

Mail Early Is Theme Of Post Office Department

The peak period for Christmas mail flow will be from about December 13th, through to the 20th. Island post offices will soon be moving the mountains of mail which are an annual sight at post offices during the busy season. To handle this additional business the Charlottetown post office will hire an extra 42 male and 70 female employees.

This additional help is hired through the Federal Manpower Division on application by the postal department.

The Charlottetown post office will be doing business until closing time on Saturday, Dec. 24, and will then cease operations until Tuesday, Dec. 27. Postmen will continue to make only one mail delivery daily, but will be assisted in their chores by some of the additional help hired for this busy season.

Youth Has Case Adjudged

SUMMERSIDE — The case of common assault against Owen Palmer was adjudged for sentencing until Monday, December 12, when he will sign a recognizance to keep the peace for a period of six months.

The 19-year-old Summerside youth was told to pay damage of $10 and to stay away from the Civic Stadium where he had assaulted Stadium Manager Charles Hogan.

Mr. Hogan told the court that the youth had been told not to hang around the rink, and that on coming out of the stadium one night recently, Mr. Hogan said he was grabbed by this youth.

The youth pleaded guilty to the charge.

FLYING PEER DIES

LONDON (AP) — Viscount Knollys, 71, a British aviation pioneer known as "The Flying Peer," died in a nursing home Saturday. A First World War pilot, he later became a businessman and served as chairman of BOAC and Vickers Engineering.

Busy Session In Traffic Court

Seven traffic offenders were dealt with by Justice of the Peace Albert Dennis in Queen's County Traffic Court yesterday morning.

Alexander Boyce, Bonshaw, was fined $10 and costs for passing on a solid line.

Paul Victor McConnell, Charlottetown, and Edward Breaux, St. Paul, N. B., were each fined $10 and costs for speeding.

Eileen Neil, Milton, was fined $10 and costs for not having a valid operators license.

David A. Power, Greenfield, paid $10 and cost for passing in a no passing zone.

William Jameson, Panmure Island, was fined $10 and costs for not having a red flag showing on an over length load and Gerard Emmett MacKinnon, Fort Augustus $15 and cost of a speeding offence.

Car Damaged In Accident

SUMMERSIDE — Summerside town police investigated an accident which occurred on Monday morning at 10:30 when a 1966 Beaumont, owned by Bruce Johnson, and operated by James Johnson, was backed into by a one-ton truck, owned by Summerside Co-op and driven by Robert Barlow. The Beaumont suffered approximately $100 damage.

Queens MP Is Guest Speaker At Carlton University

CAPITAL BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN
OTTAWA — Ottawa has no need to stand timorous and afraid, in the face of demands from the provinces, Heath Macquarrie, MP for Queens, said here, in an address to the Carlton University Progressive Conservative student club.

He said while present day circumstances may suggest changes in relationship between provinces and the dominion and while some court decisions have flouted the intention of the Fathers of Confederation, it was still true that the dominion institutions and authorities are in an extremely strong position.

THERE IS A DANGER

He said there is a danger in Canada that the dominion authority may be weakened in the face of provincial demands, and thus rendered incapable of serving the needs of the people of all Canada. A strong central government was required so that all Canadians could move forward with reasonable degree of equality of opportunity in economic and other fields.

The Queens' MP pointed out that the British North America Act provides for a very strong central government and it would be difficult to find any federal state such vast power was given to the central organ of government.

St. John A. Macdonald and the other founding fathers had in mind not merely a loose collection of almost autonomous states, but a strong government in which the provinces had reserved to them only those spheres of government which would be inappropriate for the central government.

But he said there was no immutable law which decrees that Canada must remain as it now exists and separation, deliberate or unintentional, agreeable or violent, could take place.

MEN OF 1967

"It was the men of 1967 who brought this nation into being. It will be the men of 1967, who by their will and wisdom will keep it together. While it would be foolish to entertain a fearful belief that all is to be undone, it is equally frivolous to believe that a few pious intonations of goodwill will make our troubles disappear," Mr. Macquarrie told his youthful audience.

ROTARY AUCTION CONTROL CENTRE

The Telephone control center of the 34th Rotary Radio Auction is busily handling the brisk bidding which is coming in from radio listen-

Premier And Cabinet To Attend Centre Opening

Premier Campbell and members of his cabinet, along with His Honor Lt. Gov. W.J. MacDonald will attend the opening ceremonies of Prince Edward Island's first Alcohol Treatment Centre, which will be officiated at by Dr. Lorne Bonnell, minister of welfare, at 2:00 p.m. this afternoon.

The Centre is located on Malpeque Road in the building formerly known as St. Vincent's Orphanage, and will be operated by the Alcoholism Treatment Foundation Inc., a private organization recently formed in this province to undertake a variety of activities in the alcoholism treatment field. The Treatment Centre is their first major undertaking, and its significance in the field of alcoholism has been recognized by the Federal Government which has authorized a substantial grant covering salaries of staff members up to March 31, 1969. In addition, assistance on a shared-cost basis is expected from the Federal and Provincial Governments under the Canada Assistance Plan. Further support is expected from the general public and plans are presently underway to raise capital funds for the Centre covering expenses incurred to date, and to provide funds for expansion of the program.

Present plans call for a maximum of 20 residents, admitted on the basis of their voluntary application. First residents will be accepted after opening, but it is expected that the maximum will not be reached for several weeks in order to give the staff an opportunity to gain experience in this new field. For the present, patients will be transferred from the Alcoholic Ward at Riverside Hospital when the initial withdrawal reaction has ceased, and the patient is prepared to accept the program of the Centre. Eventually it is expected that referrals will be accepted directly from physicians as well as from the General Hospitals.

STAFF OF SEVEN
A full-time staff of seven persons has been engaged, including a manager, housekeeper, field officer and four attendants. In addition, it is expected that the various Alcoholics Anonymous organizations will cooperate with the program.

The Alcoholism Treatment Foundation has been incorporated under the Companies Act, and it is proposed to call a public meeting of the membership within a few weeks for the purpose of electing a new Board of Directors. Interim chairman is J.E. Green of Charlottetown. The Manager of the Centre is Frank Lacey, also of Charlottetown.

The public is invited to attend the opening ceremonies and to tour the building, which has been recently renovated. The building will be open to visitors for the remainder of the day.

Rotarians. Proceeds from this auction will help provide summer camps and recreation facilities for underprivileged children.

Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charlottetown, from 4:15 p.m. until the auction went off the

air at 12:51 a.m. recording and controlling bidding. Coffee and sandwiches were provided and the workers by the Rotary Anna, the wives of the

ers. Rotarians, numbering about 100, worked at the Canadian Legion Home in Charl