Promoter Tommy Gorman Off On New Adventure

BY HAROLD MORRISON

If past performance is a criterion of future success, you can chalk up another one for the colorful Irishman, and write another chapter in the rags-to-riches story of the "miracle man" of sports promotion. Gorman has engineered the transfer of Jersey City of the International Baseball League to Ottawa. Bringing triple "A" ball to the capital is more than a business deal; it's an adventure in sportsmanship to widen the horizons of his favorite city. "The greatest little sports town in North America."

Will he be successful? Well, look back and see where he started: A boy shovelling coal of the age of nine; a parliamentary page who became a sports editor; a lacrosse Olympic star who later managed seven Stanley Cup hockey teams; a sports promoter who took Barbara Ann Scott across Canada and piled up gross earnings for the figure skating show of $1,000,000.

"Four years ago when I thought of bringing class 'C' baseball to Ottawa, some of my friends in Montreal laughed," Gorman said in an interview.

"Well, we showed them. The Nationals opened up in 1947 with a gate of 203 or 300 in the stands. This year we brought in a total of 125,000 and we made money. "If we could do that with class 'C' ball, what can we do with triple 'A' international? It may sound fantastic, but triple 'A' ball is here to stay."

The way Gorman makes it sound, you can believe it.

At 62, he's as "strong as a horse." He doesn't smoke or drink and he doesn't play cards. His life is wrapped up in sports. He's fair-haired, weighs about 180 pounds and stands about five feet, 11 inches.

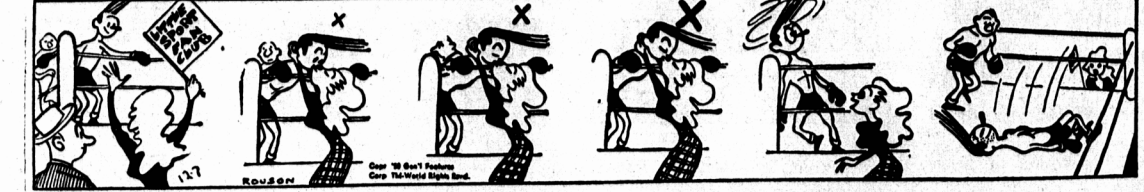

When Gorman started out in the realm of sports he had hardly a dime to his name. He borrowed $2,500 in 1918 to buy the assets of the Ottawa Hockey Association in partnership with Ted Day. The same year he sat in on the formation of the National Hockey League. Of the quartet that gave birth to the league, Gorman is the only survivor.

Then he began wandering through the managing ranks of the National Hockey League. He finished in 1946 with seven Stanley Cup winners: Three with Ottawa Senators in 1920, 1921, 1923; one with Chicago Black Hawks in 1934; one with Montreal Maroons in 1935 and two with Montreal Canadiens in 1944 and 1946.

While referee, linesmen and some players were endeavouring to break up the main centre of action, other players were pairing off in individual battles as the heat of action rose to the boiling point. Finally breaking things up on the ice, Powers tried to renew the action with Horeck in the penalty box, and this time City Police provided the strong arm to quell the action. But the two Dan's, Wilkes and Horeck, who had tangled earlier in the fray, decided that they still had a score to settle with one another.

Re-opening hostilities on the ice right in front of the penalty box, the boys never got any farther than a single exchange before it was broken up and both accompanied Powers to the dressing rooms with match misconducts. From all appearances, nobody re-

Flanagan Scores Upset In Decision Over Saddler

By JACK HANB

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 7 — (AP) — Baseball's minor leagues have taken their radio problem to Washington.

George Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, said today he conferred for 30 minutes with the U.S. Attorney-General last week on the matter of baseball broadcasts.

He declined to disclose what he had been told.

Trautman and his executive committee huddled with Commissioner A.B. Chandler and a major league committee on the radio situation. The solution still has not been announced. Perhaps it will come out of tomorrow's closed executive session.

The minors claim widespread broadcasts of major league games in their cities was an important factor in their 19-per-cent attendance decline. They are asking the majors, who control the rights, for relief.

Indications were that the majors, alert to the situation, would make concessions.

In 1950 the broadcasts were piped into the minor cities except when the minor club actually was playing at home — or 40 minutes before game time. As most of the minors played at night, this left the afternoons wide open for the big league games.

The minors claim fans heard so much baseball during the day that they didn't bother going out to see the minor league game at night.

Just how far the majors are willing to go in curtailing these broadcasts is not known. But some changes may be made.

The Department of Justice is interested from a restraint of trade possibly standpoint. It has made no public rule on the matter but has discussed the problem with big league lawyers and executives several times.

The high school rule, under fire for some time, probably will be scrapped when the contract runs out, Dec. 31, 1951. Many baseball men want the right to talk to and negotiate with high school players before they graduate. Under the present rule, no high school boy can be signed until he or his class graduates.

The minors polished off their "delayed" draft by selecting six more players for $9,800. The final total of the three-day selection was 154 players for $345,700. Last year 222 were drafted for $449,050.

Players selected at today's final draft session included:

Class B. Florida International League (3). West Palm Beach, Fla. — Outfielder Garland Lawing from Quebec of the Canadian-American League.

Havana — Pitcher Reuben Gomez from St. Jean, Quebec, of the Provincial League.

There was little action in the player mart. Chicago White Sox peddled outfielder Johnny Ostrowski to Toronto for an undisclosed sum.

Brooklyn's Chuck Dressen hired Cookie Lavagetto as his coach.

Return of Lavagetto, who ruined Bill Bevens' no-hit bid in the 1947 World Series, was believed a popular move with Dodger fans.

Mike Ryba, who stepped down as Louisville manager, let it be known that he would be connected with the St. Louis Cardinal organization next summer as a coach or manager.

Mike Ryba, who stepped down as Louisville manager, let it be known that he would be connected with the St. Louis Cardinal organization next summer as a coach or manager.

Referee Bradshaw, after the game, admitted that he had made a mistake when he faced the puck off without checking the time first, but there was no alternative when official timers informed him that the period was definitely over when the puck went in the net. Officials confirmed the latter fact following the game. It is unfortunate however, that Favaro, the league's leading sharpshooter, was denied the points after a deserving effort. It was at least, the third time this season that the Islanders red-hatched right winger had lost out in that respect.

HOCKEY EXECUTIVE ACTION

Sir,—May I begin by stating, that I am not writing as an individual but on behalf of a large number of members of the P. E. Islanders Hockey Club (whose names, if required are readily available), and whom I wholeheartedly agree on the following subject.

The animosity, which has suddenly arisen within our ranks, is felt by many of us to be thoroughly unnecessary and should be causing our executive no little concern.

It was indeed unfortunate that on Tuesday night, the delight, which we watched our boys so decisively trounce "the so-called team to beat" had to be overshadowed by the news, that our executive, at a meeting held immediately before the game, had decided not to string along with our President, I say "our President", because I was at the meeting last summer when we unanimously voted Tom Rogers in as President. I have been among the many who have acclaimed him for the splendid job he has done since this Club was in its embryo stage and I was among the 300 Club members who rose and gave him the ovation he deserved on Monday night, as we carried a vote of confidence in him. However, I was also among the many who voiced my utter disgust, upon learning that, less than 24 hours after we enthusiastically made Tom Rogers the recipient of the heartiest vote of confidence I have ever witnessed anywhere, our executive saw fit to replace him.

There is a point which should be made perfectly clear, however. I personally hold nothing but respect for Dr. Dougan, and this is the opinion of practically everyone to whom I spoke yesterday. I quite realize what Dr. Charlie has contributed to sport in Charlottetown and would not question for one moment his qualifications or ability to lead our Hockey Club. I hold him in the highest esteem and personally gave him two votes, when we elected our executive on Monday night. But these facts, pertinent though they may be, do not explain why Dr. Charlie or anyone else should replace Tom Rogers as our President against the wish so obviously expressed by some 300 of us on Monday night.

I can assure you, Sir, that had we had the slightest suspicion that this truly would have moved, seconded, carried and placed on record, that our wish was to have Tom Rogers carry on until he saw fit to resign or was no longer doing a satisfactory job.

For the information of those who do not know, when we were attempting to organize this Club, I brought in more pledges than anyone, but our good friend Roddy MacDonald, I have been at every single Club meeting and my wife and I have missed only one hockey game. Furthermore, I don't intend to complain about the extra 10c and suggest that our anonymous friend of last Friday forego his hot dog and do likewise. I therefore feel that I am qualified to act as spokesman for a rink-full of good club members and respectfully submit that a mistake has been made and ask of our Executive to please explain (at a special meeting), why the man who fostered this idea, who has shown a profound interest at all times, who has dug into his own pocket for advertising, etc., to an extent which few of us appreciate, who has rallied us at times when many of us were willing to throw in the sponge, who has got on famously with both players and club members, now that everything he has hoped and (prayed) for is coming about, has been replaced. To my mind, man's inhumanity to man is never more obvious than in one's own backyard—if we must show ingratitude—let it not be to Tom Rogers.

I am, Sir, etc.
VERNON L. MACDONALD.

Discuss Rink For Belle River

Last evening about fifty enthusiastic citizens of Belle River and surrounding settlements met in the Hall at Belle River under the chairmanship of Rev. E. S. Hales, to discuss the possibility of erecting an open air rink for the recreation and physical development of citizens of that area.

After a few remarks by Bill Reid, Provincial Director of Physical Fitness, a general discussion was held followed by an election of officers to head up an organization to make a canvass of the area to check on the support available and to later give leadership to the actual construction of an open air rink. Officers elected were as follows:—President, Rev. E. S. Hales; Secretary-treasurer, J. E. Cooke; directors, Carl MacLeod, Wendell MacMillan, Ben Bears, Alex Compton, Stuart Ross, Elliott Ross, Alex Beaton, Waldo Taylor, Elwyn MacMillan and Chester Hancock.

Halifax St. Mary's In 8-1 Victory Over Moncton

Islanders Club Directors Meet

Directors of the Islanders Hockey Club, Inc. held a scheduled meeting at the Forum last night to discuss routine affairs.

It was revealed later that rumors that one or two players in addition to Kevin Conway were negotiating for transfers to professional clubs were entirely without foundation. Likewise the story given credence in some quarters that the club was being moved to Amherst was branded as "ridiculous."

It was also announced at a meeting that the deal concerning a midway moving to the Pacific Coast Hockey League has not been closed.

Transportation arrangements for the game at Amherst with Moncton on Monday night were talked over, keeping in mind that a number of fans might accompany the team if a return to the Island can be made the same night. An announcement will be made later if the car ferry crossings are suitable.

The resignation of Major T. B. Rogers as a Club Director was accepted with regret. Major Rogers was elected as 1st Vice-President of the Club at a directors meeting Tuesday night, but asked to be excused from accepting the office.
