The cast for Monday night is a strong one, and all may depend upon seeing a splendid performance.

PROWSE BROS.,

The Wonderful Cheap Men.

Humbug or no Humbug

When Barnum said that the people likes to be fooled, he did not live in Charlottetown or he never would have made such a statement, and he would have found out—like our competitors by bitter experience—that no amount of fooling with large flaring advertisements, offering one line of goods for half what they cost, and charging double price for another, would soon win the confidence of the people away from our wonderful cheap departments. Notwithstanding the hard times and low prices, our trade is increasing every month and every year. Square honest goods at square honest prices is what the people want, and that is what they get in our store.

CARPETS, CLTHING & HATS are our three great lines.

LEG BROKEN.—An old man named Patrick McAleer, employed digging the cellar of the new cathedral, had one of his legs broken this forenoon by the falling of some clay. Dr. Kelly set the injured limb, and Mr. McAleer is doing as well as possible.

DIED ABROAD.—The Winthrop, Mass., Sun contains a lengthy obituary notice of Mr. Arthur H. McLaughlin, who died of heart trouble at that place recently. Mr. McLauchlin was born in September, 1868, at Hillsborough, Prince Edward Island, and there the early years of his life were passed. He attended the public school at Hillsborough until he entered the Prince of Wales College, from which he graduated at the age of eighteen years. After graduating he taught school for two years, or until he went to Winthrop, in which town he had lived for eight years before his death. Mr McLauchlin was deservedly respected and esteemed by all who knew him.

MOUNT STEWART.

A Splendid Meeting at Which Messrs. Martin, Welsh and Others Speak

A splendid meeting was held at Mount Stewart last evening. There was a large audience present, which included a number of ladies.

A. Martin, Esq., was the first speaker, and gave an able review of the leading public questions of the day, in which his exposure of the grit back-down on the trade question was complete in every particular. He then took up the school question, the railway branches, prohibition, &c., and from beginning to end held the people's undivided attention, which was broken only by frequent applause.

He was followed by Mr. Welsh, who repeated his former statements in re the Chignecto Railway, and read a set of resolutions respecting the death of Bishop Ryan, of Buffalo, which occasioned great mirth in the meeting, on account of the solemn and deeply reverent tones of the speaker.

In the order arranged by the candidates, Mr. P. McCourt was then called upon and well received. He took up Mr. Welsh's speech, point after point, and called attention to the strange spectacle of Mr. Welsh and Mr. Davies voting against each other on many important matters. He spoke for half an hour, and received hearty applause on taking his seat.

Hon. F. Peters, who had been stalking around the platform posting Mr. Welsh and taking notes generally, then came forward, unbidden, and amid dead silence. He spoke of the exodus and the enormous debt and taxation of the Dominion, palmed off a lot of chestnuts on protection, a subject on which it was perfectly clear he was not well informed, and resumed his seat without a sound of approval.

The friends of Mr. Martin are more than pleased with the prospects at Mount Stewart. It is clear that the Peters boom is a thing of the past. As in every place else he was met with a frown, and found it impossible to excite the slightest indication of approval. Even Mr. Sol Clarke refused to attend the meeting.

The electors are having rare fun over the reports of meetings at Winsloe, Tracadie Cross and other places which have appeared in the Patriot. These reports are repudiated by Welsh and Peters, who are evidently ashamed of them and declare that they had no part in writing them.

The meeting at Mount Stewart, which was presided over by W. H. Douglass, Esq., was in every way creditable to the village and the audience and augured well for the success of Mr. Martin.

NEWS NOTES.

Cholera is gaining in many parts of Egypt and is spreading to an alarming extent in Alexandria and Cairo.

It is said the income of Cecil Rhodes as managing director of the Consolidated Gold Fields Company last year exceeded $1,650,000.

The gifts to colleges, churches, libraries and public charities in the United States last year amounted to $28,944,549, against $19,967,116 in 1894.

The congregation of a church at Fillmore, Cal., has invited its pastor to resign because he accepted contributions for church work from sporting men and saloon keepers.

Encircling the throat of a baby left on a doorstep at Day's Ferry, Me., was a card to which was attached an envelope containing $500 in bank notes and these words: "When this is gone there is more where this came from."

Sam Small, an Indian living on Pyramid Reservation, Nevada, becoming jealous of his wife and her paramour, shot and killed both. The murderer was arrested and placed in Wadsworth jail, where he committed suicide by hanging himself.

In Spain the feeling continues to be pretty bitter against the United States, so much so that at Barcelona the guard around the American Consulate has been increased, and official vigilance has been exerted to prevent anti-American demonstrations.

Professor Roentgen dislikes being lionized. He recently intended to spend a few days in Florence, Italy, but hardly had his arrival become known when 200 students came to salute him. He told them bluntly they would have done better to attend their lectures. Later, on hearing that other demonstrations were planned, he took the first train and left the city.

A London paper states that the Society of Arts have agreed, the owner and tenant consenting, to affix on the house of John Keats, in Kent Street, Hampstead, a memorial tablet. It was there that Keats lodged during the period 1817-1820, and the house is one of the two that were formerly called Wentworth Place, and was once occupied by Charles Wentworth Dilke and Charles Armitage Brown. It is now known as "Lawn Bank." In the other house Mrs. Bawne and her daughter Fanny lived, with whom, according to Howitt, Keats and his younger brother Thomas, who died in 1818, had lived before they removed to Mr. Brown's next door; and W. M. Rosetti says, in his edition of Keats' poetical works, that Fanny Bawne was for a time an inmate of Mr. Brown's house "to be out of the way of some domestic discomfort." The identity of "Lawn Bank" has long been a vexed question among the admirers of the poet, and it was not determined until Mr. Sidney Colvin, in the Athenæum of September 12th, 1885, described a visit he made there.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A READER'S PROTEST.

SIR,—I understand the editor of the Guardian at the commencement of this campaign offered the Conservatives and Liberals half a column space in that paper every day in which to discuss the questions at issue in the coming election campaign. When I heard of this offer I thought it was a very kind one. Yesterday morning, however, on reading that paper, I find that every column in it is given to the Liberal writer, editorial column and all, and the Conservative writer still gets but his half column.

The Patriot newspaper I have always understood was the organ of the Liberal party here. But if yesterday morning's Guardian is a sample of the contents of that paper, I would suggest that the patronage of the Liberal party be given to it instead of the Patriot, as they will get much better value for their money. At any rate the Guardian should certainly cease to call itself independent.

A DISGUSTED GUARDIAN READER.

KEEP THEM BACK.

SIR,—The Montreal Witness, the organ of the Laurier-Tarte party, recently suggested, with reference to Grit boodlers, that they be kept out of sight. Such notorious corruptionists as Prefontaine, McShane, Tarte and others of the so-called Liberal ranks do more harm than good to their party when they make their appearance at public meetings. Mr. Laurier has been shrewdly advised by that notoriously Grit organ, the Montreal Witness, when it suggested to its leader the propriety of keeping out of sight the men of soiled hands, polluted by deeds of dishonesty and corruption. The Grit organs of our Mr. L H Davies, the Grit leader of the organized hypocrisy of the Maritime Provinces, should take the hint from the advice given to Mr. Laurier by his own organ, and administer a like advice to their leader, Mr. Davies, to keep back and out of sight of public meetings our notorious local government boodler, who has already, during his short rule, sunk the Province into debt to an alarming extent—bordering on five hundred thousand dollars—and at the close of the last session added an additional burden of seventy-five thousand dollars to our already overburdened farmers. Keep him out of sight, Mr. Davies.

OBSERVER.

MR DAVIES' COWARDICE

SIR,—In striking contrast with the conduct of Mr. Davies in selecting a constituency is that of Messrs. Angers, Taillon and Desjardins They gave up safe and good positions to run for seats in the commons, not seats held by their own party friends but by their opponents. So great is their confidence in the hold that the N. P. has taken on the minds of the electors they are ready to risk everything and march into the enemy's camp and redeem the seats usurped by means of $35,000 stolen from the Quebec treasury.

Mr. Davies, on the other hand, chooses what he thinks is a soft and easy seat which he can take without risk or trouble. It is currently reported that Mr. Welsh, having lost confidence in his ability to hold his seat in the east riding, refused to run unless his expenses were guaranteed. Wise man, he does not want to lose the seat and his money too. Had Davies possessed the courage to rush into the breach caused by Welsh's defection and fight the hard constituency he might have put Mr. Laird up for West Queen's. But this did not suit his views. The bitter enmity of the Davies faction, and the well grounded fear that Mr. Laird, if elected, might divide the honors with him at Ottawa, effectively prevented this consummation. The Hon. David Laird is in point of ability and statesmanship as much above Messrs. Laurier and Davies as it is possible to conceive, yet he is made the Cinderella of the party, washing the dirty political dishes and sweeping the floor when he should be in the parlor. But like the Cinderella of the story Mr. Laird will some day take his rightful place in the Liberal party, and show his superiority in every respect to those who are now keeping him down.
