

Whale Attracts Large Crowds

AMHERST, N.S. (CP)—The 40-ton whale which was trapped in nearby Pugwash harbor last week by a sand bar it crossed at high tide, died Saturday but attracted more spectators than the annual fisherman's regatta.

Several residents pumped rifle bullets into it to end its death struggles but fishermen said they had little effect. They said the whale died naturally out of water at low tide.

Extra policemen had to be hired to handle the traffic heading for the beach to see the huge mammal.

Horse Stable Destroyed In Early Morning Fire

Fire early yesterday morning destroyed one of the horse barns at the Charlottetown Driving Park. The building, which was 100 feet long and 22 feet wide, was a complete loss and it took the combined efforts of the Parkdale and City Fire Departments to keep the blaze under control. Other stables near at hand were in immediate danger. The cause of the fire is not known. There were no horses housed in the barn, which has been unoccupied for several weeks.

Home And School Ass'n Meeting

The third meeting of the Home and School Association of Southport was held in the school on Nov. 9 with a goodly number of interested persons in attendance. The chairman, Mrs. R. S. MacDonald outlined the aims and objects of the Association.

The four teachers were then introduced to the meeting. Mrs. Gordon MacDonald, Provincial president of the Home and School Association, the guest speaker, who is that "Teacher Recruitment" is this year's theme of the Home and School Association.

A role play on Teacher Recruitment was presented by Mrs. MacDonald assisted by Mrs. J. P. Lanz and Miss Grace Campbell, after which the meeting formed into groups, then brought back the ideas of each group.

A pleasant open discussion followed in which all present took part. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. MacDonald and her assistants. The meeting closed with the singing of the "Queen."

Molotov Claims Rearmament May Lead To Hot War

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov offered Saturday to postpone the Russian-proposed all-European conference on collective security if the Western powers hold up ratification of the Paris agreements on rearming West Germany.

He coupled the offer with a warning that the Soviet Union and the "peace-loving European states" would take counter measures for their own security if the West persists in bringing West Germany into the Atlantic defence alliance—a move which he said posed the "threat of a new war."

Russia had set Nov. 29 as a date for the security conference, which would include 23 European nations and the United States. Communist China was invited as an observer. Replying to four questions from an unnamed Pravda correspondent, Molotov declared ratification of the Paris agreements "will undermine existing possibilities for settling outstanding European problems and first of all the German problem."

MEMORIAL WINDOW UNVEILED AT ZION CHURCH YESTERDAY

A congregation which filled Zion Presbyterian Church yesterday morning at 11 o'clock took part in the Service of Dedication and witnessed the unveiling of the memorial window to the late Rev. G. Carlyle Webster.

The service was conducted by the minister, Rev. W. H. Brown, M.A. and the sermon preached by Rev. Canon J. T. Ibbott, rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church, who also read the Scripture lesson. The invocation was by Rev. E. C. Evans.

The anthem "The Splendors of Thy Glory" was rendered by the choir with Mrs. Gordon White as leader and organist. Mrs. Arthur Roper sang "I'll go where You Want Me To Go Dear Lord" and Mr. Raoul Raymond was also heard in the solo "The Lord's Prayer."

The presentation of the memorial window was made by Mrs. J. G. Dennis, president of Zion Women's Auxiliary, and the unveiling and words of dedication pronounced by Miss Margaret Webster, daughter of the late Mr. Webster.

The memorial is a beautifully designed window twenty-three feet high and eight feet wide, consisting of three panels with Christ as the central figure standing at the table and a disciple seated at each end. The theme of the scene is "The supper at Emmaus", and is captioned, "He was known of them in the breaking of bread."

The overall inscription reads "To the glory of God and in loving memory of the Reverend G. Carlyle Webster, Minister of this church, August 21, 1931 to March 22, 1953. Erected by the members and friends of the congregation."

The church congregation was at this time presented with a memorial pulpit Bible, the gift of Mrs. G. Carlyle Webster.

The sermon preached by Rev. Canon Ibbott, which is reported elsewhere in this issue, was from St. Luke 24, part of verse 35: "He was known of them in the breaking of bread."

CONCRETE POURING STARTED ON FEDERAL BUILDING SITE

Thirty men were at work on the Federal building job at six o'clock Saturday morning following an order to "place concrete rain or shine." Building up had started where tearing down had been the theme for several weeks.

When the day shift went off duty, bearing pads for the basement walls had been poured 26 inches wide, and twenty inches thick over an area of 87 feet, which included three walls and 75 feet of the back end of the building which is on Pownall Street. A duck-walk of plywood squares run from the mixer to location made easy going for the rubber tired "buggies" replacing the old time wheelbarrows on such work.

Checking on the situation, Gus Savoy, superintendent of construction for Anglin Norcross (Maritime) Ltd., said that with the continuation of the present mild spell, the work would be advanced sufficiently to take on thirty more men. Two carloads of reinforcing bar steel left Montreal Saturday from the plant of Truscon Company where this material was designed and bent for job.

One thousand yards of brought from the Iona plant by County Construction Company trucks and a similar quantity of sand brought from Belle River by N. Redmont of Vernon River are now on location.

Mr. Savoy, who is not a stranger to Charlottetown, having played hockey here in the days of the "Big Six" as a member of the Dalhousie, N.B. team. Following his graduation from Bathurst College he studied engineering in Montreal and was employed with the Foundation Company of Canada and P. H. McGraw, New York, before joining the construction staff of Anglin Norcross, five years ago.

Associated with Mr. Savoy on the local project are J. R. Beaudry, labour foreman, Hazen Phelan, carpenter foreman and Harold Lea administration clerk. R. S. Turham, General Manager of Anglin Norcross (Maritime) Ltd. inspects the work every three weeks.

Mr. Savoy expressed thanks for the co-operation received from the City Corporation through City Clerk J. A. Fullerton in making space available at the nearby city wharf where steel may be conveniently stored.

ST. PAUL'S RECTOR PAYS MOVING TRIBUTE TO FORMER ZION PASTOR

"What greater theme could have been chosen for this Memorial window than that which presents Jesus Christ as the Risen Saviour of the World, a picture which is truly a call to remembrance of Christ as our Eternal Saviour," said Rev. Canon J. T. Ibbott, Rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church, in the course of an eloquent sermon in Zion Presbyterian Church yesterday. The occasion was the dedication of the memorial window in memory of the late Rev. G. Carlyle Webster.

"You members of Zion congregation — and I would include all who knew the Rev. Mr. Webster — as a man who lived throughout his ministry lived constantly in remembrance of Christ and conscious of his holy calling," Canon Ibbott said. "He ever sought to win others to find in Christ their divine Saviour."

"Generally speaking, people look for a Minister to set an example of holy living. That a Minister has dedicated his life to the service of Christ implies a loyalty and devotion to Christ."

"Sincere, as we believe most Ministers to be, yet not all have the faculty of winning the same reputation for devoutness and goodness of character and effective influence as others."

"Mr. Webster was one who through his genuine goodness won the highest respect of all who knew him."

"It has often been stated that, generally people reserve compliments regarding character until after death. How often we fail to compliment the living. But I know, as you all know that during Mr. Webster's ministry here in Zion Church he was regarded by all as a very Godly and righteous man."

"In one of our Maritime Churches there is a tablet erected to the memory of an Army Officer of many years ago, and though I have not seen this tablet for some time, yet the simple inscription fastened itself upon my mind. 'Underneath the Soldier's name is this inscription... 'A Gallant Soldier and a Gentleman.'"

"As today we pay tribute to the late Rev. G. Carlyle Webster in very truth we can say concerning him, that 'He was a gallant soldier of Jesus Christ and in the highest sense — A Gentleman.'"

"That your late beloved Minister was a gallant soldier of Jesus Christ was evidenced when he gave up a promising business career and obeyed Christ's call to the work of the Christian Ministry."

"There are many scoff and make light of the Ministry. They suggest that it promises an easy comfortable life. What a fallacy this is!"

"Some others suggest that men who enter the Ministry are rather lacking in the full qualities of manhood, and are inclined to be offensively self-righteous."

"How little such people really know about the Ministry. If manhood is ever tested, it is tested in the work of the ministry. It calls for gallant manhood."

"When you consider all of the problems which he has to face, all of the different types of personality with which he has to deal in his ministrations, believe me it calls for manhood, every inch of manhood."

"Had Christ's Church through the ages been ordered by men lacking in true manhood we would not be singing in our Churches today."

"Faith of our Fathers living still. In spite of dungeon, fire and sword. Though today in freedom-loving nations Ministers and Laymen known little of persecution by fire and sword, yet figuratively speaking there are often in some Churches certain forms of persecution Ministers must face gallantly. Few are the Ministers who receive unanimous support; few there are who do not have to meet with destructive criticism; few find their ministry to be wholly acceptable by all in a congregation. Ministers are more conscious of these facts than many Church members imagine."

"Then too it often requires gallantry and certainly great tact for a Minister to listen to the criticisms which Church members often level at other members. To discreetly deal with many of the friction problems relative to Church work is no easy task, no light responsibility."

"It does take gallantry for a Minister to carry faithfully on in the place where he believes Christ has called him to serve, especially so conditions are not as happy as they ought to be."

"It is only the conviction that he is serving where Christ has placed him, that many a minister stays at that post of Christ-given duty when otherwise he would most happily serve elsewhere."

EARNESTNESS & ZEAL
That the late Rev. G. Carlyle Webster ministered to Zion congregation for twenty-two years bears witness to fact that Christ prospered his ministry here.

"Twenty-two years of ardent service in one Church in one community carried on with the earnestness and zeal that characterized Mr. Webster's ministry here could not help but take its physical toll. Little wonder that after so many years of strenuous aggressive work, his physical body wearied of the strain so that for the last two or three years his labour here required all the more fortitude and gallantry."

"Look back for a moment over those twenty-two years."

"Mr. Webster came here during what were known as the depression years. Older members of the congregation will appreciate best the difficulties of those years."

"Then came World War Two which added to the problems of every church and made increased demands upon all Ministers. Young men and young women leaving their homes on active service, additional ministrations to those in the Armed Forces, comforting of many bereaved, so many and so
