ELLEN'S DIARY

Modern Men Say Money And Learning Important

Seedlings of panics, we transplanted today. The seed caught and grew in unexpected places. As it abundantly, as it would seem, other seeds have germinated and grown this spring, even the winged ones in the garden. In the yard about. And the faces of the blossoming panicles we have, are as sweet as the kittens, new-come, to the 7 baby, eat in the bay.

"The roses will soon be in bloom" Granddaughter reported coming by with Peter, after a tour of the flower-borders. And little Ben gets more observation these days than the little greenish goldfinch on her nest in the rookshrub, beyond a window of the kitchen.

"Hush! Let's not talk" Granddaughter will remain the youngest, or ones when they are outdoors at that neighborhood. "And mind, don't go near to look in the nest! Just don't think of doing that. Would you want her to lose her baby?"

"No!"

"Then we must take care" she will smile.

"Come and see the prettiest hummingbird — a tiny one with a bright necktie" they summoned us to the lawn this afternoon. And a ruby-throated one was here to add to the delight of our day.

So lovely June is, it is no wonder that it is a favorite month for weddings. And "What do modern men look for in the girls of their dreams?" an article we read recently questioned.

"Ready, grace, charm and generosity" reported college men in Imbrosch, Austria.

"But what do they look for in a wife?" it queried.

In order of preference the poll listed: "Money, intelligence of a profession, knowledge of housekeeping and motherhood," ability, common interests, amiability.
