It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quite sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little shrub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind. feb4 eod wk

ON Friday last, a butcher occupying a stall in the inside market, had a dispute with Clerk VanIderstine, as to what constituted a breach of the regulations governing the Market. The dispute arose from the fact that an outside butcher had sold a quarter of meat to a customer, and that, for the convenience of the purchaser, the meat had been cut up by an inside butcher. This, the butcher who had the dispute objected toon the ground that it was a breach of the market rules, and he undertook to give the offending butcher a piece of his mind. The Clerk came to the assistance of the outside butcher, and suggested that it would be advisable for the inside man to keep quiet. His advice was not accepted, and the complaining butcher started in on the Clerk. Both got vexed, and the argument ended in the Clerk being assaulted. An action for assault was brought against the butcher by the Clerk, and the case was heard before the Stipendiary Magistrate this forenoon—and dismissed. The Magistrate regretted that the butcher had not been charged with violating the Market regulations, instead of assault in which case he would have fined him heavily.

Canada in High Fashion.

The Colonial Exhibition has made Canada fashionable in England. "An Exhibitor" writes as follows to the Montreal Gazette:—

"As an example of the interest in Canada and Canadians awakened, or at least stimulated, by the Colonial and Indian Exhibition, the following comments by my brother on the disposition manifested by the British public may be of interest to Canadian producers and the public generally. Referring to our exhibit he says: 'The articles with Canadian names are all the rage, and F. is doing a rushing business,' * * * * * 'He also wants cards like Christmas cards, typically Canadian; nothing but Canadian will do.' * * * * * 'With regard to the things for F. the more Canadian they are the better; all the things with Canadian names have been much more appreciated than those without.'"

[SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.]

THE "ADAMS CASE."

Some Preliminary Sparring.

HALIFAX, Sept. 17.

The formal trial of the Gloucester schr. David J. Adams, for violating the treaty of 1818 by purchasing bait in Digby harbor, commenced this afternoon. The only persons present were lawyers Graham and Borden for the crown, and Meagher for the United States defence, and the crown witnesses. Immediately after the court was constituted, Mr. Meagher called attention to the presence of reporters, and said the publication of the evidence of the crown witnesses was calculated to prejudice the defence. He therefore hoped they would not remain. He argued that this was not a private court but a private arrangement for the examination of witnesses by consent. The commissioner said he did not think he had the power to exclude representatives of the press, but didn't think they ought to remain after being requested to withdraw.

Mr. Meagher here requested all witnesses to retire, except the one to be examined. Mr. Graham said he didn't agree that they should go out as a matter of right. Mr. Meagher next demanded the Commissioners ruling about excluding the reporters. The Commissioner ruled that unless Mr. Meagher could show him that he had authority to do so, he would not assume that responsibility. The reporters therefore remained.

Mr. Meagher cross-examined the first witness at length, but failed to shake his testimony in any particular.

Capt. Dakin, the next witness, substantiated many of the main points of the previous witness's testimony. He made a personal inspection of the bait found on the Adams, and declared it to have been fresh and not out of the water many hours.

The case was adjourned till to-morrow, when Admiral Scott will be put on the stand.
