

Want Housing, Pensions Credit In Liberal Plans

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal party, during its leadership convention, will be urged to hammer into its platform such proposals as a modified credit policy, a vast program of housing for low-income families and a national contributory pension scheme.

Resolutions aimed at reshaping some of the party's concepts and policies now are rolling in from grassroots organizations in time for the three-day convention opening here Jan. 14.

George Marler, chairman of the provisional resolutions committee says he already has received some 170 proposals and expects to have about 200 by convention time.

"Resolutions are coming in from all parts of the country," said the former transport minister, MP for Montreal's St. Antoine - Westmount. "The widespread interest is heartening."

Skimming through the resolutions, he found no widespread demand for lower taxes or any sharp increase in social security benefits. Rather, interest appeared to be centred on means of expanding the economy, the maintenance of jobs and building of more housing.

However, some regional groups did want the party to be in favor of increasing federal capital grants to hospitals and the development of a national contributory pension scheme whereby the worker, employer and government would share pension costs.

Groups also wanted transferable pension benefits to allow a worker to transfer benefits of company pension plans from one organization to another at any time.

Some Liberal groups want the national party to go all-out in favor of Britain's offer of free trade with Canada. There are demands also for a distinctive Canadian flag, a national system of scholarships and machinery for pegging the Canadian dollar at par with United States currency.

One demand that has particularly caught the attention of party leaders is for a scheme of low-cost housing to meet the needs of those earning about $3,000 a year. The criticism is that the current national housing act is geared mainly to help provide homes for those earning about $5,000 a year or more.

Party leaders say it is almost certain this resolution will get convention approval and that it is something that the party will attempt to implement if it gets back into power.

Another suggestion attracting keen interest is that the "bluntness" of the former Liberal government's credit policy—a policy that became an election issue—be "refined." This refinement would allow the government to temper any Bank of Canada credit restrictions by making money available to certain depressed areas such as the Maritimes.

St. George's Junior Farmers Begin Their Eighth Year

The annual meeting of St. George's Junior Farmers was held in St. George's School on December 27th. The President and Secretary-Treasurer then presented their reports.

1957 presidential report by George MacPherson, president: The year just passed has been a busy year for the St. George's Junior Farmers. We held ten executive meetings during the year with a good attendance. At our 1956 annual meeting we had an enrollment of fourteen. However two of those did not join in 1957.

We decided to invite young people who were not members, including all those who would be sixteen before the 1957 Annual meeting, to join at the first of the year. As a result we got thirteen new members, which gives us an enrollment of twenty-five at present.

and since we are the only group in Kings County, it was decided to have a map of the Country in green with white background, and St. George's Junior Farmers in red letters. This crest and one-third the price of the jackets was paid for by the group, with each member paying the balance, full price being $11.50. The work on this project was done by a committee of Anthony Campbell and Mildred Campbell.

We held dances during the summer as well as parties at our members homes and this was handled by a committee of George Fitzpatrick, Rose McLellan and Ivan Morrison. We did not enter public speaking or debating competitions.

We held dances during the summer as well as parties at our members homes and this was handled by a committee of George Fitzpatrick, Rose McLellan and Ivan Morrison. We did not enter public speaking or debating competitions.

We returned the visit of the East Prince Group, when on July 17th, twelve of our members toured their farms and other places of interest. At our October 11th, meeting we had the New Glasgow and District Junior Farmers as visitors. Mr. Lincoln Dewar was guest speaker at this meeting, as well as chairman for a panel discussion which included members from both groups. Seven of our members returned the visit by going to New Glasgow on Nov. 6th, and attending one of their meetings.

As your President I represented the St. George's Group at their banquet held at Shining Waters Lodge, Cavendish. We attended and took part in the activities of a Field Day held at the Experimental Farm. We also helped pay for the Red Cross swimming classes and canvassed our District for the Blood Donor Clinic held at Cardigan. Road signs were talked of but we were unable to do work on them this year. We also considered buying a building to hold our dances and meetings, those will be projects for 1958, our group's eighth year.

Secretary's - treasurer's financial report: Cash on hand at beginning of year $58.66—Cash received from Government grant, Jacket payments, concerts, dances etc. $733.90. Cash paid for jackets, dance music, canteen, transportation, gifts, donations etc. $696.32. Balance on hand $96.24.

TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF LATE DR. MACMILLAN

Sir—I have just recently learned of the passing of Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan. He was a friend and distant relative of mine.

I would like to have this tribute published in your valuable paper.

Some years ago, (1942-1947) I was with the National Film Board and had many trips up the long stairway to give news of my shows and films.

At present I am in the farthest city on Vancouver Island—the salmon-famous Campbell River—also the home of the author Roderick Haig-Brown, who wrote many stories of fishing, hunting and the outdoors.

I am Librarian here; I enjoy living beside the sound of another sea—the Strait of Georgia—but no sound is sweeter than the roar of the Gulf of St. Lawrence!
