Gravity Of Reconstruction

iture of approximately a billion dollars in U.N. Reconstruction Agency activities in Korea during the next five years. Canada, which contributes eight or nine million dollars annually, has been very prompt in meeting her full obligations. The organization, which is headed by Sir Arthur Rucker, is representative of all the leading countries of the United Nations, and its activities are widely diversified. Mr. Jenkins' duties were those of a planning officer in connection with agricultural rehabilitation.

"While money for this work is needed, it is even more important that it be spent wisely," Mr. Jenkins emphasized. "It is not so much the dollars that count, as the ideas and personnel. We must try to avoid the pitfall of dealing with the problem merely in terms of combating Communism. On that level we would be open to criticism for doing the very things the Communists have done for ulterior motives. We must convince the Korean people, and through them other nations as well, that we are motivated by sincere desire to raise their living standards and improve their conditions generally.

"In Korea, where over 50 percent of the people are illiterate, this means educational planning on a big scale before we can hope for any worthwhile functioning of democracy. This is an essential factor in the reconstruction problem, stemming from the impoverishment of a people who have been the victims of war and aggression over a long period of years, and in whose fate we ourselves are involved in the larger issues confronting our civilization today."

Population Problem

The Korean problem is accentuated by the rising birthrate of the country. It is estimated that the population, now 22,000,000, will have increased to 25,000,000 in the next five years, with agriculture still in a primitive stage and dependent for the most part on imports of machinery, fertilizer and other requirements which could be produced locally.

In this connection Mr. Jenkins emphasized the great need of industrialization, not for the purpose of competing with other nations, but of placing Korean farmers on a reasonable basis of self-sufficiency.

Two other United Nations civilian agencies are functioning in Korea, the others being the U.N. Civil Assistance Command, which works in close cooperation with the United States armed forces, and the U.N. Commission for Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea. The latter is essentially a political organization to supervise elections, etc. It is the senior civilian organization but is now dropping into the background.

Mr. Jenkins left Korea three weeks ago, and is now returning to complete his studies for an M.A. degree in economic history at the University of London. When he left the University a year ago last October, hopes were entertained of an early termination of the Korean war and he expected the armistice to have been proclaimed before he reached the country. While these hopes have been disappointed, the fact that peace negotiations are continuing is of vital importance and Mr. Jenkins was optimistic, from what he had seen and heard, as to the final outcome. Military success, however, can afford no permanent solution until the reconstruction problem has been solved; and here there is less reason for optimism, and a greater need for an awakening of public opinion and public conscience on the part of the democratic powers.

Queen Returns To London Today

LONDON, Oct. 13 — (CP) — The Queen returns to London tomorrow after a nine-week "holiday" in Scotland.

Accompanied by Prince Charles and Princess Anne, she will travel from Balmoral overnight to prepare for a series of public engagements, including the state opening in November of a new session of Parliament.

The Duke of Edinburgh will remain in Scotland, returning to London later by air. One of his public duties will be to attend the opening of a hydro-electric scheme in Inverness-Shire.

The Queen's stay in Scotland may have been her last respite before the opening of coronation year, with all the extra duties it will entail. Even in Balmoral, she was accompanied by two private secretaries, an equerry and a lady-in-waiting, and was in daily touch with affairs of state through foreign office telegrams and other papers. Her ordinary working day was lightened only in the sense that she had fewer public engagements.

Presbyterian Y. P. S. Concludes Successful Conference At S'side

The thirteenth annual conference of the Maritime Young People's Societies of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was held in the Summerside Presbyterian Church over the Thanksgiving week-end, October 10, 11 and 12th. On Friday evening, the delegates from the four Atlantic Provinces received their billets and attended a service in the church. They were welcomed by Rev. Donald MacKay, the resident minister, Mayor Henry W. Wedge and Mr. Lorne Moase, president of the local Y.P.S. Greetings were brought from the Maritime Synod by Rev. E. H. Bean of New Mills, N.B., and from the Board of Christian Education by Rev. W. L. Young of Pictou, N.S. Miss Helen Andrews of Saint John, N.B., responded to the greetings.

At nine o'clock the delegates attended a service by the P. E. I. Young People with Rev. Lloyd MacLellan of the First Presbyterian Church, New Glasgow, as the guest speaker. The sermon based on "The Fact Of His Coming" was the first of three addresses.

On Saturday morning the delegates again assembled for a worship period conducted by the New Brunswick Young People. Discussion groups were held and followed by the second address by Rev. Lloyd MacLellan, the subject being "The Reasons For His Coming".

Officers Elected

During the business session, the following slate of officers was drawn up for the ensuing year: past president, Jean MacDonald, Sydney, N.S.; president, Mrs. Dorothy Creighton, Chatham, N.B.; vice presidents, Mable Auld, Charlottetown; Lorne Clark, Halifax, N.S.; Margaret Calder, New Glasgow; Donald Lyon, Campbellton; Helen Andrews, Saint John; James McKinnon, Sydney; Emma Elton, St. John's, Newfoundland; secretary, Mrs. Winnifred Bean, New Mills, N.B.; treasurer, Robert Murray, Kentville; bulletin editor, Ralph W. Kane, Halifax, assistant editor, Kay MacLeod, Halifax.

During the afternoon approximately one hundred of the delegates were entertained by Group Captain A. G. Kenyon, commanding officer, R.C.A.F. Station, Summerside, his officers and men, and taken on a tour of inspection through the Navigation School and air base. They were much impressed with the strength of the defence effort as well as the courtesy extended them by Group Captain Kenyon. At the tea hour they were escorted to the Officers Mess where refreshments were served.

In the evening the young people were guests of the Ladies' Club and Young Woman's Guild at a banquet, and later were addressed by J. Watson MacNaught, M.P., parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Fisheries, who chose for his theme his tour of New Zealand, as a representative of the Federal Government. His interesting and instructive talk was greatly enjoyed.

At nine o'clock preparatory service was conducted by Rev. J. Donald MacKay. On Sunday morning a special Young People's communion service was held after which the delegates attended the eleven o'clock service with their hosts and hostesses.

The special speaker was Rev. F. C. Knox of Bhil Field, India, who also addressed a missionary service at four o'clock.

The concluding conference service was held at seven o'clock and conducted by the Maritime executive of the Y.P.S. when Rev. Lloyd MacLellan delivered the third address on "The Challenge Of His Coming". The installation of officers was conducted by Rev. J. Donald MacKay. At the conclusion of the service a fellowship circle was formed when all joined hands and sang "Blest Be The Tie."

During the fellowship hour, films of Camp Geddie and of India were shown and followed by refreshments. The minister and Kirk Session of the Presbyterian Church, Sydney, N.S., extended an invitation for the 1953 annual conference. A special feature of the Sunday evening service was a vocal solo "Were You There" impressively rendered by Mr. L. W. Hancock. —S

Eisenhower Makes Bid For Support In South

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 — (AP) — Gen. Dwight Eisenhower made another bid to win the traditionally Democratic South tonight with an assertion that the Truman administration has given that part of the U.S. a "shoddy deal."

Speaking in New Orleans, the Republican presidential standard bearer said Democratic claims that the economic rebirth of the South stemmed from policies developed in Washington are "sinister nonsense . . . plain bunk."

While Eihenhower renewed his plea for Southern votes there was a comparative lull in the Democratic camp. President Truman and Governor Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate, were both charting new vote-hunting forays as the campaign entered the three - week home - stretch drive. Election day is Nov. 4.

Famous Maori Princess Dies

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Oct. 13 — (Reuters) — The death of Princess Tepuea Herangi, 68-year-woman credited with saving the Maori race from extinction, was announced today.

Tepuea, grand-daughter of the second Maori King Tawhiao, spent her life organizing the race and leading it out of the depression and hopelessness which hit it after the Maori wars of 1856-70.

Defeated by the white man and robbed of vast areas of fertile land under the government confiscation act of 1858, the once-proud race of more than 100,000 had by 1901 dwindled to 40,000.

Defying orthodox leaders of the Maori tribes, the young Christian princess urged unity and preservation of Maori culture while, at the same time, adopting modern ideas.

She taught the tribes to co-operate in government land-development schemes, to work amicably with the white man and rally around her Maori king movement.

Britain recognized "her outstanding contribution to the welfare of the Maori people" in 1937 by making her a Companion of the British Empire.

Today the Maoris are flourishing. Five-sixths of the race now is Christian, though they still retain old ritualistic customs and habits. In 1951 there were 113,841 Maoris in New Zealand.

Two Maoris are appointed to the Legislative Council and four sit as members of the House of Representatives. The franchise covers all adult Maoris and they are taking their place alongside white men in factories, offices and the professions.
