Alternate Living Program

Queens County Residential Services is a community based service providing a variety of residential options to adults who are mentally handicapped.

Q.C.R.S. services are designed to promote and facilitate the personal growth of clients, so as to enhance their potential to live, work and socialize within their community.

One of the services offered through Q.C.R.S. is Alternate Living Program. The A.L.P. supports adults who are mentally handicapped to live independently in their community with minimal supports. The client may choose from a variety of options, which include room and board, family placement, independent living, or supported apartment.

Of particular interest to students is the supported apartment concept. With this arrangement an A.L.P. client is matched with a support person/roommate who can live in the client's apartment and provide support and training in the client's recognized areas of need. An excellent example is "Connie". She is a recent graduate of U.P.E.I. and has been living with "Heather" (A.L.P. client) for 2 1/2 years. Connie says this has been the ideal arrangement for her as a student. The program allows Connie the freedom to be a full-time student, as Heather is employed during the day.

Connie also adds that her experience as a live-in support person has been an asset when seeking employment and has been a valuable reference. Connie admits that the program is challenging and requires a great deal of maturity, responsibility and dedication on her part. Says Connie, "Heather is the best roommate I've ever had. She is like part of the family".

Remuneration is determined through the development of a case plan and can include compensation for living expenses and a support and training allowance. Part-time positions are also available.
