GOOD BREAD

is a treasure. If the bread is not good, we do not enjoy our meals, or in fact enjoy life, for "bread is the staff of life." Bread cannot be good unless the ingredients are good, and the mixing and baking must be done by experts. That is where we have the advantage. Our specialty is cow more than the ones coming in throughout the spring. There is all the difference in the world in dairy cows. He ventured the opinion that the average cow does not give $10.75. Last fall he experimented in de-horning cattle and at the same time put in twenty-five steers at an outlay of $900. He charged market price for the feed given. The steers sold at $1650. They ate $500 worth of feed and cost $100 for care. The manure pile was left and there was besides a profit on each steer. The steers weighed 1500 pounds each. There is lots of money in the beef business if the right kind of cattle are fattened.

MR. DRYDEN'S ADDRESS.

Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario was the next speaker. His subject was "The Establishing and Maintenance of a Herd"—a pure-bred herd of any stock. It is not an easy thing to establish a herd. A man may think that all he has to do is to buy a herd book from which he will ascertain it all. But knowledge along this line is difficult to obtain. Perhaps the best way to acquire this knowledge is to commence to do the thing oneself. When one's own honest dollars are invested he will be sure to learn. The man who will succeed must have in his mind a clear conception of what he seeks to accomplish. There must be no haphazard work about the establishing of a herd. The scheme must be well defined and thought out. There must be a plan. He was a strong believer in proper identification. About three months ago he went out west, and as he passed along on the train he was horrified to see the mixture of cattle grazing in the fields. This comes about by the people not knowing what they want. They heard of different breeds at different places, and by installing a herd in such a way destroy the cattle of the country. Jersey beef is not the best. City people fed on it will soon get tired of it. The Jersey is good enough in its place; but it is not good enough for the man who bought the Jersey bull and used him in his herd. He could not decide for those present what was the best breed. The farmer, the home, the markets and fancy were determining causes in the selection. He always favored short-horns, but he would not say select short-horns. It was not enough to have an animal registered in a herd book. In his life time there has been two types of Short-horns. Bates cattle were all the rage and the owners sent out the pedigrees to prospective purchasers. Such, however was only theory, and it proved ruinous. The late Amos Cruikshank was breeding cattle, his object being the betterment of the stock of his tenantry, and he succeeded admirably. These animals were of a blacker type. They are of perfect form and any time after they are a year old they may be sent to the market. Don't let the pedigree fad carry you away. However, pedigree cannot be discarded. It has been claimed that the males are half the herd. The appearance of a male should indicate masculinity. The herd should show the breed and character of a bull. A bull should be bold, quiet, kind and responsive to kindness, not "staggy" and looking out of the corner of its eye. First get the quality, and then the greatest quantity possible. The selection should be made with a view of correcting any weakness the females may possess. You will easily see that the possessor must be his own judge. Three different men all wanting the best cattle would attend a sale and buy first-class animals. In Ontario there are a number of inexperienced men who will bid on animals at an auction simply because a leading stock-breeder is bidding against them. Taking up the matter of maintenance, Mr. Dryden pointed out that he knew of men who had purchased pedigree stock at stock sales and after taking them home turned them out to secure a living at the straw stack. The best health is secured under natural conditions. In some parts of England and Scotland the best results are obtained in the open air. Fresh air, fresh water and fresh foods are indispensable. Animals, like human beings, will respond to kindness. The stables should be warm, well ventilated and well lighted. Roots are valuable for feed. The trouble about ensilage is that a man gets a craze for it and will feed nothing else. Cattle should have exercise. If they do not have exercise it will be bad for them. If one goes to the Toronto exhibition you will find the best herdsman leading their cattle around to exercise them. The men who can guide the nation are far more plentiful than the men who become successful stock raisers. At the Agricultural College the live cattle are brought into the room and the boys get acquainted with the animals. Ability to properly judge an animal is a gift to the man and an advantage to the man and the nation.

Mr. Charles Palmer said that in speaking of breeds, what applied to Scotland will not apply to Canada. He related his experience with the different breeds, and told why he had adopted Jerseys.

Mr. Dryden said that if one expects to breed for beef he should not breed Jerseys. However, he did not wish to emphasize any particular breeds.

Mr. Elderkin said that if nothing else had been done by the visit the address given by Mr. Dryden are worthy of the sacrifice made in attending.

Mr. Archibald, chairman of committee to draft a resolution of condolence to the family of the late John I. Hobson, reported that they had drawn up a resolution of condolence which he read to the meeting, after which it was passed unanimously.

In referring to the death of the late John I. Hobson the President and Hon. Mr. Dryden paid feeling tributes to the deceased.

Senator Ferguson dealt at some length with transportation rates, and he thought it would not be amiss to look into the matter. He found that when making sales the cream was taken by the excessive charges made. Some time ago a concession was made on the railways of private corporations in favor of pedigreed stock. A while ago he had occasion to send cattle abroad, and no reduction was made. He thought that the same concessions should be accorded on the I.C. R. and on the boats of the Steam Navigation Company as are given by the railways of the different companies throughout Canada. Every man should get the same treatment. He thought that the matter should be looked in.

Hon. Mr. Farquharson related the action taken by the Board of Trade in regard to the matter complained of by Senator Ferguson.

Mr. Dryden said the Association can remedy the grievance. The railways will not take up an individual claim, but will respond to a united appeal. He related the fact that the C. P. R. shipped 200 bulls to the Northwest free of freight. They even bought the animals for shipment. They knew that the C. P. R. was the only outlet, and it would help develop the country.

Mr. Hodson said that the grievance complained of by Senator Ferguson existed throughout Canada. Some time ago he had circulars issued showing rates. Railroad committees were appointed in the different provinces. He wanted a railroad committee appointed in P. E. Island. He would suggest a committee with influence to adjust or look into the matter.

Mr. Alexander McDonald pointed out that the P. E. Island railway carries stock for less than any other railway in Canada.

A committee was appointed to look into the matter of transportation rates, composed of Premier Farquharson, Senator Ferguson, Mr. C. C. Gardiner, Senator Wood and Mr. R. Robertson.

Mr. J. A. Macdonald suggested that the committee enquire into the rates on feed.
Meeting adjourned.

EVENING MEETING.

The session of the Live Stock Association in Charlottetown closed last night with a public meeting in Kindergarten Hall. President Elderkin presided.

Premier Farquharson was the first speaker, and expressed his pleasure at the meetings that had already been held. If the weather had been favorable the attendance would have been much larger. The educative character of such meetings cannot be denied. The Government of the day, both local and federal, should do all in their power to promote the interests of the people. This being the case it may be assumed that everything possible should be done to assist the agricultural interests. A way could always be found if there was a disposition to do something. He felt sure that the Provincial Government would do their part. Last year they had given a grant of $6,000 towards exhibitions. There was not much trouble voting the money. But some people throughout the country thought the money might have been expended to more advantage in another direction. He did not think so, however. They had a good exhibition in Charlottetown. The Commissioners did their work well. It was complained that only people living in and around Charlottetown get the benefit of these exhibitions. But those who talked that way were not progressive. An exhibitor may not be successful in obtaining prize money, but he advertises his stock or other exhibit. Exhibitions are a good thing for every man. They are a great educator and should be encouraged. He was delighted to have the stock breeders meet here. Their meetings must bear good fruit.

Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, next addressed the meeting, his remarks having a special bearing upon organization. All his life, as such, he had been connected with agriculture, living upon the farm his father opened up when Canada was not the great country it now is. Canada had certainly made great progress along agricultural as well as other lines. Every province was now sending its quota to the foreign markets. The demand for Canadian produce is becoming greater every
