OLD TIME BURIALS.

When New England Rum Was Ever Present at New England Funerals.

Americans awakened more quickly than the English people to the follies of a burdensome and expensive funeral, and in 1791 Judge Sewall noted the first public funeral "without scarfs" in Boston. In 1741 the provincial court of Massachusetts enacted that "no scarves or gloves, except six pair to the bearers and one pair to each minister of the church or congregation where any deceased person belongs, no wine, rum or rings be allowed to be given at any funeral upon the penalty of $50." The law must have been a dead letter, but it certainly had its influence in curtailing expenses, as various newspaper notices show. Still, this century a New England funeral was a pompous affair, and it must be confessed far from being in all respects a gloomy affair. Hawthorne says: "Look back through all the social customs of New England in the first century of her existence and read all her traits of character and find one occasion other than a funeral feast where jollity was sanctioned by universal practice."

New England rum was ever present at a New England funeral to solace and to cheer bereaved mourners. All drank before the procession to the grave, and many drank after. Nearly all the itemized funeral bills I have seen until this century were large in items of rum, whisky, lemons, loaf sugar and spices. Spiced cider was a favorite drink at a funeral. When a beloved minister chanced to die, his church or more often the town outdid itself in liberal liquid provision for the funeral. Nor were town paupers forgot in death. A barrel of cider or two or three gallons of rum were supplied by the town as the final item of expense for the "town poor."

Judge Sewall spoke of a visit to his family tomb as an "awful yet pleasing treat." Not less plainly do the entries in his diary show that every funeral he attended was to him a treat—a great social excitement. He served readily and officially as pall-bearer at 30 funerals and in every case but one received scarf, ring and gloves. He could not attend one funeral lest he should hear the burial service of the Episcopal church, which, he said, was "a lying, very bad office; makes no difference between the precious or the vile."—Chicago Record.

Brain Food.

It is important to note that cerebral nerve cells demand particular materials for their proper nutrition. Food which will make bone will not be best suited to the nourishment of an active brain and vice versa. So fat producing foods, while of course of value in one's diet, yet do not furnish in large measure nutrients for the repletion of nerve cells. Professor Ladd says that the chemistry of the nerve cells is in the main protoplasmic and therefore rich in albuminous bodies. And, again, "Of the solids composing the nervous substance more than one-half in the gray and one-fourth in the white consist of proteid or albuminous bodies." The foods that are best calculated to nourish the brain, then, are those containing a large amount of protein or albumen, rather than fats, carbohydrates or minerals, the three other important constituents of foods. But in many homes, as well in those of the rich as of the poor, the children's dietaries contain comparatively little albuminous food.—Professor M. V. O'Shea in Popular Science Monthly.

The Legal Way.

Client—I think we had better sue for about $15,000 damages, don't you?
Lawyer—Will that satisfy you?
Client—I think so.
Lawyer—We'll make it $40,000, then. I shall want about $25,000 for my fee.—Somerville (Mass.) Journal.

Testimonial

C. P. Fletcher, Esq.

DEAR SIR,—I do not wish to return to Montreal without expressing my gratitude to you for the very excellent Bell Piano that you placed at my disposal for my recital. I have tried many Canadian Pianos of different manufacturers, and must say that, considering the size of the instrument, I have never found one to equal it for depth and brilliancy of tone. The action is quite as elastic and responsive as in American Upright Pianos of the highest grade. Again thanking you, very sincerely,

I remain,
Yours,
