Drew Continues
on over almost all phases of Canada's economic life.
Two formal divisions were pre-announced at the start of the House sitting, both on efforts of Opposition groups to obtain information from the government concerning private, public and industrial conditions.
Clarie Gillis (CCF-Cap. Breton South) said he has heard rumors that some Canadian companies operating coal mines in this country actually are importing American coal. He asked for the names of all companies importing U. S. coal. Revenue Minister McCann declined to make the names public. In the vote Mr. Gillis' motion was defeated 90 to 55.

John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake) Centre sought the names of all officials of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation making $10,000 a year or more.
Resources Minister Winters, speaking for the government housing agency, said its officials are not public servants. He said the agency sets its own conditions of employment and salary scales.
Mr. Diefenbaker requested a formal vote but his motion was defeated 95 to 51.

Recall Earlier Debates
Justice Minister Garson, resuming the debate on emergency powers which has occupied the House off and on for a week, said Progressive Conservative members made no formal motion to oppose the act in 1951 or its renewal in 1952. Mr. Drew's thinking then had been that it could be used to invoke full-scale wage and price controls, but he seemed to have forgotten that speech.
"Nonsense," interjected Mr. Drew.

The opposition leader said he had never advocated full-scale wage and price controls. He had suggested the possibility of control over some goods in scarce supply.
Mr. Garson said the record would speak for itself. At least the CCF party, which also advocated price controls, were consistent in their policy.
Mr. Garson suggested that the reason the Opposition get a few votes at election time is that the Conservative party is supposed to be Conservative, not just a pale reflection of the CCF.

Mr. Drew said he himself, when the act was passed in 1951, had allowed it to go through "on division" - a parliamentary device to show opposition without a formal vote. He quoted extensively from speeches he made then criticizing the act.

Important Ruling
Since that time, said Mr. Drew, a privy council ruling has been given which says the acts of the government cannot be questioned by the court under the emergency law. That had an important bearing

Aircraft Arrive Safely In The United Kingdom

Three Lancaster aircraft that left Summerside on Saturday on a training flight to the United Kingdom arrived safely at Preswick, Scotland, after making a stop at Gander, Newfoundland, due to weather conditions. It had been intended to make a non-stop flight.

One plane made the long flight in 10 hours and 20 minutes, while the others took only slightly longer. Preswick, the point of landing, is the home of the oldest golf course in the world - St. Cuthbert's, but it is more widely known because of its large airbase. On board the planes are the members of the specialist navigation course and instructors who will visit R. A. F. training establishments.

The operation is under the command of Wing Commander H. Forbes, D.F.C.
They will remain overseas about three weeks and will return via the Azores.

ROYAL EDWARD

your Officers, Conveners and members of the various committees, but it has been an interesting and happy one.

We have every reason to be proud of the part our Chapter has played in the educational and cultural life of our City and Province. Our members, as individuals, are prominent in practically every organization in the community and give generously of their time and talents for the public good. As a group, we have supported all projects for the welfare of our citizens, we have endeavored to broaden our horizon by study panels and public talks of current interest, at our meetings, and our association with National Chapter has kept us in touch with the activities of the Order throughout the nation.

Our educational program has been most interesting and we feel a sense of pride and satisfaction that we have been able to help our adopted rural schools, as well as continue our financial aid to deserving students.

"It has been our pleasure to give a welcoming and friendly hand to the new members in our Province and through our Citizenship Committee and Chapter members, generally, we have come to know more of them, personally.

"At our November meeting, we had the privilege of hearing one of them, Mrs. Stewart, who is a Communist and her escape to the freedom she now enjoys in our land.

"Our annual Rose Day sale of roses, held late in May, was our only source of income, this year. It was most successful and we are grateful to the public for their support. Besides our subscriptions to national funds, - the British and European Relief, Seamen's Amenities, Cigarettes, Film, Peace Garden and Canadian Scene, we have recently, $1000.00 to the flood victims of England and Holland.

"Locally, we have supported and donated to the Music Festival, T.B. League, Wreath for Remembrance Day, subscriptions to Magazines for Veterans' Wings in both hospitals, "Thanksgiving Day treat to patients in Falconwood Hospital, History Prizes to City Schools, $150.00 scholarship to Fourth Year student in Prince of Wales College, as well as the purchase of shrubs and flowers for the graves of the R.A.F. members in Sherwood Cemetery. The Committee for Services at Home and Abroad has done wonderful work and is to be highly commended for their untiring efforts in this phase of our program. Besides contributing to a joint shipment of children's clothing to the "British Save The Children Fund" and to local, needy families, they answered an emergency call for the "Flood victims of Europe" and a large box of clothing was shipped last week.

"Detailed reports will be given by all conveners of the various committees. I have merely touched on some of the highlights to give you an idea of the scope of the work of the Order.

"I want to thank you, now, for the loyal support, you have given during the past three years. It has been my honor and privilege to be your Regent and I wish you every success for 1953.

"Respectfully submitted,
"Helen Lawson."

"Shearwater," Dartmouth, N. S., and many bundles of magazines were given to the P. E. I. Hospital, Beach Grove Inn, Falconwood Hospital and the Infirmary, an estimated number of 1,000 magazines in all. Second-hand books were given to H.M.C.S. Condition of Leonard Kelly, of Summerside, who was badly injured in an automobile accident at Summerside Sunday evening, was reported last night as being somewhat improved.

Kelly is a patient in the Prince County Hospital as the result of an accident in which the car in which he was driving struck a telephone pole on Water Street West early Sunday evening.

His injuries include a fractured skull, and compound fracture of the right arm.

"Thinking Day" Is Observed

The annual church attendance of Scouts, Cubs, Guides and Brownies in a body took place on Sunday, in being "Thinking Day", the birthday of Lord and Lady Baden-Powell.

The Catholic church attended Mass at 8:30 at St. Paul's Church and the Protestant group attended the morning service at the Church of Christ.

At the Church of Christ the minister, Rev. W. O. Weale, extended a welcome and preached a sermon that was appropriate to the occasion.

The Scouts and Cubs were led by Messrs. Eric Tanton, Morley Wylie, A. S. Hopkins, Norman Morrison and John Forbes.

The Guides were led by Mrs. C. E. Linkletter and Mrs. Richard Hurt. The Brownies were led by their Brown Owl, Mrs. Ralph Emery, and their Tawny Owl, Mrs. Ferno Rogers.

Miss Carle Holman, commissioner of Lone Guides was present with several of her Ladies. District Commissioner Mrs. T. L. Linkletter and several members of the local association also attended the service.

At St. Paul's Church the sermon was preached by Rev. A. J. MacLeod, who welcomed the group to the service and spoke of the importance of the scout and guide movements.

The Scouts were led by Mr. Eric Tanton and the Guides and Brownies by Mrs. Carol Delaney, Miss Margaret Wedge and Patricia Watson. - S.

A church service in remembrance of Lord Baden Powell's birthday was held Sunday in the Presbyterian Church at Kensington, attended by approximately 60 Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Brownies, and the newly formed Wolf Cubs, who gave just cause for leaders and parents to be proud of them. They formed up and paraded from the Kensington High School.

The Rev. E. C. Evans conducted the Scout service in a very impressive manner. Much credit is due to Guide leader Mrs. R. W. Auld, and Brownie leader Geraldine MacLean, Scout leader W. L. Miller, and assistant Scout leader Ken Brauner.

The Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs at Kensington are sponsored by the Kensington branch of the Canadian Legion. - S.

Mr. Elder was highly appropriate. He eluded upon Mr. Sinclair's fineness of character and upon his devotion to the religious life of the community. Reference was also made to the range of his interests and to the atmosphere of culture which pervaded his home. The very large attendance at the church service, held at a difficult hour in the place he held, and will continue to hold in the minds of those who knew him and loved him.

The final scene was enacted at Glenbard as the evening shadows darkened into the last night of 1952. Here in the little church was gathered a goodly number of MacLeans to witness the home-coming of one of their kindred to a district known best because of its connection with their common ancestor, the Bard MacLean, and to see him laid in a spot consecrated by the love and tears of generations of men and women bearing their common name.

authorship. Of these the names of Miss Clara Dennis, Charles W. Dunn, and John Lorne Campbell, Laird of Canna, come to mind as three representatives of a numerous group.

It was the great disappointment of George Sinclair that he was not permitted to enter upon the more advanced studies associated with an academic career, but in many ways, he was more truly educated than some who have gained formal distinction in the realm of scholarship. He had an unusually fine sense for words, whether in poetry or in prose. He had, moreover, a rare sensitivity to spiritual values, which broke not merely knowledge, but the very essence of culture. I remember a student who, while supplying in the Hopewell church, had enjoyed the geniality of the Sinclair home, and who, among other things, spoke of the "remarkable intelligence of his host."

In keeping with this, he had his own sense of humour. On one occasion, after trying in vain to read one of his several magazines, he turned away and said, "I think I can thoroughly recommend this periodical as a cure for insomnia."

Devoted To Church

Let's Talk It Over

We notice that both Charlottetown and Summerside are conducting a census of pre-school children in order to determine what to expect in the number of school children who will be attending school during the next six years. In Summerside, accommodation is becoming limited and an up-swing in attendance in the near future would certainly necessitate some definite action that would tend to relieve the congestion.

Whether this would be a new high school, an annex to the old building, or some other plan, is something that our civic leaders will have to work out to the satisfaction of the different interests concerned. In emergencies such as these there are always two conflicting interests to consider, both important to the welfare of the citizens.

These are the insuring of adequate facilities for the education of our youth, and the safeguarding of our economy. Neither of these can safely be ignored, and it sometimes taxes the wisdom and resource of our leaders to the utmost to navigate the treacherous waters between the rocks of bankruptcy and gross educational neglect.

Economy can be a two-edged word. In cutting down our expenses, we can put down our defenses with the same stroke. "Penny wise, and pound foolish" is one of the proverbs which contain the most wisdom. It is especially difficult for citizens having no direct contact with our schools to appreciate the full value of the educational program.

We were told once of a man who, while his children were attending school, was one of the biggest champions of educational rights in the district, but when his children all outgrew the little red school house, he became the champion of economy at any cost.

Then, when one of his daughters secured the position of teacher in her home school, behold her father once more a fierce exponent of educational advancement. On the other hand, we have known a lot of men who, though not directly connected with the school, were unceasing in their efforts to help the cause of education. In no better way can you gauge the measure of a man's citizenship.

Still, it is true that we can have only such educational facilities as a fair proportion of our revenue will permit. No doubt there are those also who would overtax our resources to furnish our schools with frills which are not absolutely essential to the educational well-being of our children. It is our belief that some of the things sometimes called "frills" at the church, but you can go too far in any direction. Let us hope that in the future here in Summerside, our civic leaders will safeguard our financial standing without lowering our standard of education of which our citizens have come to feel proud.
