Vesey and after her death to Susan Titus who survives him together with two daughters by his first marriage, Miss Doris at home and Miss Isabel, the latter who is a nurse in training at Ottawa was home with her father during his last illness.

Three brothers, Herbert H. Brown in Detroit, and Mervin and David also outside the province, and one sister, Mrs. Warren Vesey of York also survive.

The famous Sweet Caporal Girl

Her charming face and figure have long been symbolic of the largest selling brand of cigarettes in Canada. The spectacular popularity of Sweet Caporals is due both to their quality and to the consistent newspaper advertising done for them over a period of 23 years—the early advertising is still remembered by many smokers.

Mr. Picobac

Picobac Tobacco was introduced through the genial "Mr. Picobac", to sell high quality Canadian Burley tobacco to Canadian pipe smokers. This was accomplished almost entirely through newspaper advertising, and today Picobac is Canada's largest selling pipe tobacco.

The Two Old Chums

Old Chum smoking tobacco, popularized by the famous "Old Chums", has for half a century held a steady place in the affections of Canadian pipe smokers, and this position has been consistently fortified by newspaper advertising.

Faces made Famous by

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

One of Canada's oldest and largest users of newspaper advertising, Imperial Tobacco Company has found the employment of "trade characters" a very great aid in promoting the sale of these leading brands. This success in itself affords ample testimony to the effectiveness of Canada's daily newspapers as a medium for productive advertising.

Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Limited

The growth of Imperial Tobacco Company is the result of the adoption of progressive policies which are fundamental to success. These include (1) the making of high quality products, (2) pursuing broad-visioned and enlightened sales policies, (3) doing sincere and constructive advertising. Ever since its inception, Imperial Tobacco Company has advertised in the Canadian daily newspapers consistently and persistently. This, with its resulting volume of sales, is in itself the best possible evidence that daily newspaper space, properly utilized to promote worthy products, brings the desired results.
