Average Income in Sarnia Is Tops For All Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Residents of Ontario's petro-chemical centre of Sarnia received the highest annual average wages paid to any Canadian community in 1960.

The revenue department's annual green book of taxation statistics, issued here, shows that the average wage in Sarnia in 1960 was $8,046.

This compares with an average wage of $4,330 in Montreal, $4,124 in Winnipeg, $4,476 in Toronto and $4,425 in Montreal.

The report also shows that Canadians who earn the bulk of their income from the medical profession led all groups of taxpayers in earnings in 1960 for a third straight year.

Tables in the green book show that Canadians earned an average income of $4,223 in 1960, up from $4,113 the previous year.

The statistics are based on income tax returns filed by persons with taxable incomes.

Sault Ste. Marie was second with average earnings of $4,833. Sudbury and Copper Cliff, Ont., were in third place with average earnings of $4,689.

Port Alberni, B.C., was fourth with $4,642, followed by Oshawa with $4,600.

Montreal ranked 18th with $4,425 followed by Shawinigan, $4,386 and Jonquiere, $4,360.

Chicoutimi was 25th with $4,211. St. John's, Nfld., was 26th.

Halifax was 47th at $4,039. Moncton, $3 at $3,935. Sherbrooke, $31 at $3,791 and Saint John, N.S. 59th at $3,766.

Doctors and surgeons whose main source of income came from their medical practices earned average incomes of $16,323 in 1960. Engineers and architects earned $13,570 and lawyers were third with $14,597.

Dentists were fifth with average earnings of $11,508, and accountants were sixth with $11,446.

A total of 4,389,766 tax returns were filed in 1960. Of this number, 3,868,185 were filed by persons classified by occupation as employees.

The employee group had an average income of $4,021 in 1960. This group includes many professionals and others who are salaried workers.

Persons who earned most of their income through investments followed accountants with average incomes of $5,953.

They were followed by entertainers and artists at $5,943, and business proprietors at $5,856.

Average earnings of employees of municipal governments at $4,192 put them ahead of both the federal and provincial governments at $4,141 and $3,943, respectively.

The report shows that 467 taxpayers earned between $100,000 and $200,000, or more. The latter group had a total income of $28,000,000 and paid taxes of $12,200,000.

Four Provincial Elections Attract Federal Attention

By JAMES NELSON OTTAWA (CP)—Four provincial general elections in the next five weeks are attracting the close scrutiny of federal party organizations.

But it remains to be seen whether the future of the current parliamentary session will be charted on the basis of the barometric pressures measured in the provincial political contests, or the westerly wave of day-to-day happenings in the Commons itself.

In normal circumstances, political observers here would say that a general election would be highly unlikely when campaigns are under way in four provinces as widespread and as different as Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Quebec and Manitoba.

But with a minority government in office and the party with the effective balance of power—the 36-member Social Credit group—showing growing signs of internal schisms, circumstances are far from normal.

The role of the Social Credit and New Democratic Parties in the four contests is being watched by the leaders of the older parties here.

In Quebec, which elected 36

a renewed mandate. His successes and those of Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson will have some influence on the future organizational activities of the federal Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties in Quebec.

National Conservative headquarters here was reported to be about ready to announce its new organizational plan for Quebec. However, this now is unlikely to come before the Quebec election results are known and digested.

Next Monday, Nov. 19, Newfoundland voters go to the polls. Liberal Premier Smallwood is seeking another mandate in the province over which he has held sway since the island joined Canada in confederation in 1949.

Two MORE Conservative Premier Shaws of P.E.I. and Roblin of Manitoba announced last week they were calling provincial general elections—P.E.I. on Monday, Dec. 10, and Manitoba on the following Friday, Dec. 14.

The role of the Social Credit and New Democratic Parties in the four contests is being watched by the leaders of the older parties here.

In Quebec, which elected 36 of the Commons' 30 Social Credit members in last June's federal vote, Social Credit had entered no candidates formally. Mr. Johnson asked for Social Credit support but officially he was rebuffed. It is generally known, however, that former Union Nationale workers were prominent in the Social Credit campaign in Quebec last June.

Yemeni King Plans Return

NORTH YEMEN (Reuters)—The Imam (king) Mohammed Al-Badr of Yemen—appearing in public for the first time since the overthrow of his royalist regime in September—Saturday vowed to foreign newspapermen that his royalist troops would make Yemen "a cemetery for Egyptian invaders."

The Imam pointed in the direction of Sana'a, the republican-held capital of Yemen, and said: "I shall enter there within a few weeks."

His appearance before the newspaper men served to fix a widely dispel reports that he was killed in the revolt Sept. 26 that ousted his regime.

He denied the presence of any 500 Arab or Jordanian troops among his forces.

The imam gave the figure of "five million" when asked about the number of men under his command. He said the whole nation was behind him. Yemen's population is 5,000,000.

LISTS ENEMY STRENGTH The imam said there were 10,000 Egyptian troops in the Yemen and they made up most of the republican regime's forces.

He said he had not been hurt when the forces struck at his palace with artillery and "Russian tanks" after an officer had tried vainly to shoot him in the back.

He fought back from the palace for 12 hours before sending his family away and slipping out of the building himself.

Meanwhile it was reported from Cairo that the republican Yemeni revolt Saturday signed a five-year mutual defence pact with the United Arab Republic.

The semi-official Middle East news agency said the pact stipulates that "any aggression against either party's territory or interests will be considered an aggression against the two countries."

POPE'S PHYSICIAN Dies Suddenly

ROME (AP)—Pope John's personal physician, Dr. Filippo Rocchi died Sunday night of a cerebral hemorrhage. He was 65. After Rocchi was taken to the Villa Stuart Hospital in northern Rome, the 65-year-old ruler of the Roman Catholic Church hurried to see him. He died five minutes praying at the bedside.

De Gaullist' Optimism Increases

PARIS (Reuters)—Optimism is growing among members of the Gaullist Union for the New Republic with the approach of elections for the French National Assembly Nov. 16.

Two weeks ago, members of the opposition parties were forecasting heavy losses for the Union candidates but as election day approaches they have become more cautious.

The anti-Gaullist parties have become increasingly worried by President de Gaulle's appeal to the people to vote for "a majority of national renovation" rather than the familiar leftist-rightist party lines.

By this approach, de Gaulle has put before the country a major issue which he has been preaching for more than 20 years: French institutions, he says, must be modernized and adapted to the needs of the 20th century.

Underground Cuban Arms Are Reported

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Cuban regime of Fidel Castro has put before the country a major issue which he has been preaching for more than 20 years: French institutions, he says, must be modernized and adapted to the needs of the 20th century.

"Soviet technicians prepared some of the camouflaged excavations," said Luis Fernandez Rocha, secretary-general of the anti-Castro Revolutionary Student Directorate.

Old mine shafts, natural caves and man-made silos and hangars house MIG jet fighters and surface-to-air missiles. Fernandez Rocha said.

"The missiles are the same as the ones which... shot down an American U-2 flying over a Soviet base in S. 15 Clara western Cuba," Rocha said.

West Russia Divide Lead In Missiles

LONDON (Reuters)—The West holds a big lead over Russia in long-range missiles but is trailing in the medium-range category, the Institute of Strategic Studies reported here.

The institute, an international unofficial organization with officials and experts on military and world affairs among its members, gave the missile assessment as part of a tally of East-West military strength.

The institute said statistics showed the West has between 400 and 500 intercontinental ballistic missiles with a range of between 6,000 and 8,000 miles while the Russians have only about 75.

However, the Russians have about 700 medium-range missiles with a range of 600 to 2,000 miles while the West has only about 250.
