

Jr. Guild Plans Church Service

The monthly meeting of the Junior World Wide Guild, Charlottetown Baptist Church met last evening at the parsonage with 10 members present.

The devotional period led by Mrs. Brehaut opened with a hymn, followed by a reading entitled "Full Power".

The business period was presided over by the president, Mrs. Heartz. A special collection was taken for churches for new communities. Further plans were made for the March 15th service which will be conducted by the Junior Guild and the Ferne Levy Guild.

Last night was a memorable night when the guild chose a name for their group. It is to be called the Kaye Lockwood Guild. The Lockwoods are both Maritime missionaries and started studies around the same time the guild was formed.

The program led by Mrs. Manuel took the form of a playette from the United Baptist Training School in Moncton which was enjoyed by all.

It was also suggested that the Ferne Levy and the Kaye Lockwood Guilds be hostess to the two mission groups in May.

A life membership certificate was presented to Mrs. Yeo by Mrs. Mitton.

Montreal. The tray was presented for the high herd average for 26-40 cow herd size. The MacRae's herd of 27 cows averaged 10,274 lbs. milk, 457 lbs. fat, 4.45 percent in 327 days.

Drama Group Works Hard To Ready Mystery Thriller

Actors, back stage crew and the director of Charlottetown Little Theatre Guild entry in the P.E.I. regional Drama Festival have been working overtime for the past few weeks to ready their presentation, Agatha Christie's mystery thriller "The Mouse Trap" for public viewing Monday night.

Site of the presentation is Prince of Wales College Auditorium.

It is believed it will mark the first time that this play has been presented by either a professional or amateur group on the North American continent.

It promises to be an entertaining one. A recent play, it was produced for the first time at the Ambassador Theatre in London, Eng., in 1952.

Directed by George Anderson the play has a cast of eight. Players are Eric MacGregor, Corena Steele, Barbara Rogers, Peter Shama, Brenda Large, Weston Carmody, Lloyd Yeo and Bert Foster.

Others participating in the presentation are Margaret Collins, sound effects; Jack Mac-

Kinnon, stage setting; Betty Holl, make-up and Allie MacLeod and Adele Jardine, script.
