Green Moving For show on major issues

By GERALD MILLER
VATICAN CITY (AP)—In an age of change and crisis, the Roman Catholic Church is moving toward a showdown on some of the major issues of modern times.
The stirrings within the church encompass such questions as its position on artificial birth control, the explosion, relations with communism, race relations and its role in an age of space exploration, atomic weapons and emerging nations.
The directions the church will take will become clearer next month with the resumption Sept. 14 of the Vatican ecumenical council—the third session.
Before the prelates will be a draft schema on "the church in the modern world."

Such a change has already taken place.
"It can be said that the Catholic Church is restructuring all that in the past was categorically prohibited," said one church source recently.
Church historians say that not since the first century has the Catholic Church been so aware of its public image. This has been accounted, at least in part, for some of the external changes.
For example, the change in mass appeal by many orders, from long robes and light headpieces to simple black dresses and bonnets.

CHANGES WITHIN
But there have been significant changes within the church.
In recent years there has been less emphasis on vocalization and more emphasis on explaining and clarifying the things that all Christians have in common.
The church has also been trying to exert stronger moral influence on the problems of the world: Racism, anti-semitism and ethnic social disorders. At the same time, some older manifestations of Catholicism have become a static list and there is an attempt of scrapping it altogether.
Catholic social agencies have increased their attention more from the masses of Western Europe to the undeveloped areas of Africa and Asia. Under the pressure of bishops serving those areas, there is an effort to change the image of the church from a rich and mysterious presence into a more simple and sympathetic one for aid to the needy.
Much of the new movement in the church today is due directly to the late Pope John XXIII. Much of the outcome will rest with Pope Paul VI.

Wanted Men Are Killed
CASABLANCA (AP)—Two men wanted to answer charges of plotting against King Hassan II of Morocco were killed here in a gun battle with police.
One of the men was Ahmed Faouz, who was sentenced to death in absent last March for charges of heading a July, 1963, plot against the king. The other man was one of his lieutenants, the plot failed.
Last May, Faouz escaped during another gun battle in which several policemen were killed. Early today police discovered his new hideout and surrounded it. Six men were exchanged for two hours.

$1,025 Paid For Ayshire
OTTAWA (AP)—A top price of $1,025 was paid by an Okla. Que. dairy farmer here for a purebred Ayshire cow from Scotland at the fifth Canadian national Ayshire sale here.
Rene Tremper purchased the animal from W. Montgomerie and Sons Limited of Ayshire.
Thirty-four cows and two calves were sold for a total of $13,805. Average price was $403.26.

CONTRACT BRIDGE
By B. JAY BECKER
FAMOUS HANDS
points. The heart response was also artificial. It had nothing to do with hearts as such, but merely indicated possession of either an ace or two kings.
Three clubs and three hearts were both natural bids, and so were three spades. In short, D'Albio bid club as a suit only once and Charliada hearts only once. This was a change of information. It was hard for North to know South's distribution, but he had to know North's.
This contract went down one. West led a spade and East took the ace and returned a spade. Declarer won with king and played the ace and a noth heart, throwing the jack. The defense then cashed three spade tricks for down one.
The American part (Key and West) arrived at the better contract of four hearts on this bidding:
East South West North
Pass 1♠ Pass 1♥
Pass 3NT
Opening lead - six of spades.
1967. Mostly, their players use artificial bidding methods, and will there is no doubt that these methods are generally successful. They sometimes lead to the wrong contract.

Here is a case where Charliada and D'Albio, playing the Metropolitan Club system, failed to reach the best contract largely as a result of their methods. The hand was played in the United States in 1967.
The club bid was artificial. It was only a coincidence that D'Albio had a club suit. It showed at least 17 high-card

OUTLOOK MODERN
Pope Paul, who has the ultimate power to decide the issues, so far has taken few major clear-cut administrative actions to speed up the process of modernization. But he has left no doubt that his outlook is modern.
In his first year as Pope he has held the Roman Curia—the mainly conservative central administration of the church—that it must reform. He made a pilgrimage to the Holy Land and there had the first personal meeting between the heads of the Catholic and Orthodox churches in five centuries.
Although he has taken a harder stand against communism than Pope John, he is maintaining contact with Iron Curtain countries in an effort to establish better relations.
There are those who say that for all this, Pope Paul is moving more slowly than John. Pope John was a man in a hurry. He was 77 when he became Pope. He often said he hadn't much time.
But Pope Paul was 65 when elected and he is expected to expect more time to bring about what he desires for the church.
