AT CAPITOL THEATRE

"Streets of Laredo", one of Paramount's top Westerns and an outstanding success for William Holden will open a return engagement today at the Capitol Theatre. Starring Holden, William Bendix, Macdonald Carey and Mona Freeman, the film is a rousing story of the early Texas Rangers. Holden and Carey are seen as reckless outlaws whose loyalty to each other supersedes all else. Carey is the brains of the three and the most adroit, planning the stagecoach heists and cattle robberies they execute jointly. The story concerns the adventures that lead them to the parting of their ways—Holden and Bendix becoming Texas Rangers, and Carey continuing to terrorize the countryside with ever bolder lawlessness. However, despite the plan to make use of their pipeline to information as Rangers, events occur that cause Holden and Bendix to back out of their agreement with Carey, and instead to become loyal to the outfit. A showdown becomes inevitable as Carey goes on a rampage. Added fuel to the embers between the erstwhile friends is the romantic rivalry between Holden and Carey for fiery Mona Freeman, the gun-toting girl the Rangers call "Bobcat". It is she who finally resolves the conflict in a tense dramatic climax.

POULTRY AND A.P.E.C.

The survey of the poultry industry carried out by researchers people on the state of Atlantic provinces some time ago to the A.P.E.C. Agricultural Committee, accepted by them and has now been referred to the directors of the Federation of Agriculture for further study and action. As the report points out that the production but also in marketing as well. It is not easy to reorganize an entire industry over night, there will be resistance to change particularly if any attempt is made to impose changes in an arbitrary way. The solution of the problem lies in obtaining the co-operation of all involved to the end that the Poultry industry will develop into an even more important asset. EFFICIENCY: This is the age of efficiency every branch of industry stresses the importance of output per worker, returns on invested capital, and economy of operation. Some only responsibility is to promote efficiency, these are the efficiency experts. Agriculture has of course not escaped the attention of those who pay tribute to efficiency. Efficiency is the new key-note in farming and farmers are being exhorted to produce more per acre, more per worker, more per farm and to tidy up their operations generally. However, there are two types of efficiency which might be labelled technical efficiency and economic efficiency and they do not always go hand in hand. There are many farmers who operate their machinery carefully, who keep their place in repair, their stables clean, their yards tidied up and their livestock well fed but they do not make money. They are economically inefficient. On the other hand there are farmers who are more slipshod in their operation, they are always doing a little bit more work than they can do nearly, in some cases their machinery is neglected.

Glasgow area. For those (and there are many) who are not well acquainted with Junior Farmers organization it should be explained that the group takes in young farm people from roughly eighteen years of age to 30 and as such brings together a highly important cross-section of rural life. A visitor to the Junior Farmers social evening at St. Georges could not but fail to be impressed with the fine appearance of the individuals and their evident competence in the conduct of the meeting and the social period that followed. In numbers Junior Farmers are not strong on Prince Edward Island but the three groups that are active in St. Georges, New Glasgow and East Prince demonstrate that here is an age group of tremendous possibilities and which in the long run should be encouraged to develop their capabilities and expand their activities. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own homes without any discomfort or inconvenience. In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations. Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"
