Boxer Shocks Fans In Walking Out Of Ring

HALIFAX (CP) — A boxer shocked the fans and his handlers here Tuesday night when he walked from the ring just as he started to land punches against his opponent.

Ray Stanford, a 128-pounder from Halifax, met Richard Clyke, 135, of Truro in a fill-in preliminary bout after a scheduled four-rounder ended after just 32 seconds of the first round with Bob Whalen of Dartmouth, N.S. knocking out Carver Hatfield of Truro.

Clyke had the fans laughing and applauding in the first round with a sideways bouncing motion and big grin as he landed punch after punch on Stanford's chin.

In the second round of the scheduled four-rounder, Stanford hit Clyke with several solid rights and Clyke stopped his dancing and grinning. Clyke backed up a few paces from Stanford and the two looked at each other for about 30 seconds.

Suddenly Stanford waved his left hand in a gesture of disgust and turned and walked to his corner where his shocked handlers asked "what's the matter?" Stanford's reply could not be heard by reporters a few feet away. He was bleeding slightly from the nose and holding his mid-section as he walked from the ring to the dressing room.

It was several seconds before the fans realized it was over. The ring announces merely said Clyke had won at 1:46 of the second round.

At the end of the card Stanford could not be found for comment.

As Clyke walked away from the ring, the grin had returned.

Early Closer Has Three Divisions

Charlottetown Driving Park presents another early closer tonight and a quick glance at the three divisions indicates the greatest kind of horse racing excitement.

Twenty-one horses are entered and seven will get the word in each of the first three dashes. Rankine McLaine's Just Gary has the rail in the first and the big fellow should be tough to beat. However, the other half dozen in this dash will be trying their mightiest to score an upset.

Chief's Gal looks like the favorite in the second trip but Johnny William's pacer has a formidable opposition facing her.

In the third division Dr. Preston MacIntyre's Janet M., should be hard to keep in check but such horses as Lizzie Clegg and Real Gold will be rated high by pari-mutuel bettors.

Dashes five, six and seven will be raceoffs of this early closer. The top horses go in the fifth with the others battling it out in six and seven.

The only double dash affair brings together seven great trotters. A trot is always popular and this affair tonight should indeed be a humdinger. It's likely that Bill Boyle's Stormy Song will be top choice but in a trot anything can happen. Poplar Flash will have plenty of backing and the other five will not leave the wire without fan support.

The entire night shapes up like a fine card and a big crowd can be expected. First dash leaves at 8 o'clock.

Pros All Out To Bury Veteran Pancho Gonzales

NEW YORK (AP)—The most emotion-charged tennis tournament since the days when Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs meowed at each other across the net gets under way Thursday at hallowed Forest Hills.

It will be Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, the long-time king of tennis now making a comeback at 35, against the entire field of his fellow pros.

The pros are out to bury Gonzales, whose lanky shadow has hung over their operations even while he has been in retirement for nearly two years.

Acting through their spokesman Tony Trabert, they even threw out the announced draw for the tournament and cooked up a new one that was obviously —and frankly—designed to try to keep Gonzales from winning.

Gonzales is just as frankly out to wreck the current crop of touring pros. "After I beat them they'll be dead," he said, grimly. "What are they going to do without the best tennis player in the world?"

Gonzales meets Alex (Chief) Olmedo, the Peruvian who won the Davis Cup for the United States in 1958, in the first round. That match goes on Thursday, after Trabert meets Ken Rosewall in the opener.

SPEAK TO INSULT

The original draw had Gonzales pitted against Trabert—a match Pancho wanted very much to play, since he and Trabert speak only to insult each other these days.

"If I don't get to play Tony in this tournament, I'll play him after the tournament, on any court, anywhere, and if I lose I'll commit suicide, gladly," Gonzales said.

Gonzales found Wednesday that none of the other pros would even practice with him at Forest Hills. "I may even have to have my drinking water tested," he laughed.

The other four players in the tournament go Friday, with Lew Hoad against Earl Buchholz and Rod Laver against Pancho Segura. Rosewall, Hoad and Laver are seeded 1-2-3 in that order, in the new draw, with Gonzales dropped to fourth. He was second in the original.

Harkness Is Hero As Mets Edge Cubs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tim Harkness of Lachine, Quebec, was the hero in a 14-inning, 8-6 victory by New York Mets over Chicago Cubs in the lone afternoon game scheduled in the majors Wednesday.

Harkness won the game with a bases-loaded home run in the 14th inning off Cub pitcher Jim Brewer with two out and the count three balls and two strikes. It was Harkness' first bases - loaded homer of his major-league career and his seventh round-tripper this season. He hit two homers last year in 92 games for Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Cubs apparently had won the game when Williams hit a two-run inside-the-park homer in the top of the 14th, the first Chicago hit in nine innings, from the fifth to the 14th.

In the bottom of the 14th, Jim Hickman and Ron Hunt singled but Hickman was out when he overran second. After Jim Piersall walked, Frank Thomas flied out and Sammy Taylor walked.

Harkness then hit his grand slammer.

BREWER TAKES LOSS

Brewer, seventh Cub pitcher was the loser and Galen Cisco, fifth to work for the Mets, was the winner.

Aided by three Met errors and a homer by Ellis Burton, the Cubs had opened up a 4-0 lead on Jackson by the fifth inning. Bob Buhl sagged in the sixth and the Mets scored three on Ron Hunt's single, Duke Snider's double and a two - run homer by Thomas.

Don Elston, who took over for Buhl at the start of the seventh, wavered in the eighth. Choo Choo Coleman, batting for Larry Bearnarth, walked and took second on a balk. With two out, Lindy McDaniel took over and walked Snider. Thomas followed with a single, driving in the tying run.

Miramichi Fred, an unraced four-year-old charcoal gelding, took the first and fourth races in 2.15-3 and 2.15-4, owned by Garnet Johnson of Sackville, the horse was driven by Charles Campbell, Jr.

The giant South American water lily, Victoria Regia, is white when it opens, later turns pink and on the second night of bloom is deep rose.

Yankee Star's Cast Removed

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankee star Mickey Mantle, sidelined since June 5, had the cast removed from his fractured left foot Wednesday and probably will be ready to play again July 11.

Mantle flew here from his home in Dallas for examination by Dr. Sidney Gaynor, club physician, who said x-ray examination showed "surprisingly fast healing" of the centre fielder's foot.

Belinsky Has New Steady

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bo Belinsky, decided Wednesday to report to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League.

The playboy southpaw on Saturday night dissolved the battery of Belinsky and Mamie Van Doren. He has since been dating Mrs. Ricky duPont. She is the wealthy widow of Francis V. duPont.

The two showed up at Chavez Ravine Tuesday night to watch Los Angeles Angels get clobbered 10-0 by Baltimore Orioles.

It was Bo's first visit to the park since May 24 when the Angels farmed him out to Hulaville. He balked at reporting and was placed off salary.

Mrs. duPont told newsmen at the ballpark: "Bo belongs down there on the field."

He apparently took her advice because he asked his lawyer, Paul Caruso, to make all the necessary arrangements to report.

Belinsky said he and Mrs. duPont are just friends.

Met Player Achieved Goal Set As Youngster Of 13

By JIM PEACOCK

NEW YORK (CP)—When he was 13 Tim Harkness set himself a personal goal—to play baseball in the major leagues. Within a decade he had achieved it.

Today, as a New York Met, the 25-year-old first baseman from Lachine, Que., is trying hard to preserve it.

"This is the most important year in my career," he said between batting-practice swings the other day at the Polo Grounds.

"If I can get a good batting average this year it will help my mental attitude and give me a lot more confidence. Then I'll be a lot more relaxed."

The night before, Harkness had helped his confidence. He made a key pick-off throw to home plate and smashed a game-winning home run for the National League's last - place Mets.

"He's a good boy," manager Casey Stengel had growled in the clubhouse. "He's hit two or three balls real good for us this year and he win us two, three ball games."

Harkness came to the Mets this season from Los Angeles Dodgers where, he said, "last year was wasted for me," although he appeared in 92 ball games. Most of his appearances were as a defensive replacement and he got to bat only 62 times—many of them as a pinch-hitter—and averaged .248 in spite of the mental pressure inherent in such circumstances with a pennant contender.

"I was kind of happy to come here," he said of the trade that brought him to the last-place Mets from last year's second-place Dodgers. "First of all, it's much closer to my home (he still lives with his wife and two children in the Montreal suburb where he was born, working in the off-season for a brewing company).

"Then I knew there wouldn't be as much pressure playing for a second-division club and I could find myself.

"But the main thing is that I get to play here."

Harkness appeared in 43 of the Mets' first 60 games and at that stage was batting less than .220 with five home runs. He'd been in a slump which Stengel said had coincided with an ankle injury — an injury Harkness didn't mention during the interview. Still, his 17 runs-batted-in was third best on the club.

Harkness broke into professional baseball in 1956 in the farm system of Philadelphia Phillies, was traded the next year to the Dodgers and travelled around various levels of minor league ball from Pony to Triple A with Spokane of the Pacific Coast League.

Late in 1961 the Dodgers called him up and in his first game he was walked as a pinch-hitter. His second appearance, also as a pinch-hitter, he grounded out. Next time—in St. Louis—he got his first major league hit and he still prefers the Cardinals' park for his hitting.

If he hadn't resolved as a youth to get into the major leagues—"I told myself when I was 13 that I'd play baseball in the majors by the time I was 23," he said — Harkness might have made it in professional hockey. He was invited to Montreal Canadiens junior A hockey camp in 1957 but his baseball bosses suggested he'd better make a choice and he took baseball.

MacKenzies To Play N.B. Team

We hear that MacKenzies softball team plan to play a Senior "A" team in Moncton in the near future. That should be a real test of just how good these greenshirts really are. Coach Fox has visions of turning Senior "A" this year, the result of this game might indicate whether his charges rae ready to give the top dogs in Maritime softball a run for honors.

Whether they are Senior "A" softball caliber or not may be at least the $32 question, but there is no question at all as to their ability to play baseball. They took those pround Junior Legionaires last night, and when we left the score was 15-3 for the Legion. We were starting to get dizzy watching the Juniors go round the bases so decided we bda seen enough.

Better Pitch With Pen

Jack Fox (remember him?) started on the mound for MacKenzies. It wasn't long before everyone knew that Jack can make a much better pitch with a fountain pen. And going around those bases was too much of a marathon for those greenshirts. The boys who did score had to receive first aid.

It will be interesting to see what happens if these teams decide to play a return game, this time with softball rules and base-lengths. It was discovered yesterday that the softball base-lengths were four feet too short, and they were lengthened accordingly. How those distances have been measured up to this time we cannot hazard even a wild guess. They must have been paced off by a guy with a multiple charley horse in both legs.

Can't Beat Softball Boys

Short or long bases, you can't take it away from those softball boys when it comes to long-ball hitting and dazzling fielding plays. No doubt some drag bunters got the benefit of those abbreviated paths, but such fellows as John Poirier, Harold Martin, Jim Jenkins, Doug Allen, Steve Phillips, John McLaren could sometimes run around those bases very close to twice after hitting that long ball. This does not excuse the mathematicians who drew up the softball diamond, however.

Coach Calls Signing 'Stab In The Back'

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Ottawa Rough Riders' signing of a star University of the Pacific football player Wednesday was called a stab in the back.

The charge was made in a statement by Pacific coach Rohde, who said Ottawa had signed Ted Watkins of Modesto, Calif., to a pro contract.

Rohde declared he had protested the signing to Commissioner Sid Hatter of the Canadian Football League and had been promised an investigation.

"It is like a stab in the back. Nobody has ever pulled such an underhanded stunt before," said Rohde.

COULD HAVE ASKED

"The thing that gripes me is that they did not pick up the telephone and ask, 'Is this boy eligible?'

"I would have told them that as a senior he had three more months, and an excellent chance as a top draft choice.

"Sure, he had family problems—a wife and a child—but if he had completed his schooling as a physical education major, he could have signed a good contract.

"I have no idea what Ottawa paid him, but it probably will cost him money in the long run."

Clair Believes Gap Filled

OTTAWA (CP)—Coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders said Wednesday he believes he has filled the gaping hole left by the retirement of all-star end Bob Simpson by the acquisition of Ted Watkins.

The Eastern Football Conference club announced the signing of Watkins, of the University of the Pacific. Because of scholastic difficulties, the 6-foot-3, 200-pound end won't be eligible to play his senior year at college. Clair said Watkins would have been a first or second draft choice of an American team next year.

The Riders also announced the signing of a Canadian-American halfback, Larry DeGraw, 22, six feet, 175 pounds from the University of Utah.
