SAFE SOOTHING SATISFYING

Originated by an Old Family Physician in 1810.

You can safely trust what time has indorsed for nearly a century.

There is not a medicine in use today which possesses the confidence of the public to so great an extent as Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. For more than eighty years it has stood upon its own intrinsic merit, while generation after generation have used it. The best evidence of its value is the fact that in the state where it originated the sale of it is steadily increasing.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment

I. S. JOHNSON ESQ. My Dear Sir—Fifty years ago this month, your father, Dr. Johnson, called at my store and left me some Johnson's Anodyne Liniment on sale. I have sold it ever since. I can most truly say that it has maintained its high standard and popularity from that time to this. JOHN B. RAND, North Waterford, Maine, Jan., 1891.

"Best Liver Pill Made."

Parsons' Pills

A MAIDEN FAIR.

BY CHARLES GIBBON.

CHAPTER IX.

The hage rocks called the Bullers o' Buchan rise high and jagged above the sea, which dashes and churns white against them, falling back moaning as if with disappointment that it cannot overthrow them. But it has made inroads at their feet, forming curious archways, leading to great caverns, once the haunt of smugglers. Still the rocks stand firm, proud guardians of the coast, and a terror to mariners and fishermen when the winds blow high.

The little Mermaid looked like a speck on the water in contrast with these giants of nature. As it steamed slowly and safely by them there were some on deck whose hearts beat quick at thought of the peril they were so narrowly escaping. All were grateful to the captain, who had come so timely with such skill and strength to their rescue; only one pitied the man who had led them into the danger.

As for Duncan Murray, his breast was full of wrath. The reputation for care and skill which he had earned with a lifetime to be jeopardized at last, and only saved by a miracle! Jeopardized by the man he had trusted as he trusted himself! There was no penalty heavy enough for such a villain!

Except the engine-man and Ross, who had been placed on the floor of the cabin, all remained on deck. But no word was spoken until they passed the grim Bullers. They were like people petrified, pale and dumb, watching the scowling figure at the wheel. When they knew that they were safe there was one great breath like a sob of relief, and a silent prayer of wondering thanks. Then the power of motion was restored to them by the loud voice of the captain giving some brief commands.

Annie had been by her father's side all the time, so white and calm that she was more like a statue than a living woman. She watched every movement of the vessel, how obediently it answered the helm under the master's hand, until at length it took them out into safe water. But her mind was busy seeking the reason for this strange occurrence. Her father in his rage had said that Ross was drunk, but she could not believe it. Her mind leapt to the thought that he had fallen in some fit; and at her father's first words she moved swiftly away. Down to the cabin.

There on the floor lay the man she loved, the man to whom she had pledged herself, and who had so nearly destroyed them all—a senseless, ugly piece of humanity. She approached him, bent over him with tender hope.

She drew back quickly and her face flushed. His breath told her that her father had spoken truly. And yet she was dimly conscious that mingled with the fumes of whisky there was something else, which she did not understand, and which at that moment did not impress her mind.

There was the one horrible fact: he had been drinking and so had imperilled all their lives!

The first sickening sense of dismay over, she became calm again, and bethought her that something ought to be done to restore him to consciousness. Who was to help her? She dare not speak to her father and she would not speak to Cargill. By and by she would be able to get one of the men, but none of them could be spared at present.

Meanwhile she got a towel, dipped it in cold water and laid it on his head. Next she shook him roughly by the arm; but he made no sign. Whilst doing this she became a little more conscious of the presence of that something besides the fumes of whisky, only she was too busy in her efforts to rouse him to give it particular heed.

And she was wondering. How could this miserable shame fall on Bob Ross? In all that she had ever heard of him there had been no hint of this. Quite otherwise: one of the qualities for which he had been specially noted was his sobriety. Then how should it come now in the hour when he was most anxious to please her father?

She could not understand. It was strange: that was all she could say, and in her bewilderment began wondering again. And as she was wondering there came suddenly a pain in her breast and a dull aching in the dry eyes, for was not his shame hers?

Oh, how brave and noble she had believed him to be! How much above all other men in everything—how pure, how strong and faithful in all that became a man! And lo, there he lay helpless—such a sorry sight!

She could not bear it and she covered her face with her hands, rocking herself to and fro as she knelt beside him. Strange, piteous cries in her brain, but no sound coming from her lips. The idol seemed to have fallen from its high place—fallen so low down and still was loved.

She did not care now who knew it. She loved him and she would help him though everybody else should turn from him.

She knew by the sounds on deck—trampling of feet, loud voices and the varying movements of the engine, that they were nearing port. Whether or not the noise had any effect in rousing him, Ross at length stirred from his lethargy.

He moved slightly as if to turn on his right side. With anxious face and ready hands she assisted him. He muttered something in a husky whisper, but she was unable to make out what he said.

She called him by name twice and her voice seemed to reach him at last. There was a spasmodic movement of the body, and this time his muttering was distinct enough for her to comprehend:—

"Starboard, starboard, confound ye. There's the Dun Buy—we must hold off."

The rest of his words faded into indistinctness again.

The turmoil above grew louder, and the movements of the engine more eccentric than before.

She dipped the towel into cold water and bathed his face and hands. He breathed more freely and regularly than he had been doing for some time, and presently he opened his eyes.

What weary, wild eyes they were, staring at her without the least sign of recognition. They frightened her, and yet they brought the tears which relieved her own parched eyes.

"Do you no ken me—Bob!?" she hesitated a little over the name.

The wild expression disappeared and slowly there came a smile of recognition.

"No ken you, Annie! how could that ever be? My lass! But what a dream I hae had—that I got fou and let the boat gang on the rocks and—"

But there the glimmer of intelligence faded, and a vacant expression took it place. Suddenly he made an effort to rise but fell back helpless.

"Try again," she said eagerly; "if you could only get on to the seat, it would make me less wae to look at you."

Mechanically he made the effort, and with her strong help succeeded after a few trials in getting on to the seat.

"Can you bide there that way till I get you a drink?"

She brought him a glass of water and held it to his lips. He drank greedily as if his throat were parched, and he seemed to revive. She took both his hands in hers and gazing earnestly at him said,

"Can you no' tell me how this happened? Try to mind. Where did you get the drink?"

"I canna tell. I got whisky, and I saw the Dun Buy and the Bullers, and I wanted to keep clear of them. But something aye pulled the wheel out o' my hands. There was—"

He ended the sentence by shaking his head hopelessly and muttering wearily, "I canna tell—I dinna ken."

She saw it was no use pressing her questions further at that time, and indeed she had no opportunity of doing so. Although the noise above continued, the engine had stopped, and she knew that they were in port. Her father came down. Partly in consequence of his dread of any further accident, and partly out of a wise discretion, knowing his own temper, he had delayed coming until the Mermaid was safely moored in Peterhead Harbor. Now when he came, he found her holding Ross's hands and speaking softly to him. His passion blazed up in spite of himself.

"What are you doing there with that scoundrel? Come oot o' that this moment."

She did not move, and Ross was apparently quite unconscious of the angry and bitter words.

"Did you no hear me?" shouted the father. "I tell you that you are no to disgrace yoursel' by speaking another word to him."

"Father, he is no weel," she said gently.

"No weel!—he'll be weel enough when he gets over his drucken fit, and curse him."

"That is not a drunken fit, father. He is really not well, and you should get a doctor to see him."

"Me get a doctor for the scoondrel that nearly ruined me as weel as drooned us a'!" exclaimed the captain, as much astounded by his daughter's calmness as by her first disobedience. "I tell you he was drinking when he was at the wheel, and that would hae been enough for me even if he hadna put us a' in siccan danger."

"How do you know that he was drinking when at the wheel" she asked calmly.

"Cargill told me. He took a dram from him."

"Ah!" The exclamation was short, quick, with a drawing in of the breath. "And he gave it to him."

"Ay, but he maun hae been drinking before that, because a dram wouldna mak' him like what he is. Come out o' this Bob Ross, and thank the kindly thoughts I hae aye had for you till noo, that I dinna send you to jail instead of glein' you leave to walk ashore."

"Father, will you not send for a doctor?" she pleaded once more.

"I'll no hear another word, you hizzie, but I'll hae something to say to you in a wee while."

To her amazement Ross stood up, unsteadily, but still maintaining the position. He drew one hand dazedly across his eyes and said huskily:—

"No for me, Annie, no for me—you shall not suffer for me. I'll go. Your father is right. I begin to mind now, and it is his kind nought that saves me from a jail—it is not all clear yet; but it is coming back. Me standing at the wheel and no power to speak, and—and that's all."

"Bide a minute and I'll get Jock Burns to go with you," and she darted up the stair.

Captain Duncan was puzzled. He could not make out the man; this was not the way he had ever before seen anybody who was "fou" behave.

"I am sorry for you, Bob; but you hae brought it on yourself and I canna pass it over. Had it been onybody else I would hae been on the look out for sic a thing, but no' wi' you."

"You are doing kindly by me, captain, and I thank you. I dinna understand yet; but it's coming to me, and I'ken that I was wrang. I thank you and I'll go."

He made a step forward, staggered, and fell back upon the seat. He would have fallen on the floor but that the sturdy captain caught him in time.

A VETERAN OF THE LATE WAR.

Cured of fluttering of the Heart and Smothering spells by Dr Agnew's Cure for the Heart—Always relieves in 30 minutes, and thus saves thousands of lives

Mr. W. H. Musselman, member of the G. A. R., Weissport, Pa. writes: "I have used two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, and have been entirely cured of palpitation or fluttering of the heart and smothering spells. I took 10 bottles of Sarsaparilla, but it failed in any way to relieve me. I do not think the value of the Heart Cure can be estimated. It has wrought such a change in my condition that I feel like a new man." Sold at S. W. Dodd's.

Placards have been posted in Canea, Island of Crete, inciting the Mussulmans to engage in a holy war against the Christians.

LUMBERING ON THE OTTAWA

A LIFE OF GREAT HARDSHIP AND EXPOSURE.

River Drivers Often Waist Deep in Icy Waters—Pain-Racked Bodies the Frequent Outcome—Only the Most Robust Can Stand This Weary Round of Toil.

From the Ottawa Free Press.

Only those who have engaged in the arduous occupation of lumbering know how dearly earned in their livelihood, for among the many vocations of men that of lumber-man ranks among the most dangerous and difficult. There is the heavy shanty labor from earliest dawn to evening star when the toiler for half the year is remote from home and friends, and whose daily round is to eat and work and sleep, only getting an occasional glimpse of the outside world though a long looked for letter from some loved one far away.

Then the days lengthen, the frozen lake breaks up, and comes the driving of logs and hewn timber down the tortuous swift running stream, when necessity often calls the driver to wade body deep in the swift flowing, icy waters. None but the strong can engage in such heavy labor, only the most robust are able to stand the ten hours of daily toil, with but a mid-day hour's respite. Such, in brief, is the life of many thousands of laborers in the Ottawa valley, and among the many is

Thos. Dobie, of 130 Head street, Chaudiere, who for twelve long years has wrought for the great lumber king, J. R. Booth, shantying in the snowy northern forests, and lifting three inch deal during the summer heats. It is not to be wondered at that in his long experience and great exposure he should contract a severe cold that in time took permanent lodging in the region of his loins and kidneys. Like many others he thought to work it off, but in vain. Soon the pains in the region of the kidneys became so intense that labor was a torture to him, and it was only the indomitable courage, born of a knowledge that others were dependent upon him, that urged him to pursue his weary round of daily toil. Every sudden movement of the body was as a thorny goad that made him wince beneath its sting. Added to this was an unusual and excessive sweating which necessitated frequent charges of clothing, and which weakened him to such an extent that his appetite was almost entirely gone, and eventually but little food and much water was his daily fare. Many vain efforts were made by Mr. Dobie to free himself from the pains which had fastened themselves upon him, and one medicine after another was used, but without effect. Life became a burden and existence a thing almost undesirable. After many fruitless efforts he was induced to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When three boxes were taken the change in his condition was marvellous, and his own words are "when I had taken six boxes I was a new man and consider the cure worth hundreds of dollars." Mr. Dobie, although completely cured, continues taking Pink Pills occasionally and is very enthusiastic in his praises of what the pills have done for him. Many of his fellow workmen seeing the great change wrought in him by these famous pills have been led to give them a trial for other ailments and are unanimous in pronouncing them superior to all other medicines.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood and nerves, building them anew and thus driving disease from the system. There is no trouble due to either of these causes which Pink Pills will not cure, and in hundreds of cases they have restored patients to health after all other remedies had failed. Ask for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and take nothing else. The genuine are always enclosed in boxes the wrapper around which bears the full trade mark "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." May be had from all dealers or sent post paid on receipt of 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Husband and Wife Had Occasion to use it and Received Relief from Catarrhal Troubles in Ten Minutes.

"My wife and I."

So Rev. John Bochror, of Buffalo, will tell the enquirer, were both troubled with distressing catarrh, but have enjoyed freedom from the aggravating malady since the day they first used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. Rev. Mr. Bochror is the aged and beloved pastor of the Evangelist Protestant Christ Church, and hundreds in his congregation are familiar with the improvement which immediately followed the use of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. Its action is almost instantaneous, giving the most grateful relief within ten minutes or so in even the most chronic cases, and straightway continues to cure until the last trace of catarrh is gone. And the cured stayed cured, as thousands of testimonials prove. Sample bottles and blower sent by S. G Dutchon, 44 Church street, Toronto, on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps. Sold at Dr. S. W. Dodd's.

Why Kidney Disease Cannot be Cured by Powders, Tablets or Pills!

One of America's most eminent specialists, who has for years studied profoundly the construction as well as the disease of the kidneys, gives it as his belief that pills, powders and tablets are almost worthless in the treatment of kidney diseases. Bright's disease, diabetes, gravel, and almost all disorders of the kidneys are caused by the presence of oxalate of lime and uric acid, both of which are solids. In order to dissolve these solids so that they may be eliminated from the system a liquid medicine must be used. South American Kidney Cure is the most perfect solvent known, and for this reason it generally relieves in six hours, and never fails to cure. Sold at Dr. S. W. Dodd's.

Suffered Without Help—Eighteen Years Getting Worse—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

BRIDGEWATER, N. S., Nov. 30 (Special).—There is no man in this town better known than J. S. Morgan, tinsmith, who for eighteen years had been going from bad to worse without help until at last he got hold of the right treatment. He says: "It began with backache, pains in the limbs, and finally settled down as rheumatism. I was a cripple, and after I ran down greatly in weight the doctors said it was disbetes. About a year and a half ago I quit everything else and took Dodd's Kidney Pills. Have taken twenty three boxes, and have regained my weight, health and strength. I am perfectly cured.

The sudden revival of commerce in the United States is attributed to the endorsement of protection.

"I was so much run down I had to give up work, and I felt as if life was not worth living," writes Wm. W. Thompson, Zephyr, Ont. "I took Scott's Sarsaparilla and am now feeling as I did years ago." An Alibi Office.

Novel ideas are being put into practice every day, and if rumor is to be believed the latest thing in original conception has assumed the form of an alibi office. What is an alibi office? the bewildered reader may be inclined to ask. Well, in this particular case it is an establishment which undertakes to post letters from any and every corner of the world. It is, in fact, a sort of philanthropic institution, devised for the benefit of persons who, while remaining quietly at home in a sort of incognito condition, can make believe that they are on a long tour. Thus is human vanity satisfied, and thus are the expenses of a regular journey saved. A man takes leave of his friends at the close of the season, with the announcement that his recreation will assume the form, for instance, of a run through Spain and Portugal; and at regular intervals follow letters from Madrid, Seville, Lisbon, Oporto and so on, duly stamped and postmarked. The alleged promoters of the enterprise are represented as arguing that after all this pleases some people who do not care for the trouble and fatigue of traveling, but are eager to enjoy the prestige with which a grand tour will, as they fancy, invest them in the eyes of their friends. As to the logic of this line of reasoning, to say no more, your readers may safely be left to draw their own conclusions. After all, this may be mere report, for the office is described as being a very discreet institution, having no outward and visible sign of existence.—London Telegraph.
