BASKET SOCIAL AT KINKORA

According to announcement the social in aid of the church fund at Kinkora came off on Wednesday night. With a political meeting of intense interest in the near vicinity, a stormy evening and other such circumstances to contend with the social came out on top. The handsome sum of one hundred and thirty dollars was netted in spite of the fact that the blinding drift at half-past six strongly suggested a postponement of the affair. The good people who faced out on such an evening were bound to show the purpose for which they came as the above-mentioned amount stoutly proves.

A very interesting programme was disposed of consisting of songs, recitations and readings, which for comicality and interest, as well as worthy rendition, were up to the mark.

What was the matter with the auctioneers? They were all right! There were two of them, one local and one imported. They struck the bull's eye every time.

Bids went like corks from ginger beer bottles, and often took the mark at the five hundred cent range. The fifty-five cent man was nowhere.

At 12 o'clock the crowd left the hall, fully satisfied that their risk out, on such an inclement evening, was amply rewarded.

The next time there will be a social at Kinkora don't miss it!

The Missing Pawn.

One Saturday afternoon two friends of the noble game of chess sat playing together in a cafe. Suddenly one of them started up in a passion and exclaimed, "You have pocketed one of my pawns."

A glance at the board and men sufficed to show that a pawn was really missing. The excitement over the lost pawn became so intense that a lively altercation ensued, in which everybody in the room took part.

Quiet was at last restored, and the player who had lost his pawn resumed his seat and began to drink his coffee, which was covered with thick cream, when he all at once got something into his throat which nearly choked him. He succeeded, however, in extricating the intrusive article, which turned out to be the missing pawn.

The chess player, intent on the game, had thrown it into his cup in place of a lump of sugar.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Novel Dinner.

Victor Smith, appointed collector of customs at Port Townsend, Wash., by Secretary Chase, succeeded in inducing the government to move the custom house from that point to Port Angeles, where he maintained himself for a time in a semibarbaric proprietorship. He once invited the officers of the revenue cutter Shubrick to dine at his house, and the officers arrayed themselves in full dress and went ashore in state to wait upon Collector Smith at his mansion, which was then in an unfinished condition.

In due course of time the collector, assisted by his wife, brought out two carpenter's saw horses, on which was placed a board covered with wrapping paper. The repast was then set forth. Smith, taking from his pockets three big apples, gave one to each of the three officers, with a small forked stick, remarking, "You'll have to roast your own apples."—Argonaut.

Luxury and Extravagance.

In general the destruction of wealth is a social as well as an individual loss. The wealth that is used up in riotous living is diverted from better uses. Extravagance is not necessarily luxury. The mere transfer of wealth from one hand to another does not involve destruction. Consumption means using up. When a nation spends $250,000 for a great picture, the wealth is not destroyed; it is simply transferred. When the jubilee plunger ran through $2,500,000 in 12 calendar months, the wealth of the world was diminished only by the amount of it he and those who sponged on him put down their throats and otherwise wantonly destroyed. In so far as it was simply transferred to others to whom he paid extravagant prices, it was not destroyed.

To give high prices for articles which are rare is not necessarily luxury, for the price and the rare edition or the old master both remain. It is true that extravagance may mean the transfer of wealth to those who will not use it well, but it does not usually mean this. It generally involves a transfer to the hands of those who will use it more wisely.—Journal of Ethics.

DR. A. W. CHASE SENDING FREE ADVICE TO THE SICK.

REV. J. N. VANATTER, OF ALBION, WIS., WRITES A LETTER ON DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sufferers are at Liberty to Correspond with the Above Address and will Obtain Full Particulars Regarding the Great Cure.

HERE IS WHAT HE SAYS:

Gentlemen,—My wife was most terribly afflicted with protruding piles, and contemplated a surgical operation. A friend of ours recommended the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and less than one box effected a complete cure. We were so pleased with the ointment that I tried it myself, as I have been troubled with an unsightly skin affliction which covered the lower part of my face.

For 25 years I suffered untold agony, and was treated by the best medical skill in the United States. I consider Dr. Chase's Ointment worth its weight in gold for piles and skin disease.

Dr. Chase's large-size recipe book, cloth-bound, sent to any address on receipt of 50 cents, by addressing Dr. Chase's Company, Toronto or Buffalo, N. Y.
