Engineer's Quiz

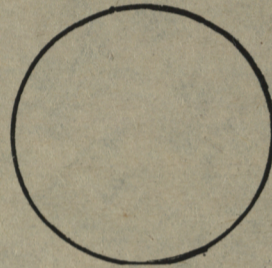

(in response to the Artsies' Quizz)

Preamble: If you can read this, please ask yourself to accomplish the following (or at least aim for a low failure rate).

1. or a) Count to elven (11) without using fingers, toes, or a Texas Instrument Calculator.
2. or b) Is the Pope:
 - i) Polish
 - ii) Polish
 - iii) Polish
 - iv) none of the above

Pick One.

3. or c) How many right angles constitute a square? (Sorry, no multiple choice, you're on your own)
4. or d) Using your Crayolas, colour in this diagram without going outside the solid line.

5. or e) Hypothetical question:

It is a chilly day and you are wearing your mittens. The sun is directly over head and you walk 25 yards (or metric equivalent) due East. Find the North Star, and speculate how many fingers you have without peeking (do not refer to question 1 or a)!!!)

6. or f) Of the nine symphonies Beethoven wrote, how many did he compose?

7. or g) This is to test your knowledge of Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice. To whom and of what city were the following words spoken: "How now Tubal, what news from Genoa?"

Grade yourself out of 70 and put the results on a Bell Curve.
