BLACK LEGION CLAIMS HUGE MEMBERSHIP

Sought Political Power Through Terrorism, Investigators Reveal.

(A. F. by Guardian's Special Wire) DETROIT, May 26—Existence of a women's auxiliary of the Black Legion, secret vigilante society charged by investigators with seeking political power through terrorism, was disclosed today by prosecutor Duncan C. McCrae announced, by A. F. Lupp, Sr., "recruiting officer" for the black-robed order.

V. F. Effinger, whom McCrae has sought for questioning, asserted in Lima, O., that Black Legion has more than 6,000,000 members, and that "it will go right ahead promoting the best interests of America and American citizens; despite the unfortunate affair in Detroit."

Investigators received without immediate comment a report from Columbus, O., that a witness before a legislative committee had testified he was a member of the Black Legion and that "a great many of its members had been placed as foremen on works projects" in Lima, O.

A hint of Black Legion ambitions for power was dropped in Jackson by a Michigan penitentiary guard after his arraignment on a charge of kidnaping and felonious assault in the flogging of a relief worker, state police Captain William Hansen said.

"Between you and me," Hansen quoted Ernest, the accused guard, as saying "we are going to overthrow the government. You boys are going to have your hands full."

Ernest, one of five men charged with the flogging at Jackson, is a "brigadier general" in the Black Legion, Capt. Hansen said.

The prosecutor announced the blaze which destroyed Father Charles E. Coughlin's original shrine of the Little Flower on March 17 was on the list of unexplained fires his investigators are checking for a possible connection with Black Legion terrorism.

Father Coughlin said he had heard nothing of renewed investigation of the shrine fire and declined to discuss the matter.

The Michigan investigation into the hooded terrorist society whose members have been named in murder, kidnaping and flogging warrants, widened in a series of examinations into every unsolved crime of violence committed in the State within the last few years.

Chance For Canadian Insulating Board

Climate in Morocco is the bug-bear of architects. Extremely hot in summer and very damp during the rainy season, walls are covered with tiles and floors are made of cement but, while a barrier against the heat, they are ineffectual as regards dampness and likewise against sound. Cork has been used in compounds of cork and coal-tar and is satisfactory to a degree for cold storage depots but it has proved unsuited to homes, apartment buildings and hotels, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways.

Carpeting for floors and straw matting for walls is the only remedy available against sound and dampness. Here would appear to be an opportunity for Canadian insulating board which has proved itself so efficacious in solving the problem for protection against cold, heat and sound.

Development and Expansion Urged

(C. F. Cable) (By Guardian's Special Wire) LONDON, May 26—The British Empire needs a "comprehensive, long range policy of development and expansion," declared Earl Page, Deputy Prime Minister of Australia, speaking at the Royal Empire Society's Empire Day dinner tonight.

"We are not making the best possible use of the press as a means of educating public opinion," Dr. Page declared. "From the head-reading of our papers it is often difficult to determine whether Great Britain is the head of the Little Entente or of a combination of central European powers, or the centre of the greatest Empire in the world's history."

In the past 15 years, Dr. Page said, 1,000,000 British people have migrated overseas. Surely, he asked, their 10,000,000 relatives must desire news of their daily progress and be interested in the schemes of Empire-wide development through the nationalization of industries and the exchange of products.

"Australia feels this a psychological moment in Empire affairs," the deputy Prime Minister continued. "We must begin to look at the plan of Empire development from the viewpoint of the whole."

"We can make up our minds as governments, that the industries of the Empire are complementary, not antagonistic, then the way is clear to our goal to ensure that our trade is expanding and our defence sure when the tug-of-war comes."

J. H. Thomas, who resigned Friday as Secretary for the Colonies and who was originally to have proposed the toast, did not attend the banquet.
