BREAKFAST—SUPPER.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the properties of well-selected Cacoa, Mr. Epps has provided for our breakfast and supper a delicately flavored beverage whico may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified by pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

WIVES OF THE WORLD.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN SCOTCH AND ENGLISH ONES DISAPPEARING.

A Consideration of the Question by One in a Position to Know—An Interesting Problem Being Settled by the Law of Evolution.

The differences in the social life and customs of the Scotch and English nations are gradually disappearing. Among the upper class, and even the well-to-do middle class, it would be difficult to detect any distinctive features greater than are to be found between one county and another. But the working people, peasants, and, above all, the farmers, cling tenaciously to the habits consecrated by their forefathers. Thus, in a farmhouse in Scotland and one in England, not more than a hundred miles apart, we find the style of working very different. This is especially the case with the wives. The most notable difference is that the Scotch guidwife works very much harder than her English sister. This is to be explained by the fact that Scotland emerged from barbarism some two or three hundred years later than England. All semi-barbarous people make the women do the hardest work; the men reserve their strength for fighting. One would think, arguing theoretically, that the weaker sex ought to have the lighter labor, especially as the bearing and rearing of children devolves upon them. This is recognized more and more as a people becomes more civilized; but in the days when fighting—war—was a sacred duty, even when not a necessity, the tilling of the soil and all field labor was left to the women. We read how a Highland gillie thought it something of a disgrace to handle a spade or follow a plough. It was unbecoming the dignity of a man. Now that they are no longer allowed to carry a dirk, and it is dangerous for them to fight out their clan's quarrels, the lazy domestic habit still clings to them. Even in this century the Highland women carry the manure to the fields on their backs, dug the soil, and carried home the produce; while the men, when they were not fishing, or hunting, or stealing, loafed about.

Of course, the Lowlanders are a more civilized race, and it is long since they outgrew such barbarous habits. Still, in the Lowland counties, I venture to think that the farmers' wives—with some exceptions —have a harder life than the farmer himself. Certainly they undertake much more work than the women do in England. To begin with, in the Southern country the men usually take charge of the byre and the milking. Often a cowman is kept, and always a cowboy. The master himself probably milks, or one of the sons—in fact, the milking chiefly devolves upon the men. It is not common for the mistress to go to the byre at all, and the daughters, perhaps, help only in hay-time or harvest. This is of the North of England that I speak. Now, in most Scotch byres I have seen, the milking is done entirely by women, the mistress herself leading the way and keeping the others up to the mark. This means in summer time some hours' hard labor every day, for we all know that one cannot milk well and take one's ease. Then it is also very trying; for a milker is not of much use who cannot be depended upon night and morning. If the mistress goes a-visiting, she must be "hame to the milkin'." The propriety of this is so acknowledged that her hosts never ask her to stay. Perhaps, when she has grown-up sons and daughters, and her sore battle is over, she can say—"I'm weel aff, there's plenty without me;" but, from force of habit, when she is at home she takes her stool and her pail with the rest.

I have never seen the mistress or daughters in England go out to the fields to work; they do very well if they send the girl to help with the hay. But in the Land o' Cakes the farmer expects his daughter to work out hay-time and hairst, and they seem rather to like the opportunity of donning a clean jupe and a sun-bonnet. I have heard my mother tell that in the last generation it was quite common for the servant lass to be out all day after breakfast till milking-time; no one left in the house but the mistress to make the cheese, attend to the dinner, wash up, and attend to the children. One, more ambitious to shine than the others, would put the vegetables in the broth, lock the door, and go out herself for an hour or two, leaving the field a quarter of an hour before the others to feed the pigs and have the broth on the table. Those who knew her say she was always running at her work, with her bare feet even in winter. She paid the penalty later in life, being deformed and stiff with rheumatics One I know, who is now a bright, cheery woman of 60, has often told me that when a young wife with her first baby, a sucking infant, the lass went out to the fields, and she was left with the cheese and all the housework. She says it required perfect health and a strong body. Even with these the life was hard. I should think it was!

But the guidwives themselves, far from regarding this state of things as a hardship, prided themselves on the amount and speed of their work. Their ambition was to do "twa weemen's wark." Whoever couldn't do that was a "saft sumph," or a "tumphie." It must have been wae days for those who were delicate, and I suppose there would be a few here and there who were unfit for that sort of thing, though I heard a worthy woman, whose niece had been ailing a little, exclaim in a dissatisfied tone—"We never were no-weel when we were young."

When these worthy souls met together for a gossip, they laid wagers how many cakes they could put out in an hour, how much work they could do in a day, and retailed to each other tales of the feats of women who had made their names famous for being clev r—i.e., phenomenal workers. The chief objection to this way of thinking was that excellence was necessarily confined to the physically strong. We are not sufficiently amended yet in that respect.

One day in an English house I heard a farmer's wife commented upon. She had almost a miraculous number of children, the eldest of them twelve. She kept no servant, and was altogether a most wonderful housewife, keeping house and children in perfect order with her own hands. Most of the women were inclined to doubt her powers, but I remembered several cases of Scotch wives who would have thought that a comparatively easy life. But I did not say so—they would not have believed me.—Gretchen, in the Scottish Farmer.

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

CAUSE OF BOWEL COMPLAINTS.

The direct cause of pain and looseness of the bowels, is an irritation of the mucous membrane of the same, sufficient to produce excessive peristaltic or worm-like motion in the interior of the bowels, thus the partly digested food matter is kept constantly passing along and evacuated freely. This is called a diarrhœa; where the irritation is enough to cause bleeding, we have dysentery. Indirect causes of diarrhœa, by which an irritation is started are intestinal dyspepsia, overeating unripe or over-ripe fruit, tainted meats, or oysters etc.; torpor of liver, by which not enough bile is secreted; excessive flow of bile, etc.; TREATMENT. Thoroughly evacuate the bowls with Parsons' Pills, they are among the best to get rid of all irritating matter. Then take Johnson's Anodyne Liniment in teaspoonful doses diluted with water, every four hours, and oftener if the case is severe. In case of Asiatic cholera, one teaspoonful should be given every half hour. Thousands of people remember the year 1849, when the worse known epidemic disease spread over this country. Johnson's Anodyne Liniment at that time was little known outside of the state of Maine. But for its use at that time by its friends, many would not now live to spread the joyful news that any case of diarrhœa, dysentery, cholera-morbus, or kindred diseases, can be cured by Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. It nevr yet failed. The proprietors, I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., will send their new illustrated book, entitled "TREATMENT FOR DISEASES," free to any person for the asking. July 25

Notice to Commercial Travellers.

The attention of Commercial Travellers is called to the following sections of an Act passed by the Legislative Assembly of Prince Edward Island, Session 1894, intituled "An Act to Impose a Direct Tax on Certain Classes of Traders":—

1. "From and after the passing of this Act every casual trader not permanently residing in this Province doing business within this Province, commonly known as "Commercial Travellers," and every person not permanently residing in this Province, and who sells either for himself or any other person any goods, wares or merchandize in this Province, or solicits or canvasses for orders either for himself or any other person for the sale, exchange or purchase of any goods, wares or merchandize within this Province, either by the production of samples, photographs, catalogues, printed or written matter, or simply by word of mouth without the production of samples, photographs, catalogues, printed or written matter, shall, before he or she enters upon the business of so selling any goods, wares or merchandize, or soliciting or canvassing for such orders, pay to the Provincial Treasurer of this Province an annual license fee or direct tax of fifteen dollars."

2. "Upon payment of the said license fee or direct tax, the said Provincial Treasurer shall grant a license authorizing the person therein named to sell goods, wares and merchandize in this Province, and to solicit and canvass for orders for the sale, exchange or purchase of goods, wares and merchandize within this Province. Such license shall be granted and remain in force for the space of one year following the date upon which the said license shall be granted and no longer."

3. "Any such Commercial Traveller or person not permanently residing in this Province as aforesaid, who, after the passing of this Act, shall sell any goods, wares or merchandize, or solicit or canvass for orders for the sale, exchange or purchase of any goods, wares or merchandize in any manner aforesaid within this Province without having first paid the said license fee or direct tax, and obtained the said license, shall for each and every occasion upon which he or she shall sell any goods, wares or merchandize, or solicit or canvass for an order for the sale, exchange or purchase of any goods, wares or merchandize as aforesaid, be liable to pay the sum of two hundred dollars to the said Provincial Treasurer."

This Act is now in force.

License can be procured in Charlottetown at the Provincial Treasury, in Summerside from Wm. T. Hunnt Esq., in Georgetown from George B. Aitken Esq.
