

be procured. Every year thousands of pounds were paid by the people to the successors of the public servants of the Crown of Great Britain, by the poor hard-working colonists of Prince Edward Island, with no other acknowledgment from the Imperial Government than a series of contemptuous slights, and from the proprietors misrepresentation and dislike. When Responsible Government was conceded to the Colony, it was saddled with the payment of its Civil List, but the Home Government still insisted upon the people continuing to pay a tax to the old country, in the shape of RENT. The public servants of the British Crown, their heirs and assigns, were still to stick like leeches on to the body politic of this long suffering colony. As a great favor, in consideration of the peculiar circumstances of the colony, the Imperial Government still continued to pay the Governor's salary. That is in return for the very large sum which the British Government causes the Islanders annually to pay its public servants, it in return allowed them to receive a couple of thousand pounds annually, as the salary of an officer, its own appointment, sent here especially to look after its interests. This small favour is now about to be withdrawn. There is no use remonstrating—very little use in complaining. The money must be granted, else a worse thing may come upon us. But as we before stated, the people consider a wrong is being done them, and they submit not cheerfully indeed, but on compulsion.

A correspondent writing us from Charlottetown says that Dowry has been repudiated by His Honor the Administrator for the space of one week, in view of the English Mail arriving in the meantime. An immense feeling against hanging him prevails. I have not heard two persons speak in favor of his execution since my arrival in Town. The whole matter is now very uncertain, and whether Sir Robert will yield to outside pressure and commute the sentence, or not, is a problem. Since the above was received, the English Mail has arrived. We learn that the Despatch received concerning Dowry's case is more severe than the telegraph message. If this be so, he will likely be executed when the week expires, next Tuesday.

HARD TO BEAT.—There is to be seen, at the barn of Thomas Sims, Esq., of Kensington, Lot 19, a BELL CALF, of the Ayrshire breed, nine months old, which girths five feet and is well proportioned. Experienced judges allow that his dead weight would be about three hundred and fifty pounds. The calf was on exhibition at the Fair held here last week. Stock Farm will find it hard to beat the calf, either in size or breed.

"Schoolboy." His remarks about the benefit of the mud taken up and applied to the land, and the employment it affords, are very good; but his complaints against those engaged in the work leaving the holes open, and of a young man who was intoxicated, nearly driving himself and his lady companion into one of the mud-holes in the ice, we do not appreciate. Let the young men keep sober, and the young women refuse to go with those who do not, and there will be no such accidents.

Hanford Brothers, of St. John, N. B., have sent us their circular for March 24th. It says there is a slight improvement in the prices of flour. It is quoted at $5.15 to $5.30 for Canada Superfine. Oatmeal dull, very little demand, nominally $6.75 to $7.00. Oats are quoted at 55 to 57 cents—no P. E. Island in the market. Barley, nominal, $1.20. Pork, heavy mess, $28.50. Butter 24 to 26 cents. Potatoes 50 cents. Eggs 22 to 24 cents.

The Edinburgh Review for January has been received. It contains the following articles: Spain under Charles III.; Lord Kingsdom's Recollections of the Bar; Rescued Rome; Trench's recollections of Life; The Legend of Tell and Rattle; Government Telegraphs; Dean Millman's Annals of St. Paul's; Hunter's Annals of Rural Bengal; General Ulysses Simpson Grant; Mr. Bright's Speeches. The articles in this number are really good, especially the one giving the history of the present President of the United States.

Persons wishing to order any of the Reviews or Magazines, can send their orders and the money to us, or to Harvie's Book Store, Charlottetown.

Temperance Union Meeting.

One of the largest and most enthusiastic Temperance Meetings we had ever the pleasure of attending on this Island, was held in the Presbyterian Church at Cascumpec, Feb. 4, on the evening of the 25th inst. The meeting was the result of a union of the Sons of Temperance and Good Templars. The Church was literally crammed, numbers being unable to obtain seats. The meeting was ably presided over by Mr. John McKeough, W. P. of "Volunteer Division." The opening address was delivered by Rev. Mr. Stuart, who in a clear, forcible and convincing speech, effectually disposed of the arguments sometimes adduced in opposition to the principles of total-abstinence. He was followed in succession by Messrs. Wm. Hoggood, D. Hickey, A. McKendrick, B. Thompson and S. Kinley, all of whom acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner. They followed by the reading of letters well chosen and well delivered. Too much praise, however, cannot be given to Mr. Charles McNeill, and the ladies and gentlemen who so ably assisted him in the Musical part of the evening's entertainment. The interest and enthusiasm manifested at this meeting, speak highly for the zeal and activity of the temperance men of this locality. Temperance has made rapid strides in this neighbourhood during the last twelve months. Their energies are not wasted with petty whims and jealousies—but a generous emulation has arisen, which is working most effectually in furthering the great cause for which they were organized. They have no taverns in the immediate vicinity to contend with, and they are determined that they shall not have any. Should these societies continue to work in the same harmonious manner that Campbell has happily characterized them, Campbellton will in long become one of the soberest, as it has long been one of the most intelligent localities in the Great West.—Com.

Induction of Rev. Mr. McColl.

According to announcement, the Presbytery of the Church of Scotland, met in DeSable Parish Church, on Thursday last. After a most excellent sermon by the Rev. G. W. Stewart, the question usual at induction were put by the Moderator, (Mr. T. Duncan) and properly answered by the minister elect. And thereafter, in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, Mr. McColl was inducted to the care and charge of the congregation, as successor to the late Rev. D. McDonald. The Rev. A. McLean then addressed the minister, and the Rev. A. McWilliam administered salutary counsel to the people. The congregation gave their new minister a most hearty and cordial welcome at the close of the proceedings. We wish minister and people every grace and blessing from on high in their new relationship, and we sincerely trust that whom God hath thus joined together, no man will intentionally try to separate or disturb.—Com to Pat.

The Workmen's Union

On Thursday evening last, the mechanics and working men of Summerside held a meeting for the purpose of forming a club. Capt. James Welch was called to the chair. Many of the men complained of the mode of payment at present carried on, and expressed a desire to work on the "cash system," even at a more reduced figure than is at present obtained. A list was opened, and a large number put down their names as members of the society. The meeting adjourned until last Monday, when they met again, and formed a constitution and nominated officers. The name given to the society is "The Working Men's Union." They meet again on Tuesday evening next. We will have more to say about this society in a future number.

It is rumored that the Hon. G. W. Howland tendered his resignation to the Government last week in consequence of their refusal to give a grant to St. Dunstan's College. When he found the Government were determined to do without his services rather than give the grant, he withdrew his resignation.

While passing through New London on Friday evening last, we were invited to a dinner got up by a number of young men who had been attending a navigation school during the winter, under the care of Mr. John Lock. The dinner was prepared by Mrs. Woodside, formerly of St. Eleanor's, and reflected much credit on her. Everything was very nice, and we spent a very happy time among a good many old friends. Lads and lassies, enjoyed themselves well.

It is said that 2000 loads of mud, on an average, have been taken up every day the diggers were at work this winter, on the South-West New London River.

How is it that the men engaged in taking up mud on our rivers resemble Mohomians? Because they are Mussel-men.

We have received from Mr. John LePage, a copy of some verses entitled "A Monody on the late Edward Whelan," which was read before the Charlottetown Debating Club Entertainment on the night of the "Whelan Memorial Fund." At some future time we will publish it, so that our readers may judge of its merits for themselves.

This Flying Frenchman horse, "Tomy," trotted a mile in two minutes and forty seconds, on the ice here, on Monday last! Can Queen's County beat that?

We have received Godey's Lady's Book for April. When we open it first, we notice a wood cut entitled "The First Falsehood." Then comes a fine engraving, representing children in their happy spring time "gathering flowers in the meadow." Next, a tinted picture of an April Fool. The fashion plates are very nice this month, and the reading matter excellent, as usual. We wonder how any lady can exist without Godey.

We have had a succession of thaws these last few days. The snow on the streets has nearly all disappeared, and the roads in the country are very bad. The ice is about done; it is now dangerous to travel on it in most places. It may hold good until after McNeill's great sale on Saturday next.

The wild geese have made their appearance. J. L. Holman advertises a good article of Powder.

"Typo's" letter crowded out this week. At the Trotting match on the Charlottetown harbor ice, on Monday last, Mr. Robert Crabb won the prize with a horse owned by Wm. Bagnall, Esq. The Tuplin mare done very well too, but did not lead like she did here.

BUTTER is a scarce article in our market at present. Can not some of our farmers supply the want?

Remember the Auction Sale at Finlay McNeill's, on Saturday next.

The display of beef in the market to-day was really excellent. Messrs. Blake exhibited six carcasses, which weighed 5916 pounds; Mr. Robert Bridges had four, which weighed 3315 pounds, and Mr. Comerford four, which weighed 3174 pounds. The supply of meat was the largest and best that we have ever seen in Charlottetown, but for quantity and quality, the three enterprising butchers we have named took the lead, though there were several others who made a creditable show. The value of Messrs. Blake's beef was about $300—a large sum for one market day. The dead weights of the heaviest cattle are as follows:—

Table with 2 columns: Name and Weight. Includes Blake's Ox (Match's) 2966 lbs., Heifer 1202, Cow 1028, Cow (Wright's) 920, Cow (Holman's) 700, Bridge's Ox 1220, Cow (Haythorne's) 785, Cow (Woodsy's) 710, Cow (Wright's) 600, Comerford's Ox (McDonald's) 820, Heifer (McKinley's) 850, Ox (McKinley's) 900, Cow (McKinley's) 600.
