FOR SALE

That valuable 10 acre lot situated opposite the Quarrie, on Mt. Rd. Road. Apply to the office of

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

OPERA HOUSE—Keep in mind the play in the Opera House tomorrow night. Doors open at 7.30. Curtain rises at 8 o'clock sharp.

MISTAKE—Tenders are called for, in another column, for the construction and exterior completion of a church at Tracadie, not for interior completion as previously advertised.

St. PATRICK'S DAY—Division No 1. A. O. H. are requested to assemble at their Hall, Queen St., tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock sharp in regalia. The band of the 82nd Battalion will furnish music for the parade.

WINDOW DISPLAY—Messrs. James Paton & Co's show window is very appropriately decorated, in honor of St. Patrick's day. Incidentally the eye is attracted by the display of the national color, is caught by the fine exhibition of new spring carpets piled up in the rear of the window.

SOURIS SCHOOLS—Mr. Harry McFarlane has resigned the position of principal of Colville school and gone to Montreal. Mr. C. C. Richards has been engaged in his place. The extra evening school kept by Mr. Howard Leslie in the Customs building is still in full blast.

A SERIOUS CHARGE—In Vancouver, a few days ago, an interviewer met General Booth with his daughter. The reporter naturally took off his hat. The General said: "Who are you?" The reporter replied: "Newspaper man." The General said: "No, you can't be. I have never met a polite newspaper man in America yet."

MUSICAL—Remember the grand musical meeting in the Salvation Army Barracks, tomorrow, Thursday, evening at 8 o'clock. Dumb Bells will be handled by 25 trained Juniors under direction of Prof. Hawley. This together with recitations, solos, choruses and music by the brass band will make it well worth attending. Tickets 10 cents, to be had at R. K. Josts, or from any soldier, or at the door. Don't miss it.

THE STANLEY AT SOURIS—The Stanley is doing good work on the Souris route. Some people appear to think that she could break her way further in towards the shore than she has yet done. But Capt. Finlayson knows better than anybody else the true state of affairs. The ice along the outer margin of the board ice is in man-places eight or nine feet thick. The Captain has sufficient reason not to risk his ship in trying to break through this barrier of ice. After a few days, however, this will disappear, and then he can come in as close as he likes.

THE DUTY OF WEALTH

The following is an extract from an address delivered by Prof. Goldwin Smith before the students of Cornell University: "Accumulated wealth, the result of rapid development, is a feature, some think a dangerous feature, of American society. Wealth must do its social duty. To say that it must pay ransom for its existence, when it has been fairly made, is to give the signal for social plunder. But it must do its duty. It must show that it is useful to society. Every man who has a heart must be touched by inequalities of the human law. We can not be surprised if those whose place is the lowest want to equalize, even by measures of violence, mistaken and ultimately suicidal as such measures are. There is no use any longer in talking about definite ordinance of compensation for Lazarus in the next world. But wealth must show that it is useful. Useful it may be. Inequality, to a certain extent, seems to be a condition of progress. In China you have a dead level, only one man in 10,000, as we are told, being above manual labor. There is nobody with leisure or means to start anything, or try anything, and the result is stagnation. If wealth is to be spent in the ostentation of luxury, the sight of which makes poverty doubly bitter, in spicing European aristocracy, in buying European titles, or admission to European courts, there will be a crash, and there ought to be! That all American millions, are not so spent, the bill covered with monuments of munificence bears noble witness. The best men, we are told, that is those who are best fitted to serve the state, are excluded from politics. It may be so, though perhaps there is sometimes among men of refinement rather too much fastidiousness and too much love of ease. But if a man cannot be eminent in political life, he is eminent in social and municipal life; she maybe a good and great citizen."
