

GRADUATES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Large Attendance At PWC Commencement Yesterday

"If you are to enjoy great success you must purchase it at a great price," warned Rt. Rev. J. A. Murphy, D.D., in addressing the graduates at Prince of Wales College convocation exercises yesterday. "That price is study and labour. There is no royal road to learning. The trend today is towards comfort and ease," the speaker added. "If you seek these merely for their own sake they will be replaced by that 'soft life' which, according to a great general of the last war, brought about the fall of a great nation. What, you may ask, will life give you in exchange for the satisfaction of idleness and self-indulgence. At first it will give you the pain of sacrifice and perhaps of suffering like any other discipline intended for the training of the mind. Later it will bring you something of inestimable value, something which will never be possessed by those who live solely for pleasure and amusement."

CONGRATULATES GRADUATES

Premier A.W. Matheson presided at the convocation. He offered his congratulations to the graduates at the same time giving credit to those who tried hard but were perhaps not so successful. The prizes and certificates were presented by His Honor Lieutenant Governor T.W.L. Prowse. Dr. Frank MacKinnon in giving the principal's report told the students their certificates should not be taken to mean that had completed their education; rather they should indicate that the student was now qualified to enter as apprentices in a much broader field.

VALEDICTORY

The valedictory address was given by Ian MacLean. In his address he recalled the many social activities enjoyed by the students of Prince of Wales as well as the laborious times spent in preparation for and in writing examinations. The valedictorian paid tribute to the teachers of the College. "Why is it we have to leave just when we begin to know our tea?" he asked. Special appreciation was expressed to the parents through whose sacrifices the graduation of the students was made possible. "Our debt to them is such that the only way we can fully repay them is to be equally unselfish when it comes our turn. We hope that our presence here on the stage will be some reward for their labours," he said.

LARGE AUDIENCE

The College auditorium was crowded with parents, relatives and friends of the students. The graduates preceded by class members of the other three years made an impressive appearance as they entered the auditorium to the strains of the professional march played by Royston F. Muford, A.R.C.O. Distinguished guests on the platform other than those already mentioned were His Worship, Mayor Stewart; Hon. Kier Clark, Minister of Education; Hon. Eugene Cullen, Minister of Agriculture; Rt. Rev. Monsignor MacKenzie, Rector of St. Dunstan's University; Dr. L.W. Shaw, Deputy Minister of Education; Dr. G.D. Steel, former Principal of Prince of Wales.

Toronto Kiddies Jeer Defence

TORONTO (CP)—The city's civil defence organization put on a gala rescue demonstration in downtown trinity park Thursday night hoping that recruits would be attracted. But almost all the spectators were children—and they heckled. They strained against ropes placed to keep back spectators, fingered equipment and shouted encouragement.

A simulated rescue from a shattered building, complete with smoke bombs and firecrackers, sent the youngsters into raptures. A loudspeaker explained what was taking place. First-aid men ran to aid three victims who staggered from the "bombed" building.

"YOUR SLOWPOKES" "Gee, look at those guys climbing up that ladder." "Golly, that's really something," cried young spectators. When activity lagged at one point comments became more and more complimentary. "What're ya doin' with the ladder, poling it?" A small girl shouted: "You call yourselves civil defenders... you're just slowpokes." "Heck with the stretchers, let's have more firecrackers," said another.

TO EXCHANGE AMBASSADORS

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Communist China and Egypt will exchange ambassadors shortly, the Chinese news agency said Friday. The agency gave the text of a Chinese foreign ministry announcement. Egypt last week announced its decision to recognize the Peiping government.

Wheatley River Players At Provincial Drama Festival

The third evening of the P.E.I. Drama Festival was opened last night by Mr. Jock Lawson, C.D.A. who spoke of the difficulty of getting people to take part in drama and he considered the casts should be commended for the time and work they have spent in preparing for the present festival. One play was presented last evening, "Here Comes Charlie," by Jay Tobias and presented by the Wheatley River Players and directed by Mrs. Phillip Matheson. In his summing up Prof. Sipperell said the play offered the challenge to groups, "do you dare to try a better script." He felt the script should be worthwhile when so much effort must have been put into the production, to hold an audience and improve the taste. The visual aspects could be improved, to keep the play from becoming monotonous. It needed tempo, variations, groupings with meaning. The surroundings were good with clear direction. Costumes were pleasing, especially on the part of the ladies. Prof. Sipperell said the stage could have been dressed better and he would have liked to have seen Nora and Officer Tim on the Irish side. Of the various players he said Larry showed good comedy at times. Ted Hartley did nice job with good expression. Vivian, showed good characterization but could work more on the part. Aleck Twigs showed a good flair for comedy. Although diction was clear, his facial expressions were good. The part of Charlie was long and difficult for a young girl and Mrs. Smythe Kersey had a clear idea of the character. Members of the cast were: Tita Ling (Nora Malone), Gordon Allen (Officer Tim McGill), Aileen Ling (Mrs. Fanny Farnham), Keir Rackham (Larry Elliot), Charles Carr (Ted Hartley), Jean Chandler (Vivian Smythe-Kersey), Foche Doiron (Uncle Aleck Twigs), Eileen MacRae (Mrs. Caroline Smythe-Kersey) and Blois MacRae (Morimer Smythe-Kersey).

11 INJURED IN FLINT, MICH.

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—A jurisdictional dispute among craft unions over the right to install machinery in an auto plant flared Friday into a wild, head-cracking battle in suburban Grand Blanc. Eleven men were injured and two of them were listed in critical condition. Before order was restored, sheriff Don Carmichael put in an emergency call for state troopers. They hurried with riot guns to the Fisher Body Division plant of General Motors Corp. Troopers aided sheriff's men in guarding the entrances to the plant. The plant formerly turned out tanks for the Army. It now is being converted to civilian production and will produce automotive body parts. The AFL craft unionists involved in the fight are employees of Darin and Armstrong Inc., of Detroit, general contractor for the conversion project. Members of the United Auto Workers or other employees of Fisher Body were not involved. ARMED WITH CHAINS The brawl started when 200 men invaded a section of the plant where machinery was being installed. They carried chains, pipes and baseball bats. Witnesses said they stormed through one section of the plant and in a few minutes had cleared the place. The invaders chased workers outside into the parking lot. Some workers fled in their cars, others scaled tall wire fences to get away from swinging chains and bats. Police said many cars were damaged. Sheriff Carmichael said trouble among the craftsmen, all identified

Auto Unions In Battle

The Flint unionists walked off the job more than a month ago, accusing the Detroit riggers of "goon tactics." They later returned to work and trouble has been brewing daily. Witnesses said Friday's invasion by the Detroit riggers apparently was in retaliation for an incident Thursday when several riggers were ejected from the plant.

Government May Invite Queen To Open St. Lawrence Seaway

OTTAWA (CP) — Queen Elizabeth may be invited to Canada officially to open the St. Lawrence seaway in 1959. Prime Minister St. Laurent told the Commons Friday the government will consider inviting the Queen but that before any formal action is taken informal inquiries would be made about Her Majesty's wishes in the matter. Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) broached the subject during the daily Commons question period. Mr. St. Laurent said he has seen suggestions in the press and elsewhere that the Queen be invited to open the seaway. The government would give consideration to the matter. Hon. Lionel Chevrier, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, said at Cornwall, Ont., that he and his colleagues were seriously considering asking the government to invite the Queen to

Polio Cases Show Decline

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of poliomyelitis cases reported in Canada up to May 19 declined to 57 from 86 reported in the corresponding period last year, the health department announced Friday. There were four polio deaths up to May 19, one more than in the corresponding period last year. No new cases were reported last week. The average of cases in 1951-55 was 115. Cases by provinces last year's figures in brackets: Newfoundland, 3 (0); Prince Edward Island, 2 (1); Nova Scotia, 5 (6); New Brunswick, 4 (3); Quebec, 10 (14); Ontario, 6 (16); Manitoba, 4 (3); Saskatchewan, 1 (3); Alberta, 7 (13); British Columbia, 15 (27); Yukon, 0 (0); Northwest Territories, 0 (0).

Radio Contact Made With Raft

HALIFAX (CP)—Amateur radio operators throughout Nova Scotia Friday reported contact with the raft L'Egare a few hours after four Frenchmen set out to cross the Atlantic on the 30-foot craft. Aaron Solomon, Dartmouth, N. S., ham operator, said the raft was hampered by the low power of a hand-cranked generator. The adventurers are using their radio transmitter. The amateur radio network, especially in coastal points like Canoe and Sable Island, N. S., has been alerted and will try to make contact with the raft daily at 7:15 p. m. A.D.T. as long as possible.

DEFIED ORDERS OF CHAIRMAN

Conservative Suspended In Gas Pipeline Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Donald Fleming, 51-year-old Progressive Conservative, was suspended from the Commons for the final 1 1/2 hours of Friday's sitting after he defied orders of Chairman W.A. Robinson. The House voted 131 to 55 for the temporary expulsion of the Toronto Eglinton member who had insisted on speaking despite repeated orders by Mr. Robinson to sit down. Opposition leader Drew later gave verbal notice he will present a motion of censure against Mr. Robinson because the chairman "does not command the respect of this side of the house."

Mr. Fleming, suspended on a motion proposed by Finance Minister Harris, government House leader, was on the chamber floor as Conservative and CCF members thumped their desks. Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC — Hamilton West) brought in a Canadian ensign and draped it over his desk. It was the first time in 12 years a member had been suspended for defying the chair. Mr. Fleming took his stand during an uproar-filled Opposition fight against the government attempt to push its bitterly-contested gas pipeline legislation through the Commons.

LONG TACTICAL FIGHT

With the bill before the committee of the whole House, chairman Robinson was trying to rule on an Opposition claim that a tactical move of the government was out of order. After hearing one hour of Opposition argument, the chairman said he had heard enough and would make his ruling on the point. Mr. Fleming, shaking off repeated orders to take his seat, stood and demanded to be heard on a question of privilege. Finally, the chairman reported him to Speaker Rene Beaudoin. His suspension followed. The day was a continuation of the disorder and bedlam which marked today's sitting. The end result was that the government made no progress in its drive to get approval by June 7 of the bill to lend up to $30,000,000 to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. to build the Prairie leg of its $375,000,000 gas line from Alberta to Ontario. Quebec.

If the deadline is not met — only nine sitting days of Parliament remain—Trans-Canada is released from its agreement to complete the Prairie section of the 2,200-mile line by Dec. 31. An unprecedented number of 75 questions—61 from Conservatives—were put to cabinet ministers at the start of the day's sitting, an Opposition tactic that cut one hour from the previous time remaining for pipeline consideration. The questions embraced a wide variety of subjects, mostly minor, including even experiments on chrysanthemum culture.

LONG WRANGLE

Procedural wrangling and then the Fleming issue took up the rest of the day's time on the bill. Mr. Fleming threw bitter words at Mr. Robinson as the 50-year-old chairman refused to hear his question of privilege. "You are making a farce out of these proceedings... this is not any way to run a peanut stand, let alone Parliament." Mr. Robinson replied he had given every courtesy to Mr. Fleming and ordered him to resume his seat. If Mr. Fleming would not, he would report the matter. Mr. Fleming: "If you wish to deny me my right as a member of the House and refuse to hear a question of privilege, you will take your own blind course, I assume." After the chairman reported to Mr. Beaudoin, Mr. Fleming spoke again. "He said he had stood his ground 'without departing one inch from the respect which in the 11 years I have been in this house I have always given to the chair'."

FIHTS FOR OTHERS

He said he was asserting his right to "stand up against discriminatory decisions" for present and future members of the Commons. "I abide by the consequences," Mr. Harris said officers of Parliament must be respected. "Every one of us realizes that we do err from time to time," he said. "But one thing we must not avoid it, is that the authority of both Mr. Speaker and the chairman of the committee should be defied in other than the normal method of appealing to the committee or the House as a whole."

Mr. Harris said he regretted greatly what had happened. But if the Commons was to indicate its support of the chair the "only possible" course was a motion to suspend Mr. Fleming. Speaker Beaudoin, speaking deliberately, said that no matter how serious the political warfare between two sides, "I am asking honorable members to keep in mind that occupants of the chair are not concerned and are not capable of intervening."

COLD CENSURE CHAIR

That was to move a motion calling for censure of the occupant of the chair. Mr. Drew replied that Mr. Robinson "does not command the respect of this side of the house." "Such appropriate steps as should be taken will be followed." The last incident similar to that of Friday was in 1944 during debate on the government's family allowances bill. Hon. H. A. Bruce, Conservative member for Toronto Parkdale, refused to withdraw a charge that the allowances were a "bribe" and was suspended for the day on a motion by former prime minister Mackenzie King. Friday's incident was not the same as "naming" a member, when the Speaker calls a member's name because of disorderly conduct. The last person to be named was Liberal Lacombe, an Independent Liberal member for Laval — Two Mountains, who refused the Speaker's orders to come to order, was named and then sussended on a formal motion. The motion to suspend Mr. Fleming was backed by Liberal and Social Credit members. It was opposed by Conservative and CCF parties and Independent Paul E. Gagnon, Chicoutimi.

NO DEBATE

Earlier, Speaker Beaudoin had ruled that the suspension motion was not debatable. The ruling was appealed, but sustained on a vote of 133 to 4. That time M. Gagnon and Ross Thatcher (Ind.—Moose Jaw-Lae Centre) sided with Liberals and Social Crediters in supporting the ruling. Mr. Fleming was in the chamber for both votes, but remained in his seat as other members stood to be counted. Later he told reporters that his suspension was part of "the government's whole attempt to stifle discussion" of the pipeline issue. His suspension represented "the suspension of any rights of Parliament."

"I didn't seek this," Mr. Fleming said. "I deeply regret this action that has been taken. I regret it with all my heart." "I do not regret nor depart one inch from my stand in the house." When the chief of the House protective staff, J. P. L. Groulx, tried to remove the flag Howard Green (PC — Vancover Quadra), Mr. Fleming's desk-mate, stopped him momentarily but then permitted him to remove it. Later, Mr. Green fainted in the parliamentary restaurant while dining with his wife and friends. David Fulton (PC — Kamloops) said his colleague fainted apparently as a result of the high tension in the Commons.

British Columbia Is Fighting Dual Battle Of Fire And Flood

VANCOUVER (CP)—A hot sun continues to shine across Canada's west coast province which is fighting a dual battle against fire and water. Fire was the chief concern Friday as fire and cedar forests of the Sechelt peninsula, 30 miles north of Vancouver, crumbled before the flames of a cigarette-born blaze.

The battle against high water is concentrated in the mountainous southeast of British Columbia district where a few families have left their homes. There has been no general evacuation in any area. To the south, in the region of Bonanza, Idaho, the raging Kootenay river, called Kootenay in its Canadian reaches—levelled off at just above 36 1/2 feet after breaking through more dikes and lapping over the tops of two others to flood another 6,500 acres of rich farm land.

Driver Charged With Negligence

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—Robert Mailoux, 31, of Val Gagne, Ont., Friday was remanded to June 1 on a criminal negligence charge in connection with a fatal accident May 16. He was released on $1,000 bail. Police said Mailoux was driver of a car that smashed into a rock cut at nearby Massey. George McPherson, 58, a passenger, was killed. Mr. McPherson was a former resident of Charlottetown.

NO CONFIRMATION

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday that when announcement can properly be made concerning appointments to the cabinet they will be made in the Commons. He was replying in the Commons to George Hees (PC — Toronto Broadview) who asked whether there is any basis in fact to newspaper reports that Walter Gordon of Toronto, chairman of the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects, and House Speaker Rene Beaudoin would be named next year to the cabinet.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR BAGNALI

Family Ties Cherished By New Zealand Visitors

As a result of a conversation with a cousin who trained in the airforce here during the last war Mr. Arthur E. Bagnali and his wife from New Zealand, made plans to visit the place of their ancestry, Prince Edward Island. They arrived in Charlottetown last night, one of the stopovers included in a tour which will take them around the world. They will not get back to Auckland, New Zealand until March 16, 1957. On hand to meet the visiting New Zealanders last night were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bagnali and Mrs. W. J. V. Dunbar, the former Ellen Bagnali of Charlottetown. Arthur Bagnali and Andrew Bagnali have the same great-grandfather, Richard Pagnali who operated the first mail service in the Province. He lived at what was known for many years as "The Half Way House" at Hazelgrove distance from Auckland where they conducted for a number of years a flourishing saw mill business. Arthur's father was William Bagnali, second son of George Samuel. He had three sons and three daughters. All lived in Auckland except one brother who lived in Sydney, Australia. Another brother, Garfield was for some time in the civil service on the Island of Tonga where he retired as minister of finance and controller of Customs. During their week's stay on Prince Edward Island, Mr. and Mrs. Bagnali hope to visit all their relatives most of whom live in central Queens County. They leave a week from today for Quebec City where they will board the Empress of Scotland for the United Kingdom. A planned tour of the continent of Europe is also included in their itinerary.
