For Business Men

Drops From the Editor's Pen.

Aim at originality if you aim to be anything. Get down to business if you would be up-to-date. Perversion applied to brains forces prosperity. Slow-selling goods are sand in the business lubricant. Keep to the front in business if you would keep in evidence. Miracles are often worked on a dead business by hard work and brains. Trust not a customer regarding whose honesty you may have doubts. Never say you cannot do a thing until you have tried your very best and failed. He who cannot think should leave business matters alone and go into politics. It is the employment of good business methods which builds up a good business. Dead stock, unless disposed of, tends to induce mortification and, ultimately, business disintegration.

When a merchant begins to give short weight he will not have to wait very long to get out of business.

He who keeps his eye on his business does not give the "other fellow" much chance to run away with it.

Good manners are proper behind the counter as well as in the drawing-room, and there is more money in them.

There is unfair as well as fair competition, but there are some people who seem to think that all competition is unfair: They want everything.—Canadian Grocer.

Not Only Grocers.

Some grocers seem to think it does not matter where they get their goods on the inside or outside of the paper, and frequently I have seen about as much lard or butter or other greasy substance on the outside of the package as there was on the inside. Not long ago the grocer's boy left a small pail of lard at our house. The weather was warm and in a short time my wife noticed a large puddle of melted lard in the table around the bottom of the can. After wiping up the puddle she carefully examined the can and found it did not leak. The grocer must have left considerable lard on the outside of his pail in order to make such a muss as was on the kitchen table.—Portland Tradesman.

Progress depends upon what we are, rather than what we may have to encounter. One man is stopped by a sapling lying across the road; another, passing that way, picks up the hindrance and converts it into a help in crossing the brook just ahead. We are too apt to think that our progress in a given case will depend solely upon the obstacles we may run against. It is more likely to depend upon what runs against the obstacles.—Sunday School Times, Philadelphia.

Advertising is no longer an experiment, no longer an undeveloped theory a notion in the abstract, a vague inviting land of promise. There is no danger of its turning out a will-o-the-wisp venture to advertise, like electricity and many other powers, and forces of which men feared to risk the danger of handling; advertising has become the mighty lever of successful trade and commerce.—Yonkers (N. Y.) Herald.

The greatest success in the history of this latter day trade science have been made, not by the men who have bought the most space, but by those who have put brains into their ads—ideas that have caught the attention of the world's readers are burned into their minds an everlasting impression.—Marsh.

Advertising will help any business, but it brings new customers and necessitates new methods. An unwillingness to make and meet the changes needed is what frequently makes the result of advertising such a total failure as is sometimes observed.

The trouble is not always in biting off more than one can chew, but rather the swallowing thereof.—Hustler.

Failure consists in giving up, not in succeeding.—Life.

Have more than you showest; Speak less than you knowest; Spend less than thou owest. Shakespeare.

The Lover (passionately)—What can I do, where can I go, that I may please you? The Loved (also with passion)—Oh, go anywhere—only do go soon!—Judy

KIDNEY-SICK PEOPLE!

By far the largest army of sufferers in the world are the kidney-sick people—but by far the largest army of the cured ones attribute their release from disease to the great South American Kidney Cure—Cures Bright's disease. Cures diabetes. Cures all bladder ailments.

tested by eminent medical authorities on kidney diseases, and proved and testified to by them as the surest and safest cure for all diseases of the kidneys and bladder. It's a purifier—a healer—a health builder—efficacious alike to man or woman.

Good News from the North Country—A young machinist in a large manufacturing concern in Northern Ontario, fell a victim to the dropsical form of kidney disease through atmospheric changes in following his daily labors—he continued his work until almost commanded to quit by the physician from whom he had been receiving treatment. He visited Toronto and consulted an eminent authority on kidney diseases. The doctor sent him home with a hopeful story of himself as he could give, but wrote privately to the young man's physician that it was only a matter of time with him until death would claim another kidney victim. When he

Why He Refused to Pay. "One dollar, please," said the clairvoyant. "Not much," he replied. "I'll not pay you a cent." "Do you think I reveal the future for nothing?" "I don't care anything about that. You told me I was to marry three times, and I don't propose to put a premium on bad news."—Chicago News.

A shrewd old doctor once said: "If I wanted to torture an enemy, I would tell him he had an incurable disease. His life would be miserable, and he would be almost certain to die before his time."

The colder the climate the greater the size of the human brain.

Grand Trunk Engineer swears by Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills

Mr. Geo. Cummings for over 21 years engineer on Grand Trunk running between Toronto and Allandale, says:—The constant duty with my work gave me excessive pains in my back, making my kidneys. I tried several remedies until I was recommended by my friend, Mr. Chase, to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Two boxes have completely cured me, and I feel to-day a better man than ever. I recommend them to all my friends.

Simplicity of ornament—a bridal fashion seems destined, by the way, to rapidly become a thing of the past. A recent bride, certainly to the manner born, wore a pearl necklace and diamond pendant.

Minard's Liniment is the best

First Police Official (anxiously)—I hear that one of our men has beaten half a dozen inoffensive citizens to death.

Second Police Official (hotly)—If that horrible charge is true, I'll—hang me if I don't have him transferred to another precinct.—New York Weekly.

When Beauty Fades

In response to repeated inquiries from ladies with whom Dr. Chase's Ointment has become so popular for skin diseases, asking if face powders are injurious and can be used while using the ointment, we state that while the majority of face powders are injurious, we can recommend the recipe given in Dr. Chase's supplementary recipe book on page 45, which will be sent to any address on receipt of 5c in stamps. Dr. Chase's Ointment is the ladies' friend for all skin diseases. Address Dr. A. W. Chase Co., Toronto.

Kidney-Bladder Trouble.

There is no more serious menace to good health in the present age than kidney disorder, and it's an appalling fact but a true one, that four fifths of the country's people have the taint of this insidious disease with them. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure all kidney disease.

In seals for men's silk fobs, dark green jade furnishes a handsome innovation, while amethysts, topazes, agate and carnelians are very effectively employed.

"I want your daughter," he wrote to the old gentleman. "Come and get her," was the old gentleman's reply.

"Oh, dear, no, answered the suitor." "That's not at all the correct thing now. Let her come and get me. Then they knew that he was really a man with a title and not an imposter.—Chicago Post.
