Electrification Needs Urged In CCF Resolution

Following a meeting of the Prince Edward Island C.C.F. provincial council in Summerside Wednesday evening the following statement of the subject of rural electrification was issued.
"The P. E. I. section of the C. C. F. reaffirms its belief that electrification of the entire Province outside the town of Summerside, should be proceeded with as a provincially-owned enterprise.
"Also, it reaffirms its stand against political patronage which must be eliminated if publically-owned enterprises are to be fully efficient. However, the most important point concerning rural electrification today is that it be proceeded with immediately whatever method is used. The C. C. F. deplores the serious differences of opinion on the matter within the ranks of the Provincial Government and urges it to agree on some electrification plan, and proceed with it, without further delay."

"ROSE OF CIMARRON" AT CAPITOL SUMMERSIDE

"Rose of Cimarron," Twentieth Century-Fox's Natural Color action-western starring Jack Buettel, Mala Powers and Bill Williams will open today at the Capitol Theatre, Summerside.
An Edward L. Alperson production, "Rose of Cimarron" is a thrilling and suspenseful story about the venturesome history of the West. It is the tale of a beautiful, hard-shooting white girl, reared from infancy by Indians, who sets out to avenge their murder only to find the law, administered by a rugged U.S. Marshal, demanding legal justice.
Playing the dynamic role of a U.S. Marshal is Jack Buettel, who won the applause of the nation's moviegoers after his role as "The Outlaw." Mala Powers is well remembered for her performance in "Cyrano de Bergerac." Her new role is quite an about face, in which she plays the part of a fiery white girl who raises havoc in the early West. Also starring in a fine role is Bill Williams, who as the murderous outlaw looks for trouble and gets a lot of it.

Midland, Ont., test pilot who showed the Duke the workings, said Philip had told him he'd "like to have a go." The Duke, who recently earned his pilot's wings, wore a battle dress uniform of a marshal of the RAF.

Watches Aerobatics

While the Duke watched from the top of the control tower, 14 Sabres took off in pairs. The four-pilot aerobatic team—PO. Gar Brine, Antigonish, N.S.; PO. Ralph Annis, McAdam, N.B.; PO. Fern Villeneuve, Ottawa, and PO. John Gaudreau, Chicoutimi, Que.—did rolls over the field in tight formation.

Phil, Lt. Dean Kelly of Peterborough, Ont., the wing's solo stunt ace, performed stomach-turning rolls, loops and turns about 50 feet above the field. He made one tight turn at nearly 700 miles an hour.

Philip visited the airman's mess at mealtime and stopped to ask LAW. Edna McLean of Tisdale, Sask., whether she was getting enough to eat. Miss McLean, one of 29 RCAF W.D.'s who arrived at the base Sunday, gulped and said yes.

NEW DELHI. (Reuters)—P. K. Sen Gupta, Indian government meteorologist, says the British climbers on Mount Everest have at least two weeks more on the mountain before the monsoon forces them to quit.

He said Thursday the monsoon has started in the Bay of Bengal but has not yet reached the South Indian coast. When it does it will take at least two weeks to reach the Himalayas and should reach Everest June 12 or later.

Communication with the climbers is difficult, but it is known they started the final phase of the assault on the 29,002-foot mountain six days ago.

The daily weather reports radioed to the expedition have forecast cloudy to overcast skies in the area, with some snow.

Winds are changing from the dangerous northwesterly to westerly, dropping to about 25 or 30 knots.

Let's Talk It Over

by "D"

"Caution," like "fire" is a very good servant, but a terrible master. There are times, surely, when discretion is the better part of valor. Foolhardiness is inexcusable in any situation. If you are a book agent, by all means give careful scrutiny to the dog on the front door-step, always remembering however, that for every one that really considers your person a tid-bit, there are ninety-nine that growl and bark because it is the conventional thing to do. They wouldn't eat you if you were served up to them with lettuce and mayonnaise.

So it is with life. If it grows at you, that doesn't mean it is going to bite. And we all have to take our chances. As we are ushered into the world, we're not exactly odds-on favorites to win the heat. Then there's always the chance our we may stumble out of our high chair into the hot bath. The odds for survival start to come over for our side as we get older, but the gamble is still there.

So it is with the affairs of business and community life. The project that is successful is launched by leaders not afraid to take a chance. It gets its start to the accompaniment of the dismal forebodings of the penny-pinching, stand-pat boys. Look back to any one of the worth-while improvements in your town; something accepted now by everyone as an achievement of which to feel proud. Do you remember the howl of dismay that greeted the idea when it was first broached? Bankruptcy was staring you all in the face! But you came through successfully in spite of the penny-wise, pound-foolish brigade.
