SECOND EDITION

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

FEBRUARY 3, 1880

POPULAR risings have occurred in County Armagh, in opposition to attempts to evict tenants who refused to pay their rent. Incendiary fires are also reported from the same part.

A CONSIDERABLE force of Hindoos from the Nagas Hill territory have made a raid into the adjoining portion of Bengal, laying waste and destroying numerous tea gardens, and killing the managers. It is rumored that the affair is due to the influence of malcontents in British Burmah.

A COMPARISON of the budgets of Europe shows that France and Russia have the heaviest. Germany's is double what it was in 1865. Those of Italy and Austria are the only ones which show reductions in military expenses. It is to be noticed that France is steadily and patiently increasing her armaments.

THERE is much distress among the poorer class of fishermen in the neighborhood of Halifax, but the mild weather of the present winter has enabled them so far to eke out a living. Should severe weather put in, it is feared much suffering will be experienced and the charitably disposed of Halifax are called on for help.

TOKYO, Japan, has been devastated by three terrible fires in the last seven years. The last, which took place towards the close of December, laid waste several square miles of the city, destroyed fifteen thousand houses and left a proportional number of persons without shelter, and a large number without food. The foreign quarter was almost entirely consumed, and several missionary establishments have been reduced to ruin. Over a hundred persons were killed or fatally injured.

PREPARATIONS for a renewal of the exodus from the Ottawa valley to Manitoba have begun. The first party will leave Ottawa on March 2nd, and is expected to make the journey in four and a half days. No doubt, a similar movement will take place in most of the older sections of the Province. The indications are that the British farmers, with a small capital, about to set out for Canada, will find many farms cleared to their hand awaiting purchase in Ontario.

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York Sun asked, "Why are white cats deaf?" and a learned M. D. replies: "Because the splenic lymph that in black cats permeates the cephalic region and exercises its normal functions in those secretions which absorb the adipose liquefactions in their transfusion through the minute ramifications in which they are conveyed to the cephalic protuberances has no primor condition of existence in the white cat. This defect destroys the nerves, thus rendering the auricular organs impervious to sound." It strikes us that this is the correct answer.

News has reached Calcutta that the executions at Mandalay are still continued with unabated cruelty. One of the newly-created princes has lately been put to death, ostensibly for aspiring too high in his amours, and five sisters of the Phongzai have also been executed on the pretext that they were in correspondence with the Nyoung Yan Prince, but really, it is believed, because they had the misfortune to become the objects of the Chief Queen's jealousy. The line, however, is not drawn at royal blood, or even at natives of Burmah. Two Ponnas, or Manipuri Brahmans, with three Burmese attendants, have been put to death, whether on ground of their having undertaken to procure poison to be used on the King, or for devotion to the cause of the Nyoung Yan Prince, is uncertain. It is stated that the Chief Queen's eldest sister, Soopayahyee, has been concerned in an attempt to administer poison to the King and Queen. True or false, such stories of palace intrigues are made the excuse for remorselessly despatching those who have incurred the displeasure of the King or his favorites.

ABOUT a month ago, Detective Richardson, while at the Bonaventure, (Quebec), depot, had his attention called to the strange appearance of a young woman who was standing with a valise beside the western train. In conversation with her he soon learned that her mind was deranged, as she talked incoherently about going on her wedding trip, and about her engagement ring. She was at once removed to the Chaboillez Square Police Station, when she could only be quieted by being allowed paper and pen to write. A gentleman hearing of her case went to the young man to whom she said she was engaged, and asked him to go and see her. He replied that he would never marry her and would not go near her. The gentleman asked him to come and tell her so, thinking perhaps that the shock would have a favorable effect upon her, but the young man still declined. "Well," said the gentleman, "you need not be surprised if you see her here in twenty minutes, for I will bring her to see you." The young fellow uttered a threat of violence if she were brought in, and the gentleman went away. This was about two weeks ago, and the girl is still in custody, being quite insane. But since then the young man who so indignantly refused to see her has also lost his reason, and now it is said is a fit subject for an asylum.

MISCELLANEOUS.

It is often a pretty good matrimonial firm that consists of three-quarters wife and one-quarter husband.

The Saturday Review contrasts the foreign policy of Lord Beaconsfield with that of Mr. Gladstone, by saying that the latter is "pledged to exchange the foreign policy of the lion, for the foreign policy of the ostrich." The pigram is apt and accurate, and will no doubt be largely adopted as the definition of the two policies.

M. Nicholas de Nasattine says that the aroma of fruit increases with the latitude, while the sweetness decreases. Northern trees have flowers and foliage of vivid colors, and herbs of the north contain more essential oil than those of the south—all this being due to the prolonged light of summer months in Northern climes.

You may strengthen your voice by reading or reciting for a short time daily, in the highest speaking tone which you can comfortably maintain; in singing, exercise the highest notes of the voice, but do not dwell on those which you can only reach with difficulty. Avoid taking pastry, cakes, nuts, cream or coffee when about to sing.

A vacant mind takes all the meaning out of the fairest face. A sensual disposition deforms the handsomest features. A cold, selfish heart shrivels the best looks. A mean, grovelling spirit take all the dignity out of the figure and all the character out of the countenance. A cherished hatred transforms the most beautiful lineaments into an image of ugliness.

A new and very valuable iron magnetic mine, judging from a specimen shown a few days ago, is now being opened up on lot 2, in the second concession of Madoc. A gang of men have been at work for some time getting out ore, and preparations are being made to ship 2,000 tons this winter. It not only promises to be rich, but of vast extent. It is owned by Messrs. Pusey, Weed and O'Hara. A firm in Youngstown, Ohio, have been working for some time past what is known as the Sexsmith iron mine in the seventh concession, lot 8, in Madoc, two miles and a half from the line of railway. It proves thus far to be a large deposit of superior magnetic ore, and a considerable quantity is being delivered on the line of railway preparatory to shipment.

A CHILD BOILED.—It has been demonstrated in St. Catherine's that a woman may forget her child long enough at least to bring very serious injury upon it. A mother, thinking to wash her baby, found the water too cool, and the fire almost out. While re-kindling the one to warm the other, she put the naked infant on the barely warm stove. A noise of fighting dogs in the yard, and fears for her clean clothes on the line, then caused the woman to run out, and the new excitement filled her mind so that she left her baby on the stove till the fire burned up, badly burning the little one. Medical care has saved its life, and now the mother makes up for her forgetfulness by extra care and love.

Frank Brice, an English sailor, bid good-bye to his wife in the winter of 1865 and set sail from Liverpool for the Newfoundland fisheries. A year later news reached his home, near London, that Brice, with all his messmates, had gone down in a gale. Mrs. Brice then looked to her husband's brother, Fred H. Brice, for support, and came with the latter's family to America. But Frank, having floated on a raft for three days, had been picked up by a whaling vessel. Two years after his departure he landed again at Liverpool and sought his family. All traces of them were gone. Of a roving disposition, Frank then enlisted in the Pacific Mail service. He went round and round the world, meeting with many adventures. One night last November he found himself in San Francisco and face to face with his brother Fred, who had gone thither from Kansas City on business. He accompanied his brother to Kansas City, where Mrs. Brice was living in supposed widowhood.

Geneva is menaced with a serious calamity. Some time ago the Duke of Brunswick left his enormous fortune in Geneva by a quaintly worded testament, to which the municipality in due course administered as universal legatee. Grateful for the magnificent bequest willed to it by Charles Frederick, the city erected a costly equestrian statue to his memory, laid out the pleasure grounds, and founded schools upon the strength of the Brunswickian heritage, valued at several millions of francs. Meanwhile the "agnates" of the Brunswick-Luneberg Ducal House took legal steps to dispute the validity of Duke Charles's will, upon the ground that, at the time he executed that document he was "non compos mentis," a circumstance which under the Brunswick State Laws of the 6th and 14th March, 1873, would render his testamentary dispositions null and void. The case thus raised has been tried before the Brunswick tribunals, which have given sentence against Geneva, declaring his Highness's will, under which that city claims his inheritance, to be invalid. Geneva has signified her intention to appeal to still higher courts; but, as it would appear the leading jurists of Germany are of opinion that the decision of the Brunswick tribunals, will be in every respect confirmed. Should this prove to be the case, Geneva will have spent an enormous sum of money in honor of Duke Charles, and to her own manifest embellishment; but instead of deriving it from the proceeds of the celebrated Brunswick brilliants, she will have to pay it out of her own pocket.
